

Easter Services in Igloo as Sun Rises On Sunday Morning

President Erb Will Give Welcome Address; Rev. Tully Will Offer Main Sermon; Hal Young Will Lead Singing

With the first graying of dawn, at 6:30 o'clock Easter morning, McArthur court will be the scene of a non-sectarian religious service, the annual Easter sunrise service, sponsored by the University Student Christian council, and the ministerial association.

President Donald M. Erb will deliver a welcoming address on behalf of the University, and the regular sermon will be given by Rev. Norman K. Tully of the First Presbyterian church in Eugene, and entitled "The Soul's Invincible Surmise."

Special musical numbers have been prepared for the program. Among these will be the religious favorite "Lead on Oh King Eternal." Granier's "Hosanna" will be given as tenor solo by Hal Young, professor of voice, who will direct the singing.

The combined choirs of all the churches in the city into one large musical group will assist in the musical part of the program.

Resurrection Will Be Retold in Churches At Services Sunday

By BETTY JANE THOMPSON
(Emerald Church Editor)

Once again the people of the world will pause on Easter Sunday to celebrate that joyous Resurrection and to rededicate themselves anew to the way of life which Christ proposed to men.

The story of the hope and joy that came to those early Christians on the first Easter morning will be retold in song and sermon as congregations gather in Eugene churches to join in singing hymns of praise and to listen to specially prepared musical programs. Services for the evening will be entirely of a concert nature.

Probably the first sound many people will hear on Sunday morning will be the strains of the "Doxology."

Simple and yet appropriate for the day is this hymn of worship and praise. At 6:15 a brass quartet composed of Robert Douglas, Robert Smith, Paul Anderson, and Ed Waisanan, will play the hymn from the top of Gerlinger hall, announcing to townspeople and students that Easter morning has arrived, that the Easter sunrise services at McArthur court will begin in fifteen minutes.

Several young people's societies will hold Easter breakfasts at 8 o'clock following the service at McArthur court. The Central Lutheran young people's group has invited all Lutheran students to breakfast at the church. Cars will be at Gerlinger for those wishing transportation. Other groups holding breakfast at the church are the Baptist and Central Presbyterian young people. Easter breakfast will be served at the Anchorage for young people of the Christian church.

Two worship services will be held at the Congregational church. Sunday school will be omitted and

Commonwealth Conference Will Meet on Monday

Crime Prevention and Penal Treatment Is Subject

The problems of crime prevention and treatment of criminals will be attacked from all sides, when the Commonwealth conference meets on the campus April 18, 19, 20 according to Dr. P. A. Parsons, head of the sociology department and chairman of the session.

The conference is to consist of citizens who are directly interested in crime and its prevention, and a number of people who are making special studies of youth activities and recreation, Dr. Parsons announced.

Listed among the authorities who will be speakers are many well known experts on crime problems. Inspector W. H. Drane, FBI, Washington; Judge Richard Hartshorne, chairman of the Interstate Commission in Crime; and R. E. Elwell, legal counsel, Prison Industries Reorganization administration, Washington, will present their phases of the problem.

Sponsors of the conference, the Commonwealth Federation, hope that a definite program to be submitted to the state legislature next winter will evolve out of the session.

Descriptive Leaflet Published by State

The state highway department, under the direction of Harold Say, former journalism student of the University, is publishing several thousand leaflets in color, illustrating the geological features of the state, as described by Warren D. Smith, head of the geology and geography departments of the University; and the plants and flowers of the state, as described by Helen Gilkey of Oregon State college.

The booklet contains a map of the state and verifying photos of the flowers attractively arranged in color. A brief description of the important scenic places of the state is also given.

MILLER GETS POSITION

Richard F. Miller, graduate, '36, will join the faculty of Willamette university next fall for the school year 1938-39. He will replace Professor E. S. Oliver of the English department. Miller received his master of arts degree last year at Columbia university, New York.

Easter Celebration Traced Back To Time of Pagan Anglo-Saxons

By PAT ERICKSON

It all started way back in Anglo-Saxon times with a pagan goddess, "Eostre," the spirit of spring.

That is, this business of wearing bright plumage and celebrating our otherwise solemn Easter day in a jubilant fashion, which now more than ever is coming into vogue.

"Eostre" was the object of an annual spring festival where exuberant joy reigned everywhere. It was one of those things which would not be weeded out, and so upon the fixation of the time of the Christian celebration of Easter by the council of Niceaea in 325 A.D., the pagan festival was combined with the Christian to form the rites we now recognize.

Happiness, and a general new burst of energies, ruled supreme at "Eostre's" court, and those together with the idea that at last spring has come, (if it doesn't rain.)

Easter tomorrow starts with the sunrise service in McArthur court.

Bright new garments will be exhibited everywhere, and if it's a sunshiny day like Easter should be, and usually isn't, "Eostre" should be satisfied with her modern followers.

Send the Emerald home. Your folks will enjoy reading it.
