DUCK OUACKS

By BEULALH CHAPMAN

For an active afternoon in sports, it's hard to beat today's offerings. Nearly every team in both varsity and frosh sports is seeing action. Away-from-home events include the baseball game at Moscow, track meet at Corvallis, and tennis match at Salem. At home, the Frosh baseball nine meets the Rooks and the frosh golf team meets Oregon State's team.

In face of the warning not to count one's chickens before they hatch, we venture that it looks like a clean northwest sweep for the trackmen this spring. Only Oregon State is left to conquer, and our fellows will be down in Corvallis this afternoon to see to that.

By the way, those track enthustasts who are-unable to be at the meet can listen to it over the radio. It will be broadcast over KORE beginning at 2 o'clock.

If there is a repeat on yesterday's warm weather we may expect real action from Pole-vaulting George Varoff. So far this year he has gone only 13 feet 6 inches; but, according to reports, he is a warm weather jumper, loosening up as the sun gets hotter. It was a warm day last spring when he topped 14 feet for the first time in the season.

Baseball outlook is not so promising. Just about a year ago the varsity team left for its six-game road trip north. It came back with the northern division penmant, having won all six games. This year the team must take every game on the road trip to stay in the running for the pennant.

Oregon spectators at a baseball game defy all descriptions of how American watchers of the horsehide pastime are supposed to act. According to all the best stories, movies, and cartoons excited spectators jump up and down on each other's feet and bash in straw hats in tense moments of play. All spectators, according to this description, are loud and persistent in their demands for hits, runs, or the ousting of the umpire.

We strongly suspect that this traditional description is applicable in most cases. Indeed, your writer recalls her earliest introduction to the game at the age of 6 or 7 in a tiny community in a more remote part of Oregon. When our community team played ball with ne ghboring settlements on a Sunday afternoon, the whole valley resounded with the cries of enthusiastic supporters. Men nearly came to blows and women suppoeting different teams didn't speak for months because of what they said to each other in the grandstand.

Not so at Oregon. Spectators here rival the traditional English calm in watching games. The only time they jump to their feet is between innings for a bit of a stretch, and their loudest cry is a prolonged "oooh" when a batter (of either team) swats one especially hard.

Even at the season's opening game here the near - capacity erowd clapped equally euthusias-Lically for all good plays regardless of which team made them.

Quacklings: Bob Smith, varsity baseball outfielder, did not get to make the inland empire trip because of a flip of a coin. Limited to a 15-min squad, Hobson was forced to choose between Ken Bat-

Cook Is Medalist; Play Oregon State Match Here Today

Oregon golfers marched one step forward toward the northwest championship yesterday when they trounced the College of Puget Sound 20 to 2 on the Eugene country club golf course.

Ben Hughes was medalist in the doubles matches with a 70, and Louis Cook was medalist in the single matches with a 73. Coach-Captain Walt Cline was the only Oregon man not taking his opponent. He played Stoeffel, who was two under par on the second side to break even.

This is the second time this year the Webfoot golfers have been victors over the Loggers. The last match with the squad was taken in interest with Broad-jumper Rob-Tacoma with a 201/2 to 61/2 count.

Today the squad meets Oregon State's varsity on the Country club course. If Oregon wins the match they will be in running for the northwest championship.

Next Saturday a four-man squad will play in a tournament of all northwest teams at Moscow, Idaho. Walt Cline, Doc Near, Will Watson, and either Ben Hughes or Kirk Eldridge will probably make

Dual Meet Records May Be Broken at Oregon-OSC Race

Seven Oregon-Oregon State dual meet records will be in dange today when Webfoot and Beaver trackmen clash at Corvallis.

Events in which records may tumble before the assault of rival cindermen are the 100-yard dash, 880-yard run, 220-yard low hurdles, discus, broa jump, and mile relay.

The all-time mark for the century is 9.8 seconds, and Oregon's cyclone Mack Robinson has clipped two-tenths of a second off this time in meets at Eugene this season. Half-Mile Record Threatened

If the Oregon State track is in top condition, there is also a possibility of the half-mile record being topped. Kirman Storli has run the 880 in 1:55 and Dave Lewis and Jimmy Schriver have not been far off the pace. The record is 1:56.2.

As for the discus, Captain Len Holland of Oregon has been hitting around 147 feet all season, and should he be able to flip it out another three feet this afternoon he would eclipse the mark of 150 feet 6 inches set by Oregon's Bob Moeller in 1930.

Both jumps will be centers of inson of Oregon and High-jumper Benny DeFresne of Oregon State competing. Robinson broke all existing northern division marks

Many Applications Received for Jobs

Several hundred applications for vacation work have been received at the University employment office this spring.

Chief demand for summer workers is in unskilled rather than skilled labor. In Eugene, the cannery offers the best opportunity for seasonal work for residents. Resort owners at the coast have not yet reported their needs for the summer but unsettled conditions in Europe are expected to increase coast tourist trade.

last week, landing 24 feet 105% inches. DeFresne has cleared 6 feet 5 inches this year.

Robinson may also menace the low hurdle mark of 24.4, but Colonel Bill Hayward, Webfoot coach, does not depend on this because the hurdles will be around a curve and not on a straightaway as on Hayward field.
