

DUCK TRACKS

By ELBERT HAWKINS

While little Mack Robinson, Oregon's dynamo sprinter, is considered practically a one-man show in these parts, University of Idaho boasts a carnival attraction.

This one-man track team is Don Johnson, who is considered the best all-around weight man in the United States, according to his coach, Mike Ryan. Colonel Bill Hayward will say the same about his Mack Robinson as a sprinter.

Idaho's Johnson does at least five events well enough to take points in any meet on the coast, but thanks to conference rules he'll only be able to demonstrate in four at the northern division meet in Seattle on Saturday.

The four he'll compete in will probably be the javelin, discus, high jump, and shot put. Versatile Mr. Johnson also broad jumps a paltry 23 feet, enough to worry Mack Robinson, the northern division's "Jumping Frog of Calaveras County" — Mark Twain's famous myth.

Johnson holds all-time records for the University of Idaho in the javelin and discus. He has tossed the spear 207 feet and the platter over 145.

He has pushed the 16-pound shot out exactly 47 feet 11 inches and high jumped an even six feet. It's a good thing Colonel Bill Hayward and his Ducks will be confronted with only one Don Johnson tomorrow. The Orr's, Ledford's, and Emigh's are an overdose themselves.

Johnson's discus mark of 145 feet, and Pacific Coast Champion Leonard Holland's toss of 142 which beat Oregon State Saturday are both dwarfed by a recent practice heave of 167 by Stanford's husky Pete Zagar. Big Pete is an all-coast tackle in football.

The northern division's best milers don't compare too favorably with another Californian, Louis Zamperini, who has wheeled the distance in 4 minutes and 16 seconds. Zamperini runs for the University of Southern California.

But when you start considering sprinters the northern division's stock booms 100 per cent. Saturday's 100-yard dash with three :09.6 runners entered should be about the nation's toughest of all races. Anything can happen with that trio and three others capable of :09.8's all figuring.

Call the goose cooked — brown and tender — for Coach Hobson and his defending baseball champs in the 1938 pennant chase. They're all but mathematically out of it.

Tuesday and Wednesday defeats at the hands of Washington State and Washington raised the Oregon defeat total to six. And in basketball no team ever won a championship over the 16-game route with more than four defeats. From now until the season's end it looks like a heat between Oregon State and Washington State, with the Jads from Cougarville desperately needing a sweep against the Beavers in their Friday and Saturday games.

Duck Gridders End Spring Football; Tex Pleased With Result

Oliver Picks Cadenasso, Passolt, Giovanini, Peters, Jensen, Hankinson, Lance, Nilsen, Reginato, Gebhardt, Rowe, Best '11'

By DOUG PARKER

With regular spring practice ended except for a few short kicking drills, Coach Tex Oliver and his staff can sit back with a sigh of relief until September 10 when fall practice begins.

Prospects for a strong team have greatly improved since the wiry coach from Arizona took over the grid reins this spring. Nine weeks of drill have revealed that Oregon, for the first time in years, will have two or three capable reserves backing up every position. Only the tackle spots show a weakness in reserves and Coach Oliver believes that even here prospects are not disheartening.

"If we're to judge from the strides our tackles have made," Coach Oliver said, "the tackle positions will not be weak next fall."

1938 Schedule

- Sept. 24—WSC at Pullman.
- Oct. 1—UCLA at Eugene.
- Oct. 15—Stanford at Palo Alto.
- Oct. 22—Fordham at New York.
- Oct. 29—USC at Portland.
- Nov. 5—Idaho at Eugene.
- Nov. 12—California at Berkeley.
- Nov. 19—Washington at Portland.
- Nov. 26—OSC at Portland.

Oregon will need a wealth of reserves next fall, for the Ducks have but one breather during the whole schedule, that being the Saturday following the UCLA game.

Oregon will play in one of the big intersectional games of the year when it meets Fordham in New York on October 22. The squad will leave Palo Alto directly after the game with Stanford on October 15 and journey across the continent.

Only Fourteen Days

Only 14 days are allowed for fall training before the first conference game, and, consequently, Coach Oliver has picked a tentative first string already. The first eleven includes Jim Cadenasso at center, Mel Passolt and Nello Giovanini at guards, Merle Peters and Ellroy Jensen at tackles, Harry Lance and Vic Reginato at ends, Hank Nilsen at quarter, Duke Hankinson in the left half position, Ted Gebhardt at the other half, and Paul Rowe at full.

Passolt Big Surprise

Mel Passolt, a reserve last year, was the surprise of spring practice, developing into the best all-around guard. Nello Giovanini, a two-year veteran, was also outstanding.

The guard positions are well-backed by reserves. Ron Husk and Cece Walden, both lettermen, will be fighting for a first string post next fall. Husk was out with a leg injury and Walden turned to baseball. Ernie Robertson, Gordon Olson, Milford Smith, and Gene Shultz will all vie for action at guard.

Jim Cadenasso and Erling Jacobsen have fought on even basis

Egihteen holes this weekend with a handicap picked from that, and eighteen more next weekend is the test.

"News Bureau" Hamby, "Pet Parade" Strite, "Scoop" Frizzell, "Queen Black George I" of the Green Goose" Pasero, and Linotyper "Hole in One" Evans are prominent entries. Watch your papers.

throughout spring practice for a center post. Either may be a starter next year. Al Samuelson is another center candidate.

Coach Oliver gives big Merle Peters a slight superiority over other tackle prospects, but regards Russ Inskip as a "comer." Ellroy Jensen, at the other tackle berth, is hard-pressed by Jim Stuart and Art Winetrot, both rugged tackles on the frosh squad last fall. Jim Eacutt showed possibilities of developing into a dependable reserve.

Lance Outstanding

Larry Lance, who broke his shoulder bone last year before the season had ended, is nominated as the outstanding end on the squad by Coach Oliver. Reginato has beaten Len Robertson out of the other wing post. Rod Speetzen and Don Mabee have been backing up Lance, while Bill Hawke and Norm Conaway are behind the other end.

Coach Oliver rates Duke Hankinson and Leonard Isberg as top performers at left half, but expects the veterans, Graybeal, Anderson, and Nicholson to make a hot battle for starting assignments. Steve Anderson's triple-threat abilities may be overshadowed next fall by the two sophomores-to-be who can pass and kick as well as run.

Gebhardt All-Around

Ted Gebhardt ranks as the all-around backfield man. It is the consensus of the coaching staff that Gebhardt could handle any

Ducklings Meet Rooks in Third Game of Series

Pete Igoe Will Start On Mound; Frosh Travel North

Tomorrow at 2:30 on Bell field, Corvallis, the frosh baseball team tangles with the rooks in the third game of the "little civil war" series.

The frosh won the first game of the series 9 to 1. The game was marked by many errors on both sides. The second game was taken 14 to 7.

According to John Warren, frosh mentor, tomorrow's game with the rooks will be the toughest of the season.

Pete Igoe, star hurler, will start for the Ducklings with Jim Rathbun catching. "Buzz" Renick, who was injured in the Silverton game, will probably be replaced by "Tini" Smith at the third sack position.

Herb Hamer, slugging first sacker, will play his regular position with Mallory, Shimshak, and Smith making up the rest of the infield.

If the boys win the game tomorrow they will have the series cinched having won the first two encounters.

of the four backfield assignments. Dave Gammon, Bob Smith, and Ron Alpaugh will be held in reserve next fall at the right half spot behind Gebhardt.

For a while it appeared that Denny Donovan's fight and spark would put him in the first string quarterback position, but Hank Nilsen turned in such consistent performance that he will likely start at blocking back. Chet Haliski, a vicious blocker and tackler, and Bill Rach are reserves at quarter.

Emmons Injured

Up until the time that Frank Emmons was injured, it appeared a toss-up between he, Paul Rowe, and Marshall Stenstrom. Rowe's only superiority over Stenstrom was his blocking.

Oregon's Webfoots finished up their road trip with an even .500 per cent as they lost their third straight game, this one to Washington's Huskies, 5 to 3.

The Ducks went into the lead in the first half of the second inning when they scored two runs, but the Huskies came back and evened the count with two runs in their half of the inning.

Bob Creighton, Oregon's moundsman for the day, was ineffective after the second inning when he was hit on the leg by a vicious line drive.

The Ducks played errorless ball, contrasting Wednesday's game when they committed five miscues. Washington's two errors were the only ones chalked up in the two league games.

Oregon State's Beavers' winning streak was snapped at eight straight yesterday when Idaho's Vandals, behind the six-hit pitching of Earl Gregory defeated the Corvallis lads, 5 to 2.

Arnie Fenger hurled for the Beavers, but the Vandals bunched their nine hits to produce runs in the fourth, sixth, and seventh innings, while his mates were only garnering two, when Arland Schwab, second baseman, tripled in the sixth.
