Taxes Already Paid By Oregon, Prices Will Not Change

The University of Oregon will not be affected by the supreme court's decision Monday that the government may collect a 10 per cent tax on football game admissions, said Anse Cornell, athletic manager.

"Since we are already paying a 10 per cent tax on all admissions over 50 cents, the decision will not alter our schedule of admission prices for next year, nor will it change our profits," said Mr. Cornell.

The University of Georgia and Georgia Tech started the dispute

Friends Call It 'Magic'; As She Handles Flora

Although the botany professors are as yet unaware of it, a prospective scientific planter and gardner is to be found in the ranks of University employees. She is Elinor Stevenson, secretary in the personnel division, who in her many experiments with flora and fauna, has hit upon a new way of preserving cut flowers.

Miss Stevenson's process, which she refuses to reveal to even her closest friends, has been termed by many as pure "magic." Very modest in her work in this field, Miss Stevenson admits that her greatest success in this "rejuvenation" has been with pansies.

Woo, woo!

when they said that the treasury did not have the right to collect the tax, and were soon joined by representatives of 13 other state universities.

These universities had claimed that football, being a builder of muscle and mind, was an integral part of education.

UO Band to Present Last Concert Sunday

Graduation Week to Start in Music School Garden

The final concert of the season to be given at the University of Oregon, will be held Sunday, May 29, at 3 p.m. with the University concert band, directed by John Stehn, presenting a program in the sunken garden back of the music building.

The band is giving its concert as a part of commencement week program. Its program will include selections from Wagner's "Lohengrin," including the introduction to the third act, and the Bridal Chorus. Selections from Victor Herbert's "Babes in Toyland," and Strauss' "Blue Danube" are listed among the selections.

A vocal obligato by Lorraine Hixson will be featured in Howland's "Mood Mauve," and "Concertino" by Weber will present Charlotte Plummer as clarinet soloist. Earl Scott, Tom Landles,

Frosh Nine Battles Rooks on Thursday

Warren's Men Down Rook Aggregation At Corvallis

Honest John Warren's Oregon frosh baseballers won their third consecutive game from the Oregon State rooks at Corvallis Saturday morning, 9 to 0.

The rival yearling clubs wind up their annual four-game "little civil war" series on Howe field Thursday afternoon.

In last week's shutout win over the rooks, the Warrenmen combined hits in two big innings to clinch the game off Carter Miles, Orange Babe pitcher, who allowed nine hits for the contest.

Pete Igoe and Orlando Allegretto for the Ducklings limited rook batters to only six hits and got perfect support from their mates afield.

The frosh made use of two hits and two walks in the first inning to push over three runs, and wound up the parade with a six-run and Robert Douglass will present a trumpet trio.

The finale to the familiar Dvorak "New World" symphony will be included on the band's program.

splurge in the fourth.

Three more walks, an error, and five hits were chalked up by the frosh in their big fourth inning.
