College Football Bursts Out Again For Big Season

Washington State, Trojans, Center of Activity

College football on the Pacific coast, dormant since last January 1, comes back to gridiron followers in a typical "mid-season" rush Saturday with every major west-coast eleven but Stanford engaging in Coast conference or intersectional

Both Pullman, Washington, home of the WSC Cougar, and Los Angeles, stable of the rejuvenated Trojan Warhorse, will be centers of struggle.

Howard Jones' rejuvenated Trojans entertain Alabama's Crimson Tide in the major intersectional game played on the coast Saturday, while the Washington Huskies carry the battle to Minneapolis, where they face Bernie Bierman's powerful Minnesota Gophers.
