

Barris' Band Replaces Arnheim; Set to Pace Oregon Homecomers

Orchestra Will Come Direct From Grove; Root, Herzog Make Change to Combat Adverse Campus Opinion

Harry Barris and his orchestra, straight from an extended engagement at the Coconut Grove, where they close November 1, will play at the annual Oregon Homecoming dance, November 5, instead of Gus Arnheim's orchestra.

Rushed investigation of possibilities of bringing Barris to Eugene was made late Friday by George Root, educational activities director, and members of the Homecoming dance committee when adverse campus opinion was encountered with the previous selection.

Contract Not Signed
As contracts had not been signed, a hurried meeting of Bob Herzog's dance committee was called yesterday afternoon and the opportunity to engage Barris accepted.

Artificial palm trees will decorate the court and a special "oasis" will be constructed for the patrons and patronesses. The center of the court will be adorned with a huge colored lighting piece. Panels will cover the corners and will be in harmony with the dance theme. Awnings will decorate the bottom of the balcony and a specially designed orchestra platform will be a high spot of the decorations.

Harry Barris will also play for a special ASUO concert which will precede the dance. Student body cards will admit students. All alumni who have paid their alumni dues will be admitted.

Semiformal dress will be worn.

I.A.M. Permits Granted Coeds For Big Dance

Closing hours for University women after the Homecoming dance Saturday night, Nov. 5, was extended this week to 1 a. m. by Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women.

Late hours for the dance were granted by the dean in answer to a special petition from the student affairs committee.

The Homecoming committee announced that the dance will end at 12:30, giving the co-eds and their escorts 30 minutes for the long, long trek homeward.

First NYA Payroll To Total $3543.65

NYA workers will receive $3543.65 in their first payroll of the year, it has been announced. NYA jobs, which are under the supervision of Dean Onthank's personnel department, include work in nearly every University department from September 19 to October 15.

Three hundred and eleven students are employed under this governmental aid system, 297 of these being undergraduates and the remaining 14 graduate students in the University. The payroll shows $3360.65 in pay checks for undergrads and $183 for graduates.

The manner of payment will be changed this year, according to Elinor Stevenson, secretary to Dean Onthank. Pay checks will be mailed out directly to students from the WPO office in Portland at their Eugene addresses, instead of through the University as has been done in the past.

11,000 Emeralds Set For Alumni Mailing

Aimed at acquainting the "old grads" with the 1938 Homecoming preparations on the campus, 11,000 copies of this edition have been printed, and a copy will be mailed to each alumnus in the Northwest.

Through the cooperation of the Homecoming publicity committee and the editorial staff of the Emerald, this issue is designed to provide all the necessary facts and information relative to full enjoyment of "Oregon's Biggest Homecoming" by the returning alumni. Distribution of the paper to the "old grads" will be handled through the Alumni Association under the direction of Elmer C. Fansett, alumni secretary.

Warm Welcome

a stencil, "Welcome Back Alums," on its window and the downtown district will be decorated with Homecoming flags.

Print 2000 Posters
Advertising the "biggest" Homecoming, Payne said, 2000 posters are being printed for circulating in nearly every Oregon city and 10,000 mailing stickers, carrying a cartooned account of Homecoming activities, will be ready for distribution at noon today. The stickers will be available near all campus mail boxes from now until Homecoming and are also to be handed out to every living organization on the campus.

Rules for the Homecoming signs will be mailed to each living organization Monday, Payne said. The signs, which must embody the theme, "Oregon Is Going Places," must be completed by 5 o'clock Friday afternoon of the weekend and lighted by 7 o'clock. The sign judges will make their round of the houses after 8:15 that evening, during the noise parade, and their results will be announced during halves of the Oregon-Idaho football game Saturday. The signs must not cost more than $15, the committee ruled.

Judges Selected
Judges for the sign contest, as selected last week by the Homecoming committee, are: E. Palmer Hoyt, general manager of the Morning Oregonian, Portland; Roland Davis, Portland, president of the Oregon alumni association; Merle Chesman, Astoria, publisher of the Astorian Budget; Prof. N. B. Zane, University art instructor, and George Godfrey, head of the University news bureau. All of the judges are prominent Oregon alumni.

To bring the entire student body in closer contact with Homecoming, Payne said, the committee will distribute copies of the complete program to all students shortly before that weekend.

Quarterback Club Rouses Oregon Spirit; Speeds Aid For Homecoming Program

Organ of Eugene Junior Chamber Plans To Instill Campus Enthusiasm Among the Downtown Businessmen

Formed to stimulate Oregon spirit in both the University student body and the downtown business districts, the Eugene Monday Morning Quarterback club is rushing plans to aid the school in publicizing its "biggest" Homecoming, November 4, 5, and 6.

The club will aid the advertising committee in decorating ten business district show windows and stenciling "Welcome Back Alums" signs on downtown windows. Members of the club have pledged themselves to co-operate in every way possible with the Homecoming committee, Claire Kneeland, representative of the group, said, to make this the biggest and best alumni celebration in the school's history.

Came with Oliver

The Quarterback club was started as a functioning organ of the Eugene Junior Chamber of Commerce early this year with the advent of Tex Oliver, new grid mentor, to the Oregon campus. Leaders in the club are Ed Monteith, president of the Junior Chamber, who has charge of publicity; Ralph Newman, general chairman; Claire Kneeland, program chairman, and Coval Smith, chairman of the rally committee.

"We're trying to instill a real college spirit in Eugene business men," Mr. Kneeland said. "To get that, we are doing everything possible to raise the campus spirit behind the new theme, 'Oregon Is Going Places,' and communicate that feeling to downtown men."

Hope for Calliope

Illustrating the fact that the club is really behind the University, Kneeland said that plans are being pushed to get a steam calliope for rallies. The club has also agreed to sponsor a float in the Homecoming noise parade.

Programs of the club, which have included talks by Coach Oliver and his assistants, Howard Hobson, basketball coach, and moving pictures of football games, have been designed to bring the civic bodies closer to the University.

Kwamas Enlisted To Aid in Grads' Registration

Registration of graduates of the University, who return to the campus for Homecoming week-end, will be held Friday and Saturday, November 4 and 5, in the lobby of Johnson Hall, Ruth Towney, student chairman, has announced.

Kwama members, who will register the alumni, will begin their listing at 1 o'clock Friday afternoon, continuing until 6 that evening. Saturday, registration will begin at 8 a. m. and will close at 6 p. m. In preparation for their parade at Saturday afternoon's football game, all "Order of the O" members must turn in their name, the sport in which they won their emblem, and the year won, to registration officials before 1 o'clock Saturday in order to be eligible for the traditional march on Hayward field.

New Housing Planned for Tropical Fish

A new housing program for fish has been adopted by the zoology department for the tropical fish tanks in Deady hall.

An airtight has been installed in the tank which not only heats the water to the proper temperature, but also provides it with sufficient oxygen to keep the diminutive tropical fish swimming happily.

Illuminated by a red light, the airtight is situated under a pile of rocks, and oxygen bubbles up through the water.

In order to keep the water clear, a water filter has been installed in the tank, which filters the water through charcoal and "glass wool" to make it ideal for its inhabitants.

Bonfire to Climax Big Noise Parade

Climaxing the homecoming noise parade Friday night will be the annual bonfire and rally with indications pointing to one of the best in history.

Under direction of Martin Reig, a committee composed of Jean Miller, Barbara Pierce, Neilan Stone and Jim Pickett, is organizing a crew of workers for the actual construction of the fire.

At a new location, 19th and Ferry streets, the bonfire will be at the end of the line of march of the parade. The University of Oregon band, the Oregon football team, Coaches Oliver, Cole and Mikulak will be in attendance.

Eugene merchants have assured nearly unanimous support in donation of materials for the fire. Attempts are being made according to Reig to obtain a fireworks display for use at the fire. If possible a green and yellow combination will be worked out. Freshman Class President Jack Daniels said last night that the frosh, "are organizing a vigilante committee to guard the fire for several days before Friday."

Big Sign to Feature Campus Decorations

Mallicoat Has New Idea in Designs for '38 Homecoming

A huge animated sign, to be put up in front of Johnson Hall, will be the high spot of the campus decorations for Homecoming week-end, chairman of the decoration committee, Dale Mallicoat, announced yesterday.

"The decorations are going to be entirely new and different this year," said Mallicoat. "In place of the old paper sign, 'Welcome Grads,' which has been up in front of Johnson Hall for the past few years, there will be a colorfully lighted sign with a new slogan."

No decision has as yet been reached on what slogan the committee will use or what the central theme for the decorations around the campus will be.

"Crepe paper will not be wrapped around the trees in the usual fashion of past years," stressed Mallicoat. "We are promising something different from anything that has been used before."

The Homecoming signs, constructed by the various living organizations on the campus, will bear the slogan, "Oregon Is Going Places."

Alumni Committee Named For Weekend

Word of appointment of a Portland alumni committee to aid the campus Homecoming committee in rushing preparations for the 1938 alumni weekend was received yesterday by Elmer Fansett, alumni secretary.

Members of the committee, which was appointed by Roland Davis, president of Portland alumni, are: Flossie Radabaugh Steckmetz, '28; Joe Freck Jr., '31; Robert Mautz, '27, and Mr. Davis, '28.

The committee will aid the campus directorate in arranging radio programs, publicizing the week-end in Portland groups, and arranging for Homecoming window decorations in downtown Portland stores.

Dick Watson, general Homecoming chairman, and Phil Bladine, publicity chairman, will contact the group in Portland today to start arrangements for the Homecoming publicity drive.
