

New 1938-39 Piggers Guide On Sale Today

Campus Booth Will Open at 8; Many Unique Features to Be Included

Just off the press, the new streamlined 1938-1939 "Pigger's Guide" will make its first appearance on the campus this morning at 8 o'clock.

A booth placed between Oregon and Commerce will open at 8 and will remain open all day in order to take care of the sale of guides to students. Only one day has been allowed for the sale and in order to secure copies immediately, students should make sure to get them today, Roy Vernstrom, editor-manager of this year's guide, said last night.

Faculty Directory Included
This year's directory contains over 65 pages of names, addresses, home addresses, student majors and most important of all, telephone numbers. Also included is a faculty directory and a short article on the history of pigging written by Vernstrom.

The book this year, which required over 200 man-hours or about 25 days to produce, will be four pages larger than last year's guide and will contain over 3000 students' names. No advance in prices will be made, the regular 25 cents a copy rate will prevail, Vernstrom said.

'Pigger's Guide' on Copy
The issue today will mark the first time that the words "pigger's guide" have appeared on the copy. Although the book has been known for a long time on the campus by that name, the more sophisticated "student directory" has always appeared on the guide itself. Of course the words "student directory" will appear on the copy, but stuffed in the back pocket of an illustration of a duck on the cover is a book on which is written "pigger's guide."

Also included in the directory are the usual features arranged for the convenience of students. These include the list of women's and men's living organizations, their addresses and phone numbers; a complete map of the University campus and a diagram of the University library and stacks.

Cal Students Up in The Air, Flying Popular

By ANNA MAE HALVERSON
College students flying high? Ninety University of California students are doing just that, but only because they are members of the UC Flying club.

These club members, 70 of whom signed up this semester, have the unusual opportunity of reduced rates for flying lessons and instructions from leading pilots and designers on the Pacific coast. The club was founded last year.

Punishment

Nino Martini, leading Metropolitan opera tenor, paid two fines in kangaroo court at the University of Iowa for violation of the Men's Week code.
His offenses: Wearing a necktie and walking with two coeds.
The sentence: "You will have to kiss both the coeds in public."
"That," said Mr. Martini, "is more like it." He complied without ado.

Cat Salary Causes Admiralty Concern, Marder Discovers

No, English tax money is not spent without due consideration. Record-searching Dr. Arthur Marder, former University professor, has unearthed a prize-winning example of official "red tape" in the British admiralty records, a letter received this week by Dr. R. C. Clark revealed.

The pay of an office cat is the subject of the voluminous correspondence on which Marder reports. Some of the back-and-forth discussion Marder found as follows:
Pay Raise Urged for Feline
On March 16, 1921, H. E. Scotten, binder at the Admiralty office in London, pleaded the cause of the office cat. In his letter to the accountant general he asked for a raise in the cat's salary, which had been 13 shillings a quarter since 1902.

Buck-Passing Fast and Furious
The accountant general in May sent the request to the financial secretary, who in turn sent it to the first sea lord.
The first sea lord, not certain of the worth of the office cat against "rat raids," sent the request to the secretary, insisting however, that the matter should be discussed in parliament. "The fourth sea lord, subject always to financial consideration, which would require the concurrence of the secretary, must have the last word in a matter which is one of navy victualling," he stated in his letter.

Cat Wage Held No Navy Problem
The secretary denied that this problem concerned the navy department since no one in the admiralty was on the navy rations.
The third sea lord suggested the "short time" system of working hours to prevent the raise. The request was put in the "yellow jacket," which gave it priority, in case the cat did not have enough to eat pending the decision.

Rat-Catching Efficiency Doubtful
The assistant chief of the naval staff, next to pass on the request, suggested that the use of cats for destroying rodents was obsolete and in the interest of economy the cat should be destroyed. The deputy chief of the naval staff agreed upon the increase.

Poison Gas Held Costly
The financial secretary voiced his disapproval of poisonous gases on the cat because the expense might in the end amount to more.
On reaching the first lord, it was decided in June to increase the wages without further delay.

YW, YM to Hold First Joint Conference

"Student Problems" will be the theme of the first joint conference of the University of Oregon YWCA and YMCA at Cedarwood tavern at McKenzie Bridge.

Led by Ralph Severson, president of the YM, and Bettylou Swart and Lois Onthank, members of the YW cabinet, with the fresh presidents, Elna Johnson and Norman Foster, the group will include between 25 and 30 members of the organization.

Professors joining the conference will be John L. Casteel; Q. Breen; D. E. Hargis; W. A. Dahlberg; Francis Beck, secretary of the YM, and his wife; Mrs. John Stark Evans, secretary of the YW; and Miss Janet Smith, University employment secretary.

Another similar group will be organized in the near future to carry on the study and discussion on student problems and activities.

Parsons Discusses Youth Problems At Symposium Meet

Social unrest of youth and premature sophistication were discussed by Philip A. Parsons, head of the sociology department, at the women's symposium meeting yesterday, in room 108 Friendly hall. He believes that youth today are frankly bewildered by a world they cannot understand and that a back-to-the-soil movement is their only hope.

The women's symposium subject is "Youth Tell Their Story." They are working on the various phases of security: economic, personal, educational, and standards of philosophy, religion, and government.

Twelve Men Added To Fraternity Lists

Twelve UO students have added their names to the roster of various fraternities on the campus during the past fortnight, Dean of Men Virgil Earl announced yesterday, with Sigma Chi and Sigma Alpha Mu named as the only houses pledging more than one new member.

Pin Planter Put On Chain Gang By DU Brothers

Little Willie doesn't like publicity . . . much! At any rate, he got his fill yesterday noon when fellow DU's put him on the chain gang in front of the College Side.

William Genry, ardent Chicago Sox fan, planted his pin on Chi O's Della "the Cubs" Root some time ago. Hence the chain-gang idea.

But it's not as bad as all that! Not when three charming coeds serve you lunch on the curb. Della, appropriately enough, came through with a bottle of milk . . . nipple and all. Ominous was the baby buggy, parked at Little Willie's side by obliging brothers.

Christian Groups To Supply Ushers For Collins' Speech

Students from Westminster house, Wesley house, and the Episcopal and Lutheran student organizations on the campus will act as ushers for Dean Collins' Armistice day speech, the Student Christian council decided at the regular bi-monthly meeting held Tuesday.

Dean Collins, columnist for the Oregon Daily Journal, is speaking Friday at 8 p.m. at the Methodist church on Twelfth and Willamette streets on "Do You Want to Buy Another War?" under the joint auspices of the Eugene Ministerial association and the Student Christian council.

Professors Study Grade Change Plan

Why not abolish grades in certain of the courses offered at the University of Oregon at the end of the fall term? . . . that is the question which many members of the faculty are considering, according to a canvass taken yesterday among instructors of a few of the schools of the University.

Members of the art school faculty favor putting the "no-grade" system into operation as soon as possible. W. S. Hayden, assistant instructor in architecture, said "We would be in favor of recording fall term grades under the new system."

Smith in Favor
Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the department of geography and geology, said, "I am glad to see the step taken by the faculty in the grade system. It is a distinct advance toward a better system

Berkowitz to Be Speaker In Gerlinger

Place of Religion In Student's Life to Be Discussed This Evening at 8

The place of religion in relation to the life of the college student is the subject on which Rabbi Henry J. Berkowitz of the Temple Israel of Portland will speak to University students tonight in Gerlinger at 8 o'clock.

Rabbi Berkowitz, who will arrive on the campus this afternoon, is being sent here as a feature of the program of campus religious leaders to continue some of the good results of Christian Mission week, held at the University in October.

The Portland rabbi will also speak at firesides at various fraternities tonight and tomorrow morning will speak at several classes and seminars. Too, personal consultations on individual problems may be arranged through YMCA Secretary Francis M. Beck or Mrs. Marjorie Evans, YWCA secretary.

The Portland religious leader is not new to campus audiences, according to Personnel Dean Karl W. Onthank, who explained that he had appeared at religious meetings on the campus several years ago and was widely acclaimed by student audiences.

Parade Stops As 'O' Wearer Gets Subpoena

Stories of subpoena servers were funny ones to Oliver Huston, a Sigma Nu Oregon grad of '10, until the Saturday of Homecoming.

Huston has a job in the title division of the state highway department. When a court has a case concerning titles, it is sometimes necessary for an official of the title department to testify. The Eugene court needed an official.

Huston, a two-sport letterman, was in the Order of the "O" parade before the start of the Idaho game. Just as soon as he announced himself on the public address system, he was presented with the subpoena. This incident literally held up the parade until the server had fulfilled his duties.

Oliver Huston was a guest of the Sigma Nu's Monday.

Dean Schwering Will Be Mothers' Guest At Klamath Falls

Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, Oregon's dean of women, is leaving Wednesday for Klamath Falls, where she will be entertained by the Klamath Falls mothers' club.

Dean Schwering will speak before the mothers at a tea Thursday. This tea is one of the many to be held by University mothers all over Oregon this weekend for the purpose of obtaining money for the Mothers' Scholarship fund.

The scholarship will be given to the most outstanding and promising high school graduate of 1939. Last year the one $300 scholarship was divided into three individual scholarships of $100 each and was presented to the three most outstanding 1938 high school graduates.

Early Returns Give Salem Publisher 3-2 Lead Over Democratic Opponent; Race For U. S. Senate Close

By BILL PENGRA
(Emerald Managing Editor)

Holding a margin of approximately 3 to 2 at eleven o'clock last night, Charles A. Sprague, republican, Salem publisher, was assured of victory over Henry Hess, democrat of LaGrande, in the race for governorship of the state.

With returns from half of Oregon precincts tabulated at that hour, this state showed an increase in strength for the GOP which was echoed throughout the nation. At that hour

BULLETIN!

Returns at 12:53 this morning gave Sprague a majority of more than 25,000. Based on 804 out of 1681 precincts the vote was: Sprague, 77,689; Hess, 50,690.

A clear-cut victory for Holman over Mahoney was sure early this morning on the basis of 833 state precincts. The republican led Mahoney 72,039 to 53,923, thus defeating the Klamath Falls ex-mayor's attempt to become the first regularly elected democratic senator from the state in 17 years.

republican candidates had captured 15 of the 32 gubernatorial offices at stake, democrats taking five offices with incomplete results recorded. This marked an increase of 11 governors' seats throughout the nation for the republican party.

Holman Leads
Rufus Holman, republican and present state treasurer, had apparently nosed out Willis Mahoney, democrat and former Klamath Falls mayor in the race for the U. S. senate seat.

Returns from southern Oregon were not complete enough to give a definite result for the election, but a state-wide bulletin at eleven-fifteen had Mahoney trailing by approximately six thousand votes.

State
Incomplete returns from 46 Lane precincts late last night showed the following vote on state candidates:
U. S. Senator (short term) — Barry, 4938; Miller, 2635.
U. S. Senator (long term) — Holman, 5270; Mahoney, 3125.
Representative, (first district) — Burk, 1898; Mott, 6230.

Twenty-two Faculty Members Are Listed Among Notables

Oregon ranks high in the world of notables, according to the 1938-39 edition of "Who's Who in America."

The new Who's Who, now available in the library, ranks 22 members of the University of Oregon faculty. This number is the same as the number in the 1936-37 Who's Who. The only change is the addition of S. Stephenson Smith, English professor, and the dropping of Dr. DeBusk of the psychology department. Dr. DeBusk passed away in 1937.

Names Listed
The list includes: Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism; James D. Barnett, head of the political science department; C. Valentine Boyer, dean of arts and letters and head of the English department; Newel H. Comish, professor of business administration; Luther S. Cressman, head of the anthropology department; Edgar E. DeCou, head of the mathematics department; James H. Gilbert, dean of the college of social science; and Herbert C. Howe, professor of English.

Others on the list are: Frederick M. Hunter, chancellor of the state system of higher education; James R. Jewell, head of the school of education; Wayne L. Morse, dean of the school of law; Philip A. Parsons, head of the sociology department; and George Rebec, dean of the graduate division and head of the philosophy department, now retired.

English Visitor Sees First Football Game

By JACK BRYANT

Football is more spectacular than any sport played on the other side of the Atlantic declared Miss Loch, a visiting Englishwoman who saw her first football games here this fall.

Miss Loch of Winchester, southern England, is here visiting her brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. L. S. Cressman and will probably return home after Christmas. L. S. Cressman is head of the University anthropology department.

I especially like the colorful uniforms, Miss Loch said. In England the athletes wear shorts and sweaters, but the football players are well padded and they do not appear to stand the chance of injury our athletes do, she explained.

The coeds with their bright colors and waving pom-poms were especially attractive, Miss Loch said. In England the sports enthusiasts take their sports dead seriously with no organized cheering. Once in a while there will be a spontaneous cheer but everything is business-like. Even the players don't seem to get fun out of their sports.

Anti-Picketing Bill Wins Approval By Majority of 15,000

Complete returns from 667 out of 1681 state precincts indicated almost a 5 to 3 margin in favor of the anti-picketing bill last night. Tabulations were: 52,747, yes; 38,300, no.

Multnomah county incomplete returns gave a 5000-vote majority in favor of the bill. Lane county voted for the measure, 3948 to 2788.

Only five counties voted against the anti-picketing bill last night, according to tabulations based on the returns from 667 precincts.

Returns from 21 Portland precincts on the state measures followed Lane county trends for the most part. The double liability repeal for bank stock holders was voted down by a 2000 margin in (Please turn to page three)

Free Tuberculin Tests Available To UO Students

Beginning immediately, tuberculin tests and x-rays of the chest will be available to students who have not already been tested, or to those who wish to have the test repeated, Dr. F. N. Miller, University physician, announced yesterday.

Dr. Miller stressed the request that students do not miss this chance to check up on a very important health factor, which, he said, is often an important consideration for graduating class members who are seeking employment.

The tests will be given free of charge, Dr. Miller said.
