

DUCK TRACKS

By ELBERT HAWKINS

...What the score won't be... Here's a sample of how comparative scores work as a basis for prognosticating. Simply trace the scores out by the round-robin method—and then bet heavily on what the score won't be. For instance:

- Oregon 28, California 6.
- Oregon 0, California 18.

There we have the extremes, but don't stop at that. Take a more conservative one which gives Oregon a 13 to 7 victory over the Golden Bears. After figuring every possible combination, the number of these increasing rapidly by the week, you draw a list of these scores and call them predictions. To win, you bet your last dollar that the score won't be any of that list. It's easy money.

Why Oregon 28, California 0? The Webfoots beat UCLA, 14 to 12, UCLA walloped Idaho, 33 to 0, and Idaho by a score of 12 to 12 tied Washington, which held California to 14 to 7.

...Oregon 0, California 18? USC beats Oregon, 31 to 7, and California, 13 to 7, hence the 18 point margin. Oregon 13, California 7? The Bears beat Washington, 14 to 7, didn't they? And Oregon defeated Idaho, 19 to 6, the Vandals deadlocking with Washington. There you are.

Mike Mikulak scouted and watched both Southern California, and Oregon's opponent of this Saturday, Stub Allison's Golden Bears of California, and came away with the conviction that the Bears were a superior team. Then his ideas were shattered Saturday by a powerful Trojan team that pushed Cal to and fro with apparent ease.

It indicates, however, that Mike respects the power of Cal's defending Rose Bowl champs. Possibly the Southern California defeat took a lot out of the Golden Bears. Then, too, maybe Tex Oliver has steamed up his Webfoots by reading them "digs" from Bay city writers who call them everything from a "powder-puff" ball club to "a set up for the Mills College bloomer girls."

Enough to spur Oregon State's heads-up Orangemen to a defeat of Stanford in the Corvallis Homecoming game Saturday was one brain-child which called them "nothing but a lot of beef on the hoof."

Coach Howard Hobson brought back reports from Washington's 10 to 7 win over Stanford that indicate that Oregon is going to face some very capable, pesky Huskies next Saturday.

"You can't underrate them," he cautioned. "They've got lots of size and speed, and are apt to cut loose and turn in a good ball game against anybody."

The Washingtons are well balanced in passing and running, according to Hobby, and are a much better ball club than their record indicates. Stanford, he reported, seemed a little less organized, and played only spotty ball.

"Probably as good a kicker as there is on the coast is Jimmie Johnston," he suggested, "Washington using kicking to fine advantage against Stanford."

Washington clearly outplayed Stanford in the first half, but Tiny Thornhill's Indians rushed back in the second half to almost reverse the tables. The Husky running attack showed well in the early minutes, while their defense held the Indians to one first down for the whole first quarter, according to Hobby.

Oregon's scouting twins, Hobby Hobson and Mike Mikulak will divide duties this weekend, one mapping Oregon State's progress against Stanford, the other migrating northward to Seattle for one last look at the Huskies against Southern California.

There comes a time... Notre Dame's undefeated Irishmen have beaten Kansas U, Georgia Tech, Illinois, Carnegie Tech, Army, and Navy in order—the usual Notre Dame suicide schedule—but now they're facing Minnesota... that game Saturday should draw a lot of fans... Santa Clara has had three close squeaks, beating Texas A. & M. only 7 to 0, Michigan State, 7 to 6, and San Francisco only 7 to 0... but the Broncos are still among the nation's undefeated and untied... Southern California's lone setback of the season was in game No. 1, an inter-sectional tilt which went to Alagana, 19 to 7... the Trojans play University of Washington's "what next?" Huskies this Saturday...

Thirty-One Webfoots Leave for Berkeley

Ducks, Golden Bears Tangle Saturday; Graybeal out of Play

Minus Jackrabbit Jay Graybeal, a 31-man Webfoot football squad headed south at noon yesterday for Berkeley and a Saturday joust with the once-beaten California Golden Bear.

The diminutive Pendleton flash, who has sparked Oregon's gridders every time he has entered a ball game, is still suffering from a knee ailment incurred in the Forcham game.

While his mates are carrying on against the powerful Bear, Graybeal will be under orders to rest, Coach Tex Oliver hoping to have him ready for the Washington game in Portland next Saturday.

Just before the Oregons boarded a south-bound train yesterday, Coach Oliver made two changes in his traveling party. He left Mel Passolt, guard who has an injured side, at home, and added Halfbacks Duke Hankinson and Steve Anderson.

Oliver's move in leaving Passolt in Eugene cuts the list of guards to four, Nello Giovanini, Bud Nestor, Cece Walden, and Ernie Robertson.

Anderson, a boy who is equally at home at either the left or right halfback position, will aid Bob Smith and Dave Gammon at the right halfback post if relief is needed.

Californians were still picking their ball club by at least three touchdowns as game time neared on the Berkeley campus.

They pointed to comparative scores to arrive at this conclusion. Oregon lost to Southern California's mighty Trojans by a 31-to-7 score, while the Bears bowed by 13 to 7.

Starters Set

The same eleven gridders who opened and played most of the winning battle against Idaho's Vandals will probably be on the field when firing starts Saturday. At times in the Idaho game, this eleven clicked, and Coach Oliver has spent most of the week working with this squad.

Hard-hitting Larry Lance, and the light-stepping Don Mabey, both reserves at the start of the season, seem to have won the starting end berths.

Bill Foskett and Elroy Jensen at the tackle posts, Nello Giovanini and Cece Walden at the guard berths, and Al Samuelson at the pivot position, all are set for the opening kickoff.

In the backfield, fiery Dennis Donovan, the Portland Irishman, has been working with the first string all week, and seems to have gained the nod over steady Hank Nilson.

Otherwise, the backfield is set with the combination of Bob Smith and Ted Gebhardt entrenched in the halfback spots working with Fullback Frank Emmons, the Beaverton Buster.

Harriers Will Hold Workout in Portland

Oregon's varsity cross-country team is slated for a workout on the Hill Military course in Portland today.

There is a possibility for competition with Oregon State and Portland university. Coach Bill Hayward announced before he left with the football team for Los Angeles. However, he said, the plans were not definite and the team will not know if they are to have competition until they arrive in Portland today.

This workout is in preparation for the Pacific coast championships, to be held on the same course on November 23. Boys expected to make the trip to Portland for the workout this weekend include, Kirman Storli, Don Barker, Jim Schriver, Bob Mitchell, Don Tower, Ken Leatherman, Galen Morey, and Hugh Simpson.

Place your orders for the Emerald now and don't miss an issue.

Four Sextets Still Unbeaten in 'B' League Volleyball

Dorm Teams Win; Phi Delt Knock Off Sigma Nus

Unbeaten in B league competition after playing yesterday's games are Phi Delta Theta, Kappa Sigma, Zeta hall, and Gamma hall.

Dorm squads made a day of it, not one losing. Sherry Ross hall swept their opponents aside also. Neither the Hornets nor Alpha hall appeared for their scheduled game.

The Phi Delt and Sigma Nus played three games before victory came to the Phi Delt, who won the first, 15 to 4, and the last, 16 to 14. The "barn" boys staged a real comeback in the last tilt when they started with the score 11 to 5 against them and kept going to win. Sigma Nu won the second, 15 to 9.

Gamma hall had no trouble with Delta Tau Delta, because they won two in succession, 15 to 2, and 15 to 4. Zeta was lucky in taking a close 16 to 14 win from Delta Upsilon in the first encounter, but were able to relax while winning the second, 15 to 5.

Sherry Ross, themselves lacking one man, trounced the Yeomen four-man squad, 15 to 3, and 15 to 8.

The undefeated Kappa Sigs weren't bothered by Sigma Alpha Mu, because they spilled the Sammies in two quick games, 15 to 4, and 15 to 5.

Al Long and Don Tower refereed the games.

Lineups:

Phi Delt: Dickson, Hohnes, Lewman, Regan, Hayes, Schwiager, and Elliott.

Sigma Nu: Dungan, Ehlers, Van Dusen, Kenan, Peterson, and Carney.

Gamma hall: Chung-Hoon, Darlotis, Wilson, Metzler, Reider, Hicks, and Niklas.

Delta Tau Delta: Martin, Atkinson, Ellis, Snoke, Miller, Johnson, and Monahan.

Zeta hall: Nasi, F. Landeen, G. Landeen, Amato, Jonsrud, Whitfield, and Golden.

Delta Upsilon: Johnson, Davis, Schwarz, Gentry, Grinberg, Wilson, Jones, and Haskell.

Sherry Ross hall: McCarthy, McMakin, Morrison, Hansen, and Burtenshaw.

Yeomen: King, Shelley, Collins, and Barger.

Kappa Sigma: Moore, Hughes, Cadle, Griggith, Earl, and Guistina.

Sammies: Ehrman, Sanders, Milstein, Scharf, Durkheimer, and Jacobs.

Monday's Gamse—A League

4:00—Sigma Phi Epsilon vs. Delta Tau Delta; Chi Psi vs. Zeta hall; 4:30—Phi Delta Theta vs. Canard club; Phi Gamma Delta vs. Beta Theta Pi; 5:20—Phi Sigma Kappa vs. Omega hall; Sigma Nu vs. Sigma Alpha Epsilon.

Browsing Room Gets New Books

The University library's browsing room was presented, last week, with 16 new volumes of travel and similar subject, the gift of Rev. William Wallace Youngson, pastor of the First Methodist church of Tillamook.

The Oregon frosh footballers show before home-town fans for the first time this year this afternoon, meeting the Oregon State rooks on Hayward field. Above are two of the boys who make Coach John Warren's backfield click. On the left is Steve Fowler, hard-blocking fullback from Ashland, and on the right is Dominic Giovanini, brother of the varsity's Nello. Giovanini plays quarterback.

These Golden Bears Are Tough

They aren't the same Bears who won the Pacific coast conference title in a walk last year, and then cleaned up on Alabama in the Rose Bowl, not by a long shot. They haven't a pass throwing, long kicking, and hard-blocking Sam Chapman to tide them over the rough spots. Nor have they a Jelly-Belly Meek on hand to batter down opponents, nor a Perry Schwartz, all-American end, nor a center like Bob Herwig, nor a pair of guards to match last year's crack duo of Claude Evans and Vard Stockton.

But make no mistake, the Bears of 1938 are still plenty tough. They may have lost to a strong Trojan club, 13 to 7, last week, but they previously walloped UCLA, St. Mary's, Washington State, Washington, and Oregon State.

Yes, the "Top Sarge" as they call Headman Stub Allison down Berkeley way has a ball club despite all the ballyhoo of graduation losses.

Bottari on Hand In the backfield, he still has Vic Bottari, the Vallejo Venetian whom many consider all-American, and the hard-hitting Dave Anderson at fullback. Both of these boys were big factors in the success of last year's team.

And he has found two new stars. Triple-threat Louie Smith and Bill Elmore, a canny quarterback, to team with Bottari and Anderson.

"Top Sarge" has a line which averages only 178 pounds, but in that line are three of last year's "immortals"—End Willard Dolman, and Tackles Dave DeVarona and Bill Still.

And then, of course, Stub Allison can call upon his veritable army of reserves.

Varsity Hoopsters Continue Fast Pace

Eastern Invasion to Take Basketeers to New York

Howard Hobson's 1939 basket tossers are definitely rounding into shape for their eastern debut early this season at Madison Square Garden in New York, where they play City College of New York December 17.

Fast passing to strengthen the wrists took up most of last night's practice as Hobson's lanky leather loopers went through their antics.

Slim Wintermute, one of the tallest centers on the coast, Laddie Gale, northwest scoring ace, Bobby Anet, tricky dribbler, Wally Johansen, tricky dribbler and ball handler are four of the 1937 northwest champions back to repeat again this year.

Earl Sandness, last year's frosh star, is slowly getting into condition, after suffering from a knee injury at the start of the season.

Ted Sarpola, Oregon's Hank Lunetti, is also slowly getting his eyes focused on the netted hoop and is expected to be one of the outstanding candidates to fill the post left vacant by the graduation of Dave Silver.

By EHLE REBER

Honest John Warren's injury-riddled Ducklings battle their traditional foe, the Oregon State rooks, today in the final tilt of their annual three-game series on Hayward field, with the starting whistle scheduled for 2:30.

Coach Warren started the season with one of the strongest and heaviest crews to play for the frosh in many seasons. Injuries have necessitated frequent changes in his regular lineup, however.

In the first game of the season the frosh proved their power by trampling a supposedly strong Southern Oregon Normal school team 26 to 13, in a field dedication at Grants Pass.

Ducklings Beat SONS

On October 29, the Duckling drifters played the University of Washington freshman team at Seattle in a 60-minute battle which the Babes won 6 to 0, after a closing minute rally by the frosh failed just short of pay dirt.

Frosh mentor Warren will probably start Pat Smith and Bill Regner at the end posts in today's clash. Regner, 195-pound Portland boy, played an outstanding game in the first scoreless tiff at the Rose City.

Len Surles, who replaces Culwell at left tackle, will start his first game at a regular berth, with Bernie McCudden, 190-pounder from Oregon City, at right tackle.

Davis to Start

Bob Davis, line backer upper, will join the line at left guard and Ray Segale, dependable Seattleite, will take up the right guard post.

At center, there is a battle between Elliott Wilson and Les Thompson for the starting call, with a slight advantage going to Wilson, who has started several previous games this season. Wilson is one of the tallest men on the squad as well as one of the heaviest. He tips the scales at a mere 220 pounds.

One of Warren's biggest problems all season has been to pick a starting backfield combination from a group of experienced men, all of whom are practically of the same caliber.

Anderson May Open

Duane Anderson, Eugene signal caller, may get the starting nod over Dominic Giovanini because of his showing in practices this week against the varsity. Donn Clickard, rough blocker from Redmond, has been making the boys sit up and take notice this week and is another probable choice at the backfield pivot position.

Warren will choose his starting
