University Enrollment Mounts

ONPA Meeting Scheduled for January 19-21

Talks by Governor, Noted Newsmen Feature Program of 21st Conference

Newsmen from all over the state of Oregon will be guests of the University January 19, 20, 21, when they meet here for the twenty-first annual Oregon Press Conference. The three-day meeting will begin on Thursday with registration and other general business.

Many Speeches Slated

A specially prepared program consisting of speeches by several prominent Oregon newspaper men; a speech by N. J. L. Pieper, special agent in charge of the San Francisco field division of the federal bureau of investigation; several important discussions, and climaxed by a speech by Oregon's Governor Charles A. Sprague, publisher of the Salem Statesman, has been planned for the conference.

Mr. Pieper will address the conference members on the subject of cooperation between press and law enforcement agencies. In addition to this Professor Charles M. Hulsten of the school of journalism will present the results of a recent survey concerning libel suits and threats of action against Oregon newspapers.

Crookham to Talk
Other speeches of special interest will be a talk by Arthur Crookham, city editor of the Portland Journal, who will speak on problems of news coverage; a speech by "Tex" Oliver, and a talk by H. C. Bernsten, general manager of the Pacific Coast division, bureau of advertising of the American Newspaper association. Mr. Bernsten promises a dramatic presentation of the newspaper story. His talk will be accompanied with slide films.

A record registration is forecasted by University officials and Eugene hotel operators are making special arrangements to accommodate the newsmen.

Dean Morse and Commission End Parole Research

Completing research work begun a year and one-half ago, a special commission headed by Wayne L. Morse, dean of the University law school, reported to Governor Martin in December, the results of their findings on methods of improving Oregon's parole, probation and sentencing system.

The research was made under the direction of Dean Morse, who has also made similar investigations on release procedures for the United States attorney general.

The commission recommended a more thorough, adequately financed, and competently staffed parole and probation system as the first step in any attempt to check "the vicious circle of putting them in, turning them out, and throwing them in again."

LeRoy Mattingly Gets Position on UP Staff At Salt Lake City

LeRoy Mattingly, editor of the Emerald in 1937-38 and a graduate in that year, has received a position in the Salt Lake bureau of the United Press. He was formerly employed as reporter and copy editor on the LaGrande Evening Observer.

Mattingly was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Sigma Delta Chi, journalism fraternity. Under his guidance The Emerald won the rating of Pacemaker in the annual Associated Collegiate Press association. This placed the Oregon paper among the six best college dailies of the nation.

$40,715 Stands Made Possible By PWA Grant

Hayward Project Gets $3915 More For Reconstruction

An added PWA grant of $3915 received here yesterday makes a total of $40,715 available for remodeling grandstands and facilities at Hayward field.

With the new allotment, federal government funds for the project total $18,315. The associated students athletic department is supplying the balance. Present plans call for remodeling the west grandstand and provide an increase in seating capacity of 2,000 seats. The finished grandstands will seat more than 18,000.

The new funds will provide for painting, plumbing and other work not possible under the first grant. Other improvements will include a new press box, new plumbing facilities, painting of the structures and other work.

Mrs. Anna M. Dunn Passes in Eugene

Widow of Former Head of Classics Dies at Home

Mrs. Anna Matthews Dunn, widow of Frederic S. Dunn, who was head of the classics department at the University until his death in January, 1937, died Tuesday afternoon at her home here. Mrs. Dunn, the daughter of James B. Matthews, Oregon pioneer, had lived about forty-one years in Eugene, where she was prominent in club and church work.

She was born in Forest Grove September 16, 1872, and married in 1895 in Eugene. Formerly a member of the Fortnightly club, Mrs. Dunn was one of the founders of Delta Gamma sorority on the campus. She attended the University, and was a member of the Methodist Episcopal church, the Order of the Eastern Star, the Order of the Amaranth, and Thimble club.

Surviving Mrs. Dunn are a son, F. Berian Dunn of Burlingame, Cal.; a daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Barrett of Eugene; three brothers, (Please turn to page four)

Onthank Reports More Jobs Than Applicants

Oregon seniors who are eyeing post-graduation unemployment with a wary eye, were urged yesterday by Personnel Dean Karl W. Onthank to take advantage of available jobs, by applying for positions through his office immediately. He indicated that at the present time openings exceed qualified applicants.

Many Jobs Open in New Year
With the beginning of the new year, Dean Onthank said that many employers who look to the University for their new crop of workers have been calling his office in a search for qualified applicants. Knowing the situation in which most graduates find themselves, he feels that it is only lack of knowledge of availability of positions that keeps students away.

Seniors Apply at YM Hut
Seniors or graduate students desiring openings in all vocational fields except teaching should place applications with Janet Smith, University employment secretary, whose office is in the YMCA hut. Would-be teachers are to get in touch with officials of the Teacher Placement service in the education building.

Law Students Will Be Warm; Tunnel Started

Commerce and law students will keep warm in the future. University officials said yesterday, as WPA workers began excavation of a tunnel to be connected to Oregon's main tunnel system, by which heat is distributed to other classroom buildings on the campus.

Meanwhile rain has halted work on the new Humanities building, main feature of a million dollar improvement program begun by the University this fall. As soon as weather permits, construction will be continued. Ground was broken on registration day.

Zollie Volchok To End Work of ASUO Promotion

Assistant Director Of Activities Will Go to Portland

In the midst of his final two weeks as assistant educational activities manager is Zalmon Marc "Zollie" Volchok, who has resigned the position to go into work in his chosen field.

Zollie completed requirements for graduation with the end of last term, and after the 15th of the month will be working for a theater chain in Portland. The new work will begin with six months of intensive training in theater work under a special scholarship arrangement.

Zollie Volchok's resignation leaves the problem of choosing a successor up to the educational activities board, with the possibility that none will be chosen immediately.

While on the campus, Volchok was especially active in promotional and publicity activities. He was in charge of publicity for Homecoming in 1936, and for Junior weekend the same year. Last year he was made assistant to Educational Activities Manager George Root.

The post of assistant educational activities manager began in the nature of an experiment, Volchok being the first to hold the position. Commenting on Volchok's leaving, Educational Activities Manager George Root referred to him as "one of the most worthwhile staff members the ASUO ever had."

Funeral Held for Albert Cup Donor

Funeral services were held yesterday morning in Salem for Joseph H. Albert, 70, retired banker of that city, who died at his home Monday, after a lingering illness.

Mr. Albert was the donor of the Albert prize, a cup given annually to the outstanding senior in the University. He made similar awards in other institutions of higher education.

Albert was born in Salem and received his education there, entering law practice after graduating from Willamette university. He worked in the Capital National bank for 32 years and was active in YMCA and civic affairs there for many years.

Economics Club Sets Topic for Meeting

Problems raised by the proposed merger of Eugene and Springfield will be discussed at the regular meeting of the Economics club Thursday evening on the third floor of Gerlinger at 8 o'clock.

The discussion will be led by Mary Nelson, assistant in the bureau of municipal research. The bureau has been investigating the subject since October, and Miss Nelson has been in charge of correlating the work.

E. W. Smith to Fill Place on State Board

Education Position Left by Pearson; Appointee Former University Student

A man familiar with the aims and problems of education, Edgar W. Smith, will be the new member of the state board of higher education.

Governor Charles A. Martin made the appointment to fulfill the vacancy left by the resignation of Walter E. Pearson, who was appointed to succeed Rufus C. Holman as state treasurer.

Smith, a former University of Oregon student himself, has one son, John William, in the University. His other son, Edgar Leslie, graduated a few years ago and is now working in Eastern Oregon.

Holds Other Position
The new board member was chairman of the Oregon milk control board before his appointment. Smith indicated he will not retire from the milk board. His four-year term will expire in April.

He was formerly general agent of the Oregon Mutual Life Insurance company and is president of Edgar W. Smith and Company. Smith also served as president of the Astoria Flour Mills company, as treasurer of the Democratic state central committee, as president of the Portland Alumni association of the University of Oregon and on the executive committee of the Oregon Dads.

"I'm very happy that my father received the appointment and I know he will do all in his power for higher education in the state," John William "Jack" Smith, a journalism major here, said when asked for a statement last night.

Phi Beta Sets Plans For Initiation Rites

Senior Six Will Join Honorary in Ritual At Alumni Hall

The Senior Six, scholastically the top students on the campus, will become members of Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary, next Thursday. The initiation in Alumni hall at 5:30 will be followed by a banquet in John Straub memorial hall at 6:30.

Dr. W. E. Milne, head of the Oregon State College department of mathematics, will be the banquet speaker. Dr. Milne, who was on the Oregon campus from 1919 until the sciences were moved to Corvallis in 1932, will speak on the topic "Ten Servants."

Dr. E. G. Moll, president of the Oregon chapter, will preside at the banquet. Elizabeth Stetson will respond for the initiates.

The Senior Six, named last term, are Beulah Chapman, Andrei Isoffor, Donald Richardson, Laurie Sawyer, Miss Stetson, and Ben Winer.

The campus tradition of classroom singing has been revived at the University of California.

Men's Gym to Open Tonight to 'Townies'

The University of Oregon men's gymnasium will be open for recreational purposes for the Eugene business men who wish to avail themselves of this opportunity, according to the announcement of Dr. Ralph W. Leighton, dean of the school of physical education.

The gymnasium will be open two nights a week, on Monday and Thursday evenings starting tonight from 7:30 to 9:30. Dr. Leighton said. A choice of wrestling, boxing, basketball, weights, handball, volleyball and other sports will be offered to those who enroll. All necessary equipment with the exception of gym shoes will be supplied. A small fee will be charged to cover this expense and the laundry.

"First Citizen" at Bat Tonight

Dr. C. Valentine Boyer . . . in the slugging pose he usually assumes to open Oregon's baseball season. He will drop this pose at the Eugene realtors' banquet this evening at 6:30 when he is honored as this city's "First Citizen."

Realty Board Banquet Will Honor Dr. Boyer; Nearly 200 Tickets Already Sold

Approximately 200 tickets for the Eugene Realty Board banquet, which will be held at the Osburn hotel in honor of Dr. C. Valentine Boyer, who was recently selected as Eugene's "First Citizen for 1938," have been sold, it was announced last night by E. H. Peterson, president of the board. The honor was accorded Dr. Boyer because of his "example of selflessness, of duty as he saw it, of devotion to the public interest."

The statement of the board read in part: "Because in voluntary renunciation of high office and honors and emoluments thereof that he might again take upon himself the simple but onerous duties of teaching, Dr. Boyer has set an example to students everywhere."

The banquet will be tonight at 6:30 p.m. Special invitations have been issued to the University students and faculty members. Tickets are available at Dr. Erb's office in Johnson hall.

Dr. A. T. Oberg, president of the Eugene Chamber of Commerce, will be the speaker of the evening. Invitations have been extended to Governor Charles H. Martin and Governor-elect Charles A. Sprague.

Business Profits to Be Topic of First of KOAC Winter Talks

Problems or present-day commerce will be discussed by faculty members of the University school of business administration in a winter series of programs to be given each Friday evening at 8:15 o'clock over station KOAC, Corvallis.

The first talk of the season will be given by Dr. Jesse H. Bond, professor of business administration, tomorrow night. His topic will be "Prosperity With Profits."

This will be a follow-up talk of his discussion during the fall series on "Why Profits?" Other speakers and topics will be announced at a later date.

UO Women Meet Debating Team From California

'Youth Movements' Provide Topic for Discussions

Speaking on the general topic of "Youth Movements," a University of California debate team met with Oregon's women's symposium last night in the faculty room of Friendly hall.

Doris Leighton and Evelyn King spoke for the University. Miss Leighton analyzed the economic problems of youth today. She stated, "Youth don't know what is going on around them," and "They need something to do."

Miss King presented nine solutions to the youth problems. Margaret Hill and Norman Lowenstein represented California.

Miss Hill, senior in political science, discussed youth and democracy, which she believes is the most important problem today.

Mr. Lowenstein, senior in economics, insisted that something must be done for the unemployed youth and that democracy and life must be maintained.

Darlene Warren and Miss Leighton will speak with Miss Hill and Mr. Lowenstein this morning at 9:30 before a Eugene high school audience of about 50 persons.

Rademaker Joins UO Sociology Division

John A. Rademaker has been appointed instructor in sociology to replace Dr. Eugene Stromberg, who was unable to assume his duties because of illness. Dr. P. A. Parsons announced yesterday. Mr. Rademaker, who comes here from the University of Washington, has just returned from a meeting of the American Sociological Society held in Detroit during the holidays. He will teach methods of sociological research, rural sociology, general sociology, and community organization.

Dick Williams . . . tells the campus now that "he warned them" the Oregonians would sell out—and they did.

John Stark Evans . . . to replace Paul Petrie as director of the University polyphonic choir.

Dean Ralph Leighton . . . will be host tonight at the first physical education class for townsmen.

Art Holman . . . hanging at a piano as he practices for the "Hobson Hobbie" in Gerlinger Friday night.

Zollie Volchok . . . will cease haunting newspaper offices with ASUO promotion copy after next week.
