

UO, OSC Clubs Plan Sunday Meetings Here

Dr. Dan Gilbert Will Open Lecture Series at Baptist Evening Service

Special events have been announced by local church groups for this Sunday.

Wesley foundation will entertain the Oregon State Wesley foundation during the afternoon and evening. Tea will be served at Wesley house at 4:30 with Wardeen Hadley and Martha Lampa in charge.

After tea the group will go to the Methodist church for social hour. Mary Field, Fred May, Mildred Little, and Merle Waby are planning the program.

Dr. J. D. McCormick, minister of the Springfield Methodist church and former Willamette university professor, will lead the second discussion on "The Sermon on the Mount." Miss Field is worship leader.

Speaking for the first time Sunday evening, Dr. Dan Gilbert, general secretary of the World Christian Fundamental association, will open a series of seven addresses to be given during the week at the Baptist church.

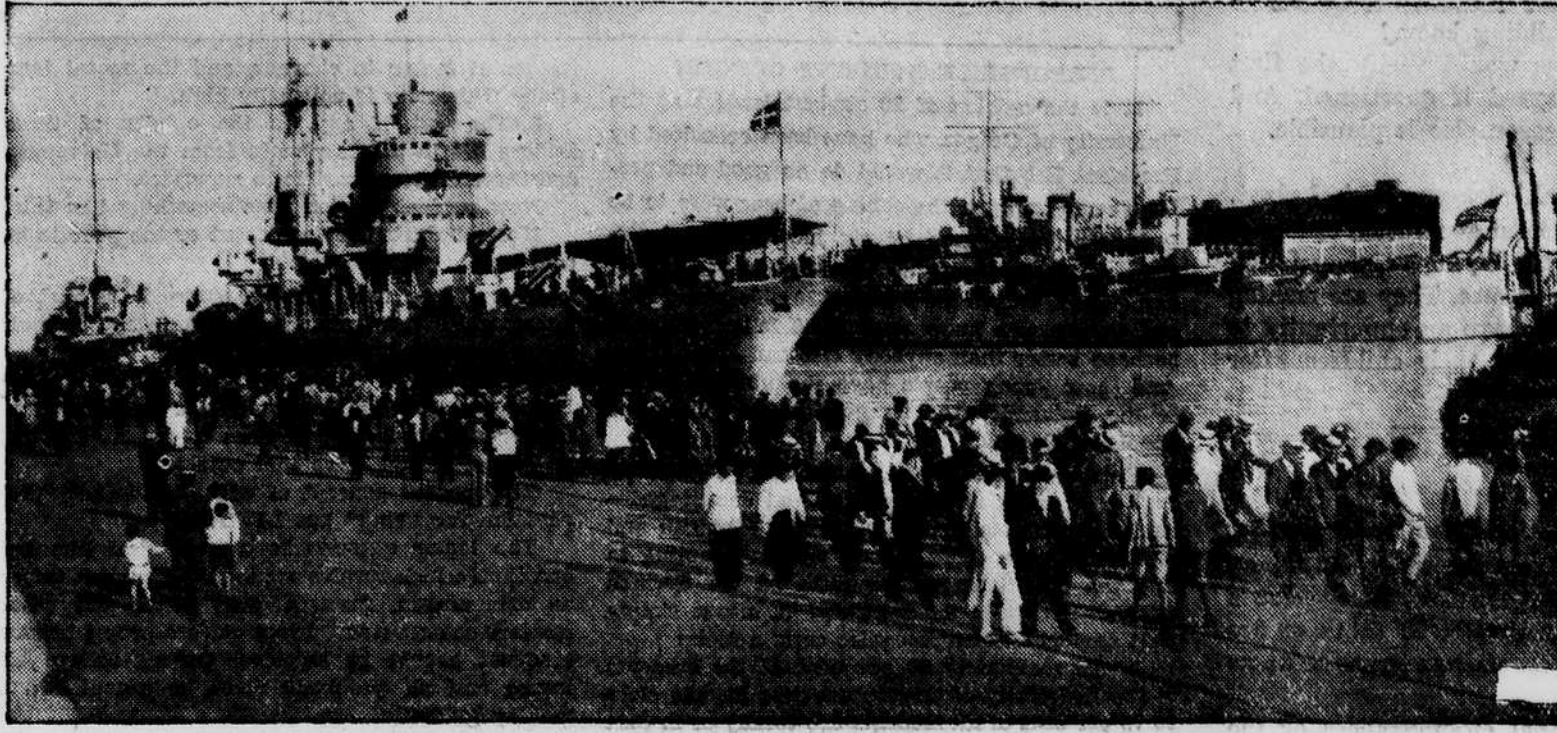

A young man himself, he is author of a number of books for young people. The sermons will be given at 7:30 on Monday, Wednesday, Friday, Saturday, and at both of next Sunday's services.

Rev. Mr. Arthur Jones of the Fairmount Presbyterian church will speak at the Westminster morning group at 9:45 on "Human Relationships." Following the 6 o'clock tea hour, Edna Carlsen, Harold Draper, and Clarence Rose will lead the discussion on "The Social Life of the Campus."

The Plymouth club meeting at the Congregational church at 7 o'clock will have as its topic, "God." Margaret Ray will lead both the worship service and the discussion.

The University of Michigan has a collection of 4,000 old and rare textbooks.

Fellowship Dinner

Reservations must be made at Westminster house by Tuesday noon.

Profs Head North For Regional Meet

University of Oregon professors will head north today for a regional meeting of the American Association of University Professors, to be held at the Faculty club of the University of Washington tonight and tomorrow morning.

Professors from the University of Oregon who plan to make the trip are Charles G. Howard, professor of law; Orin K. Burrell, J. H. Bond, and A. E. Stillman, professors of business administration, and Calvin Crumbaker, professor of economics.

After an informal dinner on Saturday evening will come the first session in the form of a smoker. Problems of standards, arising from mass education and the large transfer of students at the end of the sophomore year, will be discussed.

The Monday morning session will include committee reports on academic standards and economic standards of the profession.

A-tasket, A-tasket, We Have Another Basket

Addition of two large and valuable collections of Indian baskets, Eskimo hunting implements, and other handcraft articles to the University museum of natural history was announced yesterday by Dr. L. S. Cressman, museum director and head of the department of anthropology.

Over 175 articles are included in the collection of Indian artifacts received by the museum of a gift from Mrs. Phyllis Harrington

Co-op Store Is Almost A Bank, Figures Show

Exceeding the most liberal estimate by $72,000 and the most conservative by $92,000, $97,787 represents the total amount of checks cashed at the "miniature bank" at the University Co-op during last term, M. F. McClain, manager, announced yesterday.

Such a figure, he said, means that an average of over $1,350 in checks was cashed each business day during the term. The busiest times, as might be expected, are at the first of the month when students receive their checks from home, McClain said.

Harvard University students have started a movement to provide special scholarships for citizens of Pan-American nations.

Marriage is the life-goal of 96 per cent of the students enrolled in the Pennsylvania College for Women.

Cressman Asked To Speak at Meet of Pacific Scientists

Dr. L. S. Cressman, head of the department of anthropology, has been asked to give a paper at the sixth Pacific Science congress, August 7 to 16 in Berkeley, California.

Two symposia have been planned for the section of anthropology; the antiquity of man in South and East Asia, the Pacific, and the Americas; and the objectives in Pacific physical and cultural anthropology. Dr. Cressman's paper will be on the former, he acknowledged.

The congress is being planned by the universities of California and Stanford, the U. S. National Research council, and other interested institutions and individuals. A. L. Kroeber, chairman of the department of anthropology at the University of California, and E. S. C. Handy are in charge of the congress, Mr. Cressman stated.

UO Band Concert

(Continued from page one) Williams, a leading contemporary English composer, who wrote this work originally for band. Its melodic themes were developed after the composer's long and earnest study of the English folk song.

A thoroughly modern French composition, "Pendant la Fete," by Armand Bournonville, will be played with Robert Carlson as soloist. This was assigned for the Paris conservatory competitions in 1930.

A new transcription of Bach's "Little G Minor Fugue," is always a favorite with concert audiences. Director Stehn believes Debussy's "His Respects to Samuel Pickwick, Esq., P.P.M.P.C.," is described as a "delicious bit of musical wit." The same composer is also represented in his more usual impressionistic vein in "Canopy." Grieg's "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen" and Meyer-Helmund's "Serenade Roccoco" and the finale to Dvorak's "New World Symphony" will conclude the program.

OSC Lutherans to Sign UO Guest Book

Oregon State college will send a delegation here when the OSC Lutheran Student association visits the University LSA Sunday evening at 6 o'clock. The program which is under the direction of Irma Helikson and Orin Wheeler, will feature a speaker.

Plans for winter term, formulated at a LSA cabinet meeting Thursday, will also be approved. A retreat to the coast has been suggested for the following weekend. It would include on the serious side a discussion of "When Is a Personality Christian?" led by Martin Schedler, University student.

Also scheduled are a trip to Oregon State on February 12 and a skating party in Eugene February 24, besides the regular Sunday meetings with special speakers.

Photographs From European Tour to Form Art Display

Photographs taken by Arthur Riehl during his tour of Europe in 1933 will be displayed in the exhibition room of the art building some time this month, according to Dean E. F. Lawrence of the school of architecture and allied arts.

Riehl, winner of the Ion Lewis traveling fellowship in architecture, is now in the employ of the federal housing and administration in Washington, D. C. He is a graduate of the University of Oregon.

The photographs are now being displayed at a meeting of the Oregon chapter of the American institute of architects, in Portland.

Busy Drama Stars

The drama division at the University is not a professional school at all, and the tension and superstition usually attendant upon professional performances seem to languish in the non-professional atmosphere.

The aim of the University course in dramatic training is rather to develop poise and resourcefulness in students than to train them for the professional stage.

Campus Education Course Planned for Freshman Women

Designed particularly for freshman girls in order to help them utilize the campus to the greatest possible extent is the series of "Know Your Campus" talks to be sponsored by the YWCA.

The group of discussions will be divided into three parts. The first group will include the topics: the use of the library; use of the educational clinic, corrective reading, methods of study, and mental hygiene; the speech clinic. Subjects of the second group will be: the work of the placement services, the work of the health service, and the work of the personnel offices.

Included in the third division are: fine book collections, the browsing room; the Carnegie room; the art museums and collections; recreational gymnasium. The lecture series is being planned by Mary Failing.

Horn's Text Places Among 'Fifty Best'

Book Used in Comp Classes Here; Two Others Collaborate

An English composition textbook written by Dr. Robert D. Horn, professor of English, in collaboration with two other professors won a place among the 50 best books published in the United States last year, it was announced here Wednesday.

The distinction, seldom awarded to textbooks, was given in the annual Graphic Arts contest conducted by American book publishers. Dr. Horn's book, the only textbook to be placed on the award list, was judged among the best on format, typography, and content.

The textbook, "Creative Writing for College Students," was written by Dr. Horn, Professor Babcock of Wayne university and Professor Robert English of Emory university. Horn and Babcock, principal authors of the work, corresponded for many years while preparing the manuscript. The prize-winning text, used in freshman composition courses here, was published by the American Book company.

Dr. Horn said he has been asked to prepare another text but indicated that a heavy teaching load will probably prevent him from undertaking the task.

'La Kermesse' OK'd

(Continued from page one) and an evening performance at 7:30, the film will be shown in room 101 of the physical education building. It is being sponsored by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary society, which is making plans to bring additional French films to the campus if "La Kermesse Heroique" is successful. Admission to the picture has been set at 25 cents.
