New Assistant to Activities Manager Already Assuming Duties of Office

Officially named to succeed Zolie Volchok, as assistant activities manager, Ethan Newman, Oregon graduate and Eugene resident, assumed his duties in that office yesterday.

"Newman's appointment by the educational activities board to the position which was opened as a temporary one during the administration of former president, C. Valentine Boyer, was made possible because of the University's increased activities, and the success of the board's programs during the past few years," declared George Root, activities manager. Newman, who received his BS degree in economics, in 1934, was prominent on the campus in politics as a student organizer, and in the drama department. He was the president and organizer of Tabard Inn, and was in charge of the Emerald of the Air for some time.

He placed second in an Edison Marshall contest, and was a member of the National Collegiate Players. For two years he acted as vice-president of the University Co-op board, and was at one time the Oregon band manager. In 1934 he was elected president of the Young Democrat league of Lane county, and for two successive years he handled local publicity for the President's Birthday ball.

Today Is Last Chance To Return New Books

Are you feeling "robbed" because you paid out money for a book that you can't use? Did you get in the wrong class, buy the book before you discovered your mistake? Did you register for one course and later find out that you had purchased the text for another course? Or did you register in a course and decide (after you had the text) to drop it because it was too tough or because it wasn't what you thought it was?

Well, cheer up. There's a solution to your problem.

If the books are returned to the Co-op today (the last day that registrations and withdrawals can be made at the registrar's office without charge), full or partial price of the book will be refunded, M. F. McClain, manager, said yesterday.

Must Be New

He added that the book must be new. Partial refund will be made upon those books in which the student has written his name.

Last term's refunds amounted to nearly $1100, McClain said.

So you can get your money back, but—today's the last day!

Fellowship Dinner Features Folk Game

Folk dances and games from foreign countries will be featured at the social hour of the World Fellowship dinner in Gerlinger at 6 o'clock on Wednesday. Among the folk games will be Chinese checkers—the game which is taking the country by storm—which really isn't a Chinese game at all; instead it's a new name for the Scandinavian "Helma."

Dr. Richard M. Steiner of Portland will speak briefly during the dinner which is to be served cafeteria style. Ted Smith will be master of ceremonies.

Following the dinner, students interested in forming a Cosmopolitan club on the campus will adjourn for organization.

School clothes are in order for the evening, the committee members announce. Reservations are to be in by noon, and may be made at Westminster house.

Portland Minister To Discuss Religion

Assembly Slated Wednesday Night; Forum Thursday

Tomorrow evening at 8 o'clock Rev. Richard M. Steiner of the Church of Our Father, Portland, will appear before a University audience in Gerlinger hall on "Common Sense Religion" as a Christian project on the University campus.

Following his evening address, the noted minister will hold a forum on "Religion and Life" in alumni hall, Thursday morning at 11, when students may ask questions and discuss problems confronting them.

"Since no assembly is being held Thursday, and there are no 11 o'clock classes, I would suggest Rev. Steiner's forum a good place to spend that hour," Dean of Personnel Karl W. Onthank said yesterday.

Any student interested in securing individual conferences with the speaker may do so by contacting Francis Beck, YMCA secretary here, who is in charge of the appearance of Rev. Steiner. Fraternities and sororities or other living groups may arrange to have him speak at firesides at their houses by contacting Mr. Beck, also.

What, No Derby? Dad's Day Motif May Be Blocked

"Save your sport coats, bright green pants, sabot shoes, and screwy hats," wailed Dad's Day Promoter Hub Kuokka last night to the dashing youth of UO.

"Maybe 20 years from now your children will have use for them."

Worries crease the youthful brow of Kuokka who recently got all excited about having the coming Dad's day in the theme of the time when "Dad" went to college and now finds that all the clothes of that period have either been given to the junk men or have made the rounds of the rummage sales years ago.

If anyone knows where the Dad's day committee can get hold of a few turtle-neck sweaters, ankle hugger pants, three and four-button coats, derby hats, frosh lids and all the feminine equipage to match, call the boy at 634-J.

Men's Gym Sends Call for Baskets To Be Rechecked

All men students registered in the University who checked out baskets at the men's gymnasium last term which they have not used this term are requested to report to the basket room and present their fee receipts immediately.

Students who wait to take out their basket for the new term may find their old basket checked out to someone else and be forced to content themselves with a different basket, Frank Plinsky, equipment caretaker, said. This would mean learning a new basket number and locker combination.

'B' Games Won

during the game, but could not connect consistently. Several times the ball went in and out of the hoop.

During the last quarter the teams scored 11 of their 18 points on four field goals and three foul shots. Leading scorers for the game were Tom Fishburn and Bob Hill of the Deltas, with four each.

The lineups:
Deltas (12) (6) Alpha Hill, 4..... F..... 2, Lill Monahan, 3..... F..... 2, Haschko Fishburn, 4..... C..... Bloodworth Selfridge, 1..... G..... Ripley Drach..... G..... Luoma Hewitt..... S..... 2, Page Sigma Chi "B" 15, Phi Deltas "B" 8

Joe Gordon trained his batting eye on a basket instead of a baseball yesterday and dropped in two foul shots out of two tries, as the Sigma Chis snowed the Phi Deltas under a 15 to 8 score.

The Phi Deltas did not threaten the Sigma Chis at any time during the game. The Sweethearts held leads of 5 to 0, 9 to 2, and 13 to 5, at the quarters.

Twenty men, four full teams, saw action during the game. The Phi Deltas sent in 11 men, and the Sigma Chis used 9. The Phi Deltas did not have the ball much of the time in the last quarter, because the Sigma Chis tried to play safe and freeze the ball.

Joe Gordon seemed to be right at home on the basketball floor and covered the territory between the north and south baskets with very few errors.

The lineups:
Sigma Chi (15) (8) Phi Deltas Smith, 1..... F..... Foss Applegate, 5..... F..... Parker Hansen, 4..... C..... 3, Schwieger Sederstrom..... G..... 2, Elliot Lee..... G..... Haughton Anderson, 2..... 'Lowly Items' Grow Into Works of Art

From coal mine to statue—this was the unusual fate of the piece of coal which Miss Muriel Patterson of the art department found and has been transforming into a figure.

Miss Patterson with the use of a chisel, a mallet, a jackknife, and a piece of sandpaper, has changed the lump of soft coal into a shiny black human figure about ten inches high, which is to have a head of aluminum. The coal was chipped slowly to keep it from breaking, then rubbed with fine sandpaper, according to Miss Jean Sutherland, graduate assistant in the sculpture department. It now has the appearance of black marble and is awaiting a head.

Clarence Bates, student assistant in the department, has been working on the cedar figure of a dentist at work to be used by Dr. George Bauman of Portland, for his lecture on dentistry at the San Francisco fair this summer. The work which consists of a dentist and his patient, will be completed this week.

Miss Sutherland has been working on a tiger of hammered copper. As yet hammered copper has not been taught in the school because of the lack of proper facilities to teach it, Miss Sutherland explained. This can be a new work for advanced students who are planning to branch out into the field. Mr. Bates has also been working with copper on an Oriental figure.

Professor Tells of Eastern Trip

Dr. Leavitt O. Wright, professor of Romance languages, has just returned from an extensive trip east.

Mr. Wright was absent nearly a month and a half, and during his trip did some research at the Harvard library and the library of congress in Washington, D. C. He was present at a session of the highest tribunal in the world, the United States Supreme court. His opinion—"It was a very impressive sight."

During his work at Harvard, he was taken ill with a cold and forced to rest for twelve days. However, at the library of congress he did a considerable amount of work.

The trip afforded Dr. Wright great opportunities to meet scholars who are interested in Spanish-American linguistics. This was primarily his purpose in going.

Best International 1936 Motion Picture To Be Shown Today

"La Kermesse Heroique" (Carnival in Flanders), named the best international motion picture of 1936, will be presented this afternoon and evening in the physical education building as the premiere showing of a French film on the University campus.

A completely French dialogue film, clarified with English subtitles, "La Kermesse Heroique" has been brought to the campus by Pi Delta Phi, French honorary society, which is making plans to show a series of the best French movies on the campus.

The picture which received the grand prize of French cinema and the gold medal award of the Venice International exposition of cinematography, was awarded its 1936 title in the face of such American competition as "Mr. Deeds Goes to Town." It was acclaimed by famous movie critics both in America and on the continent.

Pi Delta Phi has been planning to bring French films to the campus for some time. Dr. Carl L. Johnson, head of the French department, in charge of arrangements to bring the picture here, said. He explained that the lack of a University film-sound projector had made the plan impossible, but that the school's recent acquisition of such a machine had stimulated the society's efforts.

The picture will be shown at a matinee at 4 o'clock and at an evening show starting at 7:30. Both showings will be held in room 101 in the PE building. Admission will be 25 cents, Dr. Johnson said.

Setting of the film is in Boom, a small, Flemish town in the 17th century. On the eve of a carnival, news arrives that a Spanish army is approaching to ransack the town. Comedy develops when the burgomaster plays dead and the village holds a wake with the invading soldiers.

According to a review in the New York Times, January 5, 1937, "the film has achieved a delicate balance between broad farce and subtle humor which makes it one of the most refreshing and witty pictures of the year."

Oregana Picture Deadline Final, Says Editor Root

No exceptions will be made for students who have failed to turn in their pictures for the 1939 Oregana. Donald Root, Oregana editor, said last night.

Root explained that last Wednesday had been set as the last day to have the pictures taken and the rest of the week had been allowed them to get the pictures in. "As far as the campus at large is concerned, we will make no exceptions," Root said.

He added that next Wednesday the group pictures would be taken and a scheduled would be published later.

'Prof' Knight Uses Camera To Advantage

The tendency toward professionalism may be the course of the present educational system to some, but to George Knight, member of George H. Godfrey's class in graphic journalism, it is highly commendable.

Knight, in an assignment for the photography class, took a number of shots in the home of Wayne L. Morse, dean of the law school. They turned out exceptionally well, and he submitted them to the Oregonian, which accepted them.

They were featured Sunday in the Home, Farm, and Garden section in a two-page layout as the "home of the week."

Now, George Knight is happy because he has gained "professional standing," most of all because he is $10 to the good!

Co-op Library Gets Many Recent Books

Among new books in the University Co-op library are Lloyd C. Douglas' most recent book, "Disputed Passage" and Bess Aldrich's "Song of Years" in the fiction field. Non-fiction titles and authors include George Selde's "Lords of the Press" and "We Saw It Happen" by 13 New York Times staff members.

New modern library books are also in, reports Mrs. Daisy Hamlin, librarian.

New reprints should be in soon, she said.

Pullman Awaits

Since the middle of December, Coach Hobson's men have played 13 games and only two of them at home. By January 27 when they meet Oregon State here, the Ducks will have played 17 games and only two at home.

Although Coach Hobson is expected to stick to his veteran combination tonight against the Cougars, Johnny Dick, the burly forward, will probably be at a forward post, teaming with Captain Anet, Johansen, Gale, and Wintermute.

Pianists Will Play Hopkins' Composition

When the first notes of Pasmore and Trerice, youthful duo-piano team, sound in concert, in McArthur court Thursday night at 8 p.m. perhaps no one will listen more attentively than will George Hopkins, Oregon's professor in piano, for included on their program is a selection, "Valse Burlesque," which was written and arranged for the pianists by Hopkins himself.

On several occasions Pasmore and Trerice asked Hopkins to arrange a selection for them, and about two months ago, he submitted his completed work to the publishers. Although "Valse Burlesque" has been received by audiences as a solo number, and was given in performance in Carnegie hall, New York, several times as well, Mr. Hopkins is very anxious to hear the duo-pianists' version of it.

"I'm very interested in knowing what they will do with it," he said.

The AWS council will meet at 4:45 today in the AWS room of Gerlinger hall, according to the announcement of Elisabeth Stetson, AWS president.

Also, plans for the AWS assembly, which will be held Thursday, will be drawn up, she announced. Vocational talks by prominent business women will be presented at the Thursday meeting, she added.

Nash Collection Will Be Viewed Only On Request This Week

Only to be opened at the request of special visitors this week will be the schedule of the room in the University library occupied by the John Henry Nash library of fine printing, it was announced yesterday by library officials.
