

Million-Year History of Inland Empire Shown in Film; UO Classes Attend

By CORINNE ANTRIM

The whole history of the Inland Empire since the time it supported a lush tropical growth many millions of years ago until it reached its present arid state is reviewed in a federal film shown to the physical science and astronomy classes yesterday, and still to be shown to the general geology class at 9 this morning.

The film, "Hold That River," is a story of the Grand Coulee dam and opens with a reconstruction of what geologists say must have happened when the Grand Coulee was formed. It first shows the tropical verdure which once abounded in the area and how it was destroyed by a violent volcanic upheaval which covered the basin with hot lava and volcanic ash killing every living thing.

Ice Sheets Next

Next came the ice sheets from the north which further defaced that portion of the earth. The final recession of the ice sheets left the arid waste which characterizes the Coulee country today, potentially fertile but supporting only scant desert growth, because of a lack of life-giving water.

Dam Construction Shown

The latter part of the film shows the construction of the Grand Coulee dam from the building of the first coffer dams and the pouring of the first concrete to the time the film was made, about a year ago. The narrator explains that the dam, the most gigantic engineering feat ever attempted by man, is expected to reconvert the Big Bend country into the fertile valley it once was.

The film succeeds in giving one an impression of the gargantuan size of the undertaking and the engineering skill with which it is being constructed.

Double Feature, No 'Bingo'

Accompanying "Hold That River" is "Earth in Motion," an educational picture filmed by the University of Chicago. It is a graphic explanation of the earth's annual motion around the sun, the change of seasons, and the standard proofs of the spherical form of the earth and its rotation.

These films are the property of the extension division at Corvallis from which they are rented by the physics department of the University. Other educational films from the same source are shown in the physics department every week as a regular part of physics courses.

Cupboard Bare, Oregana Goes Over the Top

Record Sales Clean Up Record Issue

Sold out to the last copy is the 1938 Oregana, it was revealed last night by Oregana Business Manager Dick Williams.

Twenty-two hundred of the yearbooks, the entire issue, an all-time record number, have been signed on the dotted line, Williams reported. Not only that, but there is already a waiting list in case more copies turn up.

However, the waiting list, numbering the lucky total of 10 at this early date, faces only a bare possibility that their waiting will be rewarded, it was indicated. Their only chance is for someone to fail to call for an ordered yearbook.

Not exactly a gloom provoker in the Oregana office is this sales record of clean shelves a month before the campus will see what the Oregana builders have worked out for this year. Last year at this time, through duplication and other errors, there were books on hand to be disposed of, a problem no matter how much in demand the product.

Forerunner of the advent of the finished product to the campus is not so far off, Williams said, with a bound copy of the book due here within the next ten days, which will still be three weeks before issue.

Editor Don Root's job is all done, the Oregana office is practically deserted, except for Dick Williams' work in collecting for Oregana space and subscriptions, and even that work is due to end before long.

Final activity for the office, however, will not come until actual distribution is finished.

Pound is also national vice-president of the American Association of University Women.

The visiting speaker is a personal friend of Chancellor and Mrs. Frederick M. Hunter, whose guest she will be while in Eugene.

Dr. Rudolf Ernst, professor of English, will be in charge of the lecture series meeting, the second of the 1938 talks. Dr. H. J. Noble, professor of history, initiated the speech series early in the year with an address on relations with the Orient.

Knapp and Andron Awarded Fellowships To Eastern Schools

Two graduate assistants at the University have been awarded fellowships for the coming year at eastern universities, it was learned here this week.

Robert Knapp, graduate in psychology, will have a $700 fellowship at Harvard university, where he intends to study for a Ph.D. degree. Knapp was a candidate for a Rhodes scholarship from this campus during winter term.

Mortimer Andron, graduate assistant in social science, will have a $700 fellowship and his tuition at the University of Illinois.

Asklepiads, pre-med honorary, will meet tomorrow night at 9 in the College Side. Important that all members attend.

Possibility Seen Of ROTC Troops Being at Strike

That a group of ROTC students in full uniform may attend the annual anti-war assembly April 20 became a distinct possibility yesterday after a letter was received by Colonel Robert M. Lyon, of the University ROTC, inviting all ROTC students to attend the assembly.

The letter also suggested that credit for one class period be given those who attend the assembly, which will be addressed by F. B. Farquharson, professor of civil and mechanical engineering at the University of Washington.

The letter was signed by Robin Drews, chairman of the Youth Committee Against War.

Colonel Lyon said that it would be impossible to give class credit for attending the assembly but that he intended to urge the students to attend in uniform. He added that he would like to have them march in as a body.

Theta Sigs Name Kay Taylor as Delegate

Convention Goer Also Prexy for Coming Year

Kay Taylor was chosen last night to represent Oregon's chapter of Theta Sigma Phi, national journalism honorary for women, at the annual convention to be held this August 17, 18, and 19 on the Northwestern university campus at Evanston, Illinois, of the journalism honorary last night.

Kay received double honors, as she was also elected president of the group for next year. Other officers elected were Peggy Robbins, vice-president; Harriet Whalley, secretary; Blanche Browne, treasurer; Doris Lindgren, keeper of the archives; and Betty Jane Thompson, reporter.

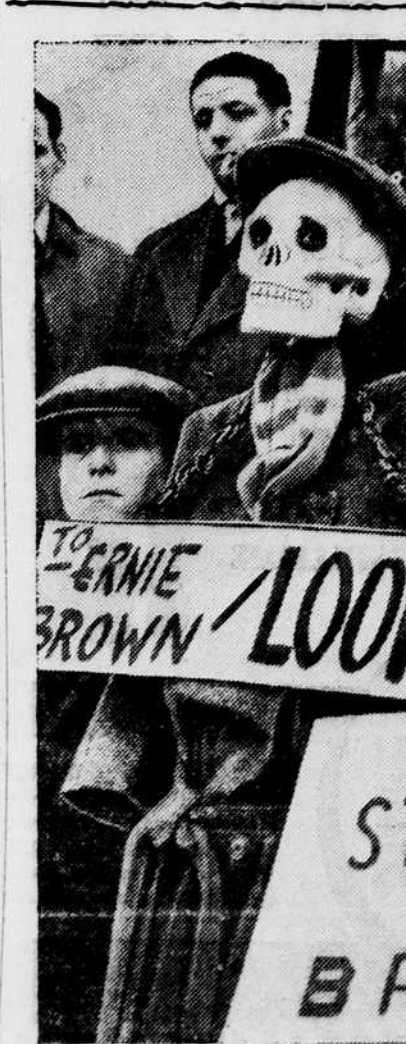

A report on the Matrix Table banquet, was also made and general business attended to. Attention was called to an article in the last issue of the Matrix, annual publication of Theta Sigma Phi, written by Lucille Saunders McDonald, a former Oregon student.

Fifteen Recover In Infirmary

Fifteen students spent yesterday away from the wet weather but in the infirmary. To twelve of the patients, it was a gloomy climax to a weekend, but Grant Bell and Bill Chilcote have been hospitalized since last Wednesday while Raymond Foster was there for the first time Friday.

Others indulging in infirmary attention are: Hanna Foote, Roy Galloway, Eunice Edwards, Calvin Kent, Virginia Anderson, Shirley Gibson, Betty Burns, Dorothy Kesterson, and Herbert Strong.

Dads' -- Moms' Banquet Set For April 19

Parents to Meet Deans of Schools; Students Asked To Write Home

Plans for an Oregon Dads'-Oregon Mothers' banquet to be held on April 19 were announced yesterday as Lane County Oregon Dads' council prepared to cooperate with University officials in sponsoring the event.

Emblematic of a greater Oregon spirit, the committee in charge of the banquet have adopted, "Once an Oregon Dad, Always an Oregon Dad" as a suitable slogan for the affair.

To Meet Deans

Included in the tentative plans for the banquet will be the presentation of the deans of the various schools of the University to the Dads and Mothers. They will be introduced by Dr. Donald M. Erb, president of the University, and a thumbnail sketch given of their particular school.

Students now on the campus, particularly those from Lane county, are asked to write their dads and mothers about the event and to invite them to attend. The price of the banquet has not been set, but will likely be around $5c.

Piano-Violin Recital Set for Thursday

Ralph De Coursey, pianist, will share honors with his brother violinist, James De Coursey, in a recital to be presented Thursday evening at 8:15 o'clock in the music auditorium on the University campus.

Light piano music of the Chopin variety will make up most of Ralph's program. He will play Debussy's "Nocturne," Grieg's "Ballade" and "Wedding Day at Troldhaugen," Dohnanyi's "Intermezzo," Brahms' "Intermezzo," and "Fantasie Impromptu" and two preludes by Chopin. The young pianist is a student of Jane Thacher.

James, who is now studying with Rex Underwood, will offer the first movement from Beethoven's "Sonata in F Major," "La Capriciosa" by Ries, and "Scherzo Tarantelle" by Wieniawski.

The public is invited.

Boy Cellists to Be Featured in Recital by Lora Teshner Ware

It will be "field day" for boy cellists of Eugene next Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock in Gerlinger hall when students of Lora Teshner Ware are presented in recital.

Edgar De Cou will represent Washington school, Bill Hall will represent Condon, and Donald Talbot, Tommy Tugman, and John McGee will represent Edison.

Howard Jones, a sophomore in the University of Oregon school of music will conclude the program with a group of special concert selections.

The public is invited.

Final Plans for Seabeck Now Licked Into Shape; Casteel Named on Faculty

Final plans for the annual YWCA-YMCA Seabeck conference were formulated here yesterday in regional meeting called by Co-chairmen Ruth Anderson of Oregon State and Ralph Severson, University YMCA president.

Other Seabeck officials at the meeting were John Casteel, head of the speech division, who is faculty chairman of the Pacific Northwest student YMCA, and Howard D. Willits, regional YW-YMCA secretary.

Conference dates will be June 10-17 at Seabeck across the sound from Seattle.

Seabeck folders which were issued recently announced the theme of the conference as "Christianity and Democracy in Crisis."

Three From Eugene

Three Seabeck faculty members were drawn from Eugene. Mr. Casteel, for several years one of the most popular leaders, will again serve on the faculty. Rev. Williston Wirt, minister of the Congregational church, and Mrs. Wirt who have done outstanding work in the field of young people's recreation, will take their equipment to Seabeck for that purpose.

Other Leaders Listed

Other leaders will include Douglas V. Steere, professor of philosophy at Harvard; James R. Branton, head of the Linfield department of religion; Mary A. Farquharson, state senator from Seaside; Otis McCreery, Washington state college dean of men; James C. Rette, associate consultant, national resources committee, Portland; Linden A. Mander, professor of international relations at the University of Washington; Miss Hilary Newitt, of England, author of "Women Must Choose."

A. J. Meste, author, pastor and director of the Presbyterian Labor Temple, New York City; Franklin Thompson of Willamette university; Walter Honderich, educational director of the Washington university student cooperatives.

State Psych Meeting Slated for Saturday

Problems on research and applied psychology will be discussed when leading psychologists from all over the state assemble in Monmouth on April 15 for their annual meeting.

The main address of the evening will be given by E. R. Guthrie, from the University of Washington. He will speak on "The Law of Effect in Learning."

Several graduate students and professors from the University plan to attend the meeting and to present papers on various psychological subjects as part of the program.

Dean Lawrence Invited To Education Meeting

Ellis F. Lawrence, dean of the school of architecture and allied arts at the University, recently received an invitation to attend a meeting in the East of the national advisory council of the United States department of education.

Purpose of the meeting is to discuss school building problems. Dean Lawrence has been a member of the council for several years.

The public is invited.

ROTC Officers Get Pay Checks; Total Hits $1880

Advanced ROTC cadets were richer by a total of some $1800 this week with the arrival of the quarterly pay checks from the army paymaster.

More than 80 juniors and seniors collected from the government for their services as contract students. Maximum drawn was $22.50, with the future officers being "docked" to the tune of 50 cents for each day they failed to attend class or formation.

It will be a long time until the next pay day for the sabers-wearers, however. The next issue will be early in June.

ROTC Parades Postponed Again

Over 600 Cadets To Take Part in Review Next Week

It's not parading time yet for the ROTC, it was learned last night from Col. R. M. Lyon, University commandant.

With the unit parades, which each spring term are a feature of late Wednesday afternoons, due to start any week in order to get the total number in, the possibility appeared this week that today would inaugurate the annual series on the drill field.

However, the 600-odd ROTC cadets will have their formal parade baptism deferred another week, Colonel Lyon stated, the first formation being set for a week from today.

Next Wednesday will be the first of six spring parades.

Skipworth to Be Heard On KOAC Program

The school of music program will feature George Skipworth, baritone, Thursday evening in an 8 o'clock broadcast from the school of music over station KOAC, Corvallis.

He will sing "Fiocca La Neve" by Cimara, "Les cloches" by Debussy, "Becausse," Guy D'Hardelot, and "The Twenty - Third Psalm" by Malotte.

Skipworth, who will be accompanied by Dorothy Davis, is a senior in music.

Anne Frederiksen

Plans were laid for the western regional convention set for the campus of the University of Oregon next spring, when AWS executives from all colleges in the 11 western states, will be the guests of Oregon Associated Women at a week-end conference.

After leaving the Kansas meeting, Miss Frederiksen went to Chicago, and then came home by way of the San Francisco exposition.

Ruth Bryan Owen To Speak at Friday Assembly

Friday 11 o'Clock Classes Changed To Thursday

Ruth Bryan Owen . . . to speak on Campus Friday.

In order to make it possible for all students to attend the address of Ruth Bryan Owen, American politician and diplomat, who will take over the rostrum at the weekly assembly Friday, all Friday 11 o'clock classes this week will meet on Thursday, administration sources announced yesterday.

Present plans for the appearance of the woman who was the first to ever hold a diplomatic post include presentation to the student body by President Donald M. Erb, and an AWS council luncheon in her honor Friday noon.

Mrs. Owen spoke at the Univer-

New Westminster Officers Nominated

Senior Members Release 15 Names; Election April 23

Senior class Westminster members, headed by President Edna May Carlsen yesterday released fifteen nominations for next year's officers. Elections are scheduled for April 23 with installation of officers planned for the annual McKenzie river conference May 6 and 7.

Executive nominees include Anne Dean, president; Ed Raser, vice-president; Sam Cox, secretary, and Jean Cable, treasurer.

Committee chairmen named were Bob Knox, forum; Reta Lee Powell, Sunday morning; Elaine Nelson, worship; Alice Mueller and John Wilson, drama co-chairmen; Paul Thunemann, music; Peggy Lou Smith, librarian; Frank Hodson, open house; Helen Sutherland, Sunday social; Becky Anderson, special teas, and Esther Rumbaugh, Student Christian council.

Other names will be added to the list in the forum meeting Sunday, Mrs. J. D. Bryant, hostess, said.

sity several years ago when, according to Dean of Personnel Karl W. Onthank, she was indeed "a success" with both faculty and students. Dean Onthank, chairman of the assembly committee, declared that "Mrs. Owen's appearance on the assembly slate this year. She is a marvelous speaker, friendly and charming, and her career is a startlingly successful one."

KWAMAS MAY VISIT

Kwama has been invited by Talons, Oregon State sophomore women's honorary, to visit them in the early part of May at Corvallis. Plans have not yet been completed.
