Governor Visits Campus Today

Students Will Meet Charles A. Sprague At 11 o'Clock Assembly

Chief State Executive to Install New Student Body Officers in Gerlinger; Classes Excused

Still keyed up from a hectic month of political tenseness, hundreds of Webfoots will hear Governor Charles A. Sprague this morning make official the "X" a majority of them marked on yesterday's ballot to make John Dick the ASUO's chief executive for next year.

"Biggest crowd of the year" was the prophecy made last night by administration leaders for this morning's installation assembly, when Oregon's chief executive declares Dick and his triumvirate of exec council members legally ASUO "rulers of destiny" for next year. The assembly is set for historic Gerlinger hall at 11 o'clock.

Classes Excused

All University classes will have administration-sanctioned vacations at that time to get a first official look at John Dick, Verdi Sederstrom, Roy Vernstrom, and Jeannette Hafner, the quartet a majority of ASUO card holders named last night as their choices for new Oregon student government heads.

Also on hand to add his words of commendation to Oregon's newly-chosen student representatives will be University President Donald M. Erb, who will act as master of ceremonies. ASUO Prexy Harry Weston will make his final assembly appearance, and officially hand the reins over to the basketball-famous Dick this morning.

Shock Bench Shows Coeds Not So Quiet

The lady said "Ouch!"—and that wasn't all. Feminine artists no doubt thought their masculine colleagues far politer than usual yesterday when they saw empty, inviting benches in the art court and boys sitting on the grass. That was before the girls sat. The benches were wired. The girls became animated... the atmosphere, interesting.

"Some of the sweetest little girls say some of the most surprising things," was the comment of one of the masculine torturers, as he glanced over his scrapbook collection of the spontaneous utterances.

Junior Women Select Pledges

Phi Theta Upsilon Chooses 26 Coeds For Membership

Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary, took it upon themselves yesterday to be one of the first women's honoraries on the campus to select new members for next year. Formal pledging took place at an all-women's assembly yesterday afternoon in Gerlinger.

Twenty-six prominent University women were honored at the assembly (Please turn to page four)

Lowry Wins Senior Class Presidency

Swift, Rogers, Winslow Voted Into Office as Politicians Apply Last Minute Touches to Campaigns

Winding up three years of class politics, the juniors elected senior class officers yesterday. A muddled bloc ticket composed of Phil Lowry, Theta Chi, president; Alice Swift, Gamma Phi, vice-president; Alyce Rogers, Alpha Gam, secretary; and Bob Winslow, Chi Psi, treasurer; was balloted into senior office.

The results were: Phil Lowry, 61, and Burton Barr, 47, for president; Peggy Robbins, 52, and Alice Swift, 53, for vice-president; Alyce Rogers, 96, and Paul Deutschmann, 12; Bob Winslow, 53, Charles Hillway, 47, and Bob Dent, 1.

Junior class politicians were not to be outdone by ASUO political hopefuls on election day. Cars carrying candidate propaganda bore juniors to and from the polls.

YW Advisory Board Holds Dinner Party Tonight; Last Meet

Honoring the old and new YWCA cabinets, the YW advisory board is holding a dinner party at the home of Mrs. Clarence Chase, Chase Gardens, this evening.

Cars will leave the YW at 5:30 o'clock, Bettylou Swart, president, said.

The dinner will also mark the last meeting of the advisory board. Mrs. Lester Beck is in charge.

Sigma Delta Chi pledges meet today 105 Journalism at 4:30. Important weekend plans to be discussed.

NOTICE

Although the round table at 3:15 this afternoon with Governor Sprague has been called off because of his scheduled departure immediately after luncheon, Sigma Delta Chi will hold its weekly meeting this afternoon at 4 in 104 Journalism. Considerable important business is scheduled for the meeting.

Junior Weekend Plans Nearly Finished; Luncheon Starts Festivities Friday

Water Carnival Offers Contests In Afternoon

One department of Junior Weekend which will be in a class by itself is the water carnival, successor to what has heretofore been labeled the burlesque canoe fete. Plans announced yesterday for the event indicate it will be a new angle in weekend offerings. The thing is to take on new color this year, according to Chairman Russ Iseli, shedding the burlesque-mock-canoe theme in favor of water sports. Set for 2 o'clock Friday afternoon, the program will offer canoe racing, canoe jousts, clown diving, swimming races, a novelty frosh-dog race, and novelty log-rolling competition, for which the juniors hope for feminine competition.

Humor Planned
Not all the mock-canoe fete will be lost, however, it was stated. Leadoff spot will go to a single mock float on a grand scale, the theme of which is not to be revealed until the actual moment of exposition.

In the log-rolling, which is still a dark horse, the juniors have their hoping equipment set for something like a couple of years ago, when a pair of coeds issued a blanket challenge to anyone who would "burl" with them on the swift waters of the raceway.

More Entrants Invited
Russ Iseli, chairman for the carnival, last night admitted he was still willing to take on more entrants for the various events, for which prizes are being offered. The call includes swimmers, would-be canoe racers, and log-rollers.

Probably the funniest piece of horseplay on the program is likely to be the frosh-dog race, a project still in the formative stages. Iseli and his boys dreamed it up, and now they are moving heaven and earth to make it click. The plan as it stood at last report was to have a few freshmen swim in tandem with their house dogs in sort (Please turn to page four)

Deutschmann Pays Penalty; Takes Bumps

Newspaper editors of fifty years ago certainly had things easy. All they ever got was a mild horse-whipping now and then. But nowadays things are decidedly different. For example the case of Paul Deutschmann, editor of the Daily Emerald. Last night Deutsch enjoyed the pleasures of a millrace bath, a ride in a wheelbarrow, a Sigma Chi hosing, and a starlit walk home from the McKenzie bridge.

It seems that friend Deutsch had planned to dine at the DU house after the election to settle up a few bets and so forth on the political situation. He dined all right! And in royal style! During the meal Deutsch was made the object of numerous songs. Upon request. (Please turn to page four)

All Quiet on Political Front as Students Settle it all at Polls

Sederstrom, Vernstrom, Hafner Win Executive Committee Posts; Campus Celebrates Victory

By NORMAN FOSTER
It's all over now, except for purposeful congratulations, empty beer kegs, broken campaign promises, vacant aspirin boxes, and vivid memories of parades, propaganda, and paint. Because yesterday, campus voters rang down the curtain on the year's political scene by electing students to membership on the ASUO executive committee.

John Dick, Sigma Nu, member of the Oregon championship team, was elected to the highly coveted position of student body president. Verdi Sederstrom, Sigma Chi, will back up Dick in the job of first vice-president. Roy Vernstrom, Delta, was balloted into the position of second vice-president. Jeannette Hafner, Kappa, is the new ASUO secretary. All four students are members of the ASUO executive committee. They will be installed today at 11 by Governor Sprague.

John Dick has been prominent in campus activities, both athletically and politically. Two years ago he was president of his class and a "big gun" of the freshman basketball team. Last year Dick was the alternate for Dave Silver on the varsity basketball team. He played first string ball for Oregon's national basketball championship team this season, and was elected to western all-star rating.

As soon as election returns were made official last night, victorious houses began celebration plans. Most of the houses having winning candidates forgot study rules and quiet hours for the evening. The Sigma Nus held open house honoring John Dick. Refreshments were poured for those attending.

Yesterdays' activities marked the close of political hostilities until next fall. Campus politicians are turning their thoughts from bloc "deals" to textbooks and classrooms. Spring dew with the aid of streetcleaners is gradually erasing painted sidewalk propaganda. Campus conversation has swung to talk of finals and vacation instead of who's going to be elected for what. Peace once more reigns supreme on the campus and piggers are once more worrying how to get their pins back before summer.

Music Offered
Musical numbers will be offered by Virginia Toozie, Barbara Ward, George Sanders, and Leland Chase, as well as a selection by the winners of the Interfraternity sing contest. Phi Beta trio will play an introduction and finale.

The Alice in Wonderland theme will be carried out in the table decorations, under the direction of Jean Kendall. Figurines of well-known Lewis Carroll characters will grace the main table, and flowers will decorate the rest of the dining room. Martin Reig heads the ushers.

A sellout is expected, according to Miss Swart, as tickets for the affair may be purchased in Portland as well as in the dean of men's office. Admission is $1; 75 cents of this money is the price of the dinner, and the other 25 cents will (Please turn to page four)

Foods Classes Hold Dinner Thursday

The foods classes under the direction of Miss Mabel A. Wood, head of the home economics department, is giving a dinner for the minor faculty Thursday evening at 6 o'clock in the home economics building.

The minor faculty is composed of those members who teach subjects in which no credit is given on this campus.

Yeomen will meet at 1 o'clock today at the meadows to work on the queen's float. (Please turn to page four)

OREGANA TO MAKE DEBUT

Handout System Told for Coming-Out Party of 1939 Yearbook

Within a few hours of the time when the 1939 Oregana will be placed in the hands of its various purchasers, the entire distribution program was revealed last night by Dick Williams, Oregana business manager.

Beginning at 8 tomorrow morning, the handing out of the books will go on all through the day, and if there are any buyers who have failed to collect their copies the setup will run on through half the next day, Friday.

The line will form at the student entrance of the Igloo tomorrow morning. A special dispensing cage has been moved out into the hall, the cash cage used during registration for the collecting of fees. It is from this the books will be issued.

Enough books are on hand for all who call for them, Williams said. All except 283 copies are already here, and they will come in by tomorrow morning, the Oregana office has been promised.

If there is any doubt in anyone's mind as to whether an Oregana has been ordered, the thing to do is check tomorrow, Williams said.

Faculty books rate special consideration in the dispensing plan, it was announced. The faculty either wins or loses, for it must wait until Saturday for its Oreganas, but on the other hand these will be delivered.

Only request made by Williams was that those who have ordered would collect their yearbooks tomorrow so the distributing would not have to run on into Junior Weekend. The real reason for the pre-weekend distribution, Williams said, was to prevent the two affairs from merging.

Infirmiry Patients Now Number 14

Fourteen students were recovering from colds, poison oak, athletes' foot, and other illnesses in the campus hospital yesterday.

Listed on the infirmiry registry were: Seth Smith, Katherine Cannon, Dorothy Hangston, Jerry Huntley, Pat Tuller, Ted Olsen, Helen Zawodsky, Stella Ingie, Eileen Dement, Beverly Young, Peggy Snow, Margaret Spliid, Bill Cardinal, and Nick Match.

Crown Prince Olav of Norway will be granted an honorary degree by the University of Wisconsin during his visit in the United States.

Junior Weekend Head Men Hal Jahn and Walt Miller, general and assistant chairmen, respectively. With Junior Weekend now only two days off, these boys are beginning to move faster and faster. They'll probably feel much better in a few days when it's all over. Meanwhile they have worked a banner program for the three days.
