

Tradition Reigns Supreme At Campus Luncheon

Wearing white shoes, a tie, and speaking to a beautiful girl may make an imposing picture for Esquire, but it won't do on the Oregon campus Friday at the campus luncheon.

For this year, the Oregon tradition that forbids any of the aforementioned evils will be strictly enforced as it has been in the past by the letterman club, the Order of O.

The age-old penalty for the grave offense of either wearing a tie, white shoes, or speaking to a girl at the campus luncheon is "dunking," which is being ducked in the pond between Fenton and Deady halls.

Various of Oregon's notables have at one time or another been forcibly ducked in the pond. In recent years, Coach Howard Hobson and Dennis O'Brien Donovan, fiery Irish quarterback for Tex Oliver's gridmen, have been the two most famous "dunkees."

However, this year Donovan will be dunking, instead of being dunked, as he is now one of the most brilliant satellites of the letterman aggregation of stars.

Experience will be the best teacher for those who defy tradition Friday noon, but the tuition will be extraordinarily high.

Eight to See Big Weekend From Infirmary

Eight students were recovering from various minor illnesses yesterday.

Thursday's sicklist included Seth Smith Betty Plankinton, Ted Olsen, Bob McAuliffe, Jim Jarvis, Maxine Winniford, Peggy Snow, and Margaret Spliid.

Tea Scheduled for Visiting Mothers At Gerlinger Today

Mothers visiting the campus this weekend will be entertained at a tea this afternoon in alumni hall in Gerlinger from 3:30 to 5 o'clock.

It is being sponsored by the AWS and YWCA as a special event for Junior Weekend, with Queen Maxine Glad and her royal court as guests of honor.

Officers of the mothers' clubs of Portland and Eugene will pour. In the receiving line will be Mesdames Donald M. Erb, Hazel P. Schwering, C. H. Weston, Alice Macduff, John Stark Evans, and the Misses Anne Frederiksen, Margaret Van Matre, and Bettylou Swart.

Members of Kwama, Phi Theta, AWS Council, and Mortar Board will act as hostesses with the assistance of freshman girls. Mary Falling, Virginia Tooze, and Marcia Wright are in charge.

Campus Tour Slated For Mothers Saturday

Mothers and students will meet in front of the infirmary at 3 p.m. Saturday to be conducted on a tour of the campus.

They will visit the health service, physical education building, art museum, museum of natural history, and library. At the library attention will be drawn to a special display and the Burgess and Nash collections.

Moms Help Students To Pay School Costs

It's not only papa, but mama who helps pay the way of Oregon students. At least, the Mothers' Emergency Loan fund is helping many an Oregon student meet his creditors at the start of each month with a smile rather than frowns or evasive glances.

Each year the fund loans money for short periods of time to help students stay in school until they can obtain money at a later date.

To date controllers of the fund have made 708 loans, amounting to $13,460.30. The average loan is $19.01.

Practically all of the outstanding loans at present will be collected by early summer. The fund will accordingly be largely in cash, ready for reloading by the opening of the fall quarter.

Chairmen of the fund committee will make a full report of the year's financial doings at tomorrow's business meeting of the Oregon Mothers. The fund now values $1,965.17, figures released from Dean of Personnel Karl W. Onthank's office showed yesterday.

Oregon Mothers Add $200 More to Scholarship Fund

By HAL OLNEY

Score another point for the Oregon Mothers. This organization, which has helped so many Oregon students, announced yesterday that the scholarship which they have presented to outstanding Oregon high school students every year since 1935, will this year be increased to $500.

The scholarship was originally set at $300 and has stayed at that figure until this spring when the ever-helpful mothers organization announced that $200 would be added to the original amount.

Some of the leading students of the school and highest ranking scholars are among the beneficiaries of this fund. The first year this scholarship was offered, in the spring of 1936, two students, Paul Deutschman and Tom Turner, were the beneficiaries. Each student received $150. Both have justified their selection by carrying top grades during their college years.

Have Been Prominent

Deutschmann, in addition to earning an accumulative grade point of 3.09, has been prominent in various school activities. A journalism major, he has attained the highest position in that field that a student can receive during his college career—editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald.

Deutschmann is also a member of the ASUO student union finance committee and Sigma Delta Chi, men's professional journalism fraternity.

Tom Turner ranked sufficiently high in the academic line to be pledged to Phi Beta Kappa, national scholastic honorary. He has a GPA of 3.72 for his four years' work.

Other students who have received the scholarship have also been high ranking students. Aida Brun, who was one of the three students awarded the scholarship in 1938, received a straight 4 point GPA last term.

Already 60 students have applied for the scholarship this year. Thirty of the students have received absolutely the highest possible grades during their high school years.

A committee of three faculty members will interview all 60 of the applicants. Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel is chairman of the committee. The other two members of the committee are: Dr. Rudolph H. Ernst, professor of English, and Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the BA school.

Beta Gamma Sigma, business honorary, held its annual election Tuesday evening at a banquet at the Del Rey cafe. The new officers are Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the B. A. school, president; Glen R. McDaniel, vice-president; Miss Ruth May Chilcote, secretary-treasurer; and Theodore Proudfoot, initiation chairman.
