

Oregon Nine Meets UW at Seattle Today

Ducks Tangle With Huskies in First of Six-Game Road Trip Series; Idaho, OSC And Oregon in Three-Way Tie for First

Co-leaders with OSC and Idaho of the northern conference, Oregon's baseballers meet Washington's Huskies at Seattle this afternoon in a game which the Ducks hope will start them swinging along the road to Pennantville. The final game of the Husky-Duck series is slated for Saturday.

For the Ducks today's Seattle affair is the initial contest of a "suicide" road trip slate which lists six games in eleven days. Monday and Tuesday the Ducks engage Idaho's up and coming Vandals, who just recently kicked Buck Bailey's powerful Cougars twice to elevate themselves to the top rung of the conference ladder. And Wednesday and Thursday the Cougars, themselves, will loom large in the path of the Duck Limited.

At present Oregon, Oregon State, and Idaho, the league leaders, all have won five games and lost three. The Cougars—a club blessed with manpower and plenty of pitching—on the other hand, have won only three and lost five. However, Buck Bailey and his warriors are all through with their traveling, so if the Webfoots intend to stay at the top, they must "make hay" on this trip.

Pitching Performances Help

Burley Bob Creighton's great three-hit exhibition against Idaho has skyrocketed Duck hopes. And so has the improved pitching of Al Linn, recruit right hander. Before the Washington series at Eugene, Bob Hardy, ace southpaw was carrying all the load. Hardy's win over Washington brought his victory list to four.

Coach Hobby Hobson's Webfoots beat back the Husky challenge at Howe field by hanging up 16-0, and 3-0 decisions. They did so, however, at the expense of a Husky pitching corps which had just faced the clouting Beaver men of Corvallis. But this week there can be no "ifs" about anything for Coach Tubby Graves has his two star moundsmen—Warren Sierer, victor over OSC, and Chet Johnson, easy-working southpaw who pitched here—ready to go, and he plans to throw them both against the Webfoots.

Coach Hobson will counter this Graves strategy by working his aces Creighton and Hardy, against the Huskies. By throwing these two Friday and Saturday, the Duck coach hopes to have them ready for duty in the last Washington State and both Idaho games. It's Hardy's turn today.

Quinn May Pitch

For relief duty and starting work in the other games, Coach Hobson has Al Linn, Pete Igoe, and Southpaw Jack Jasper ready. And too, Coach Hobby may take a chance by starting Wimpy Quinn, strong-armed third-baseman, in one game. Quinn is very fast, and has a fair hook. In the event that Quinn moves to the mound, either Jack Shimshak or Tom Cox, outfielders, will shift to third.

Cece Walden and Jim Rathbun will share catching duties, Walden starting today.

Set to back up the pitching corps with double plays and fast-fielding, Oregon's infield combination, which once again has been "looking like a million," is intact and will fill the 1, 2, 3, and 4 spots in the batting order. Shortstop Elmer Mallory bats first, followed by Second Baseman Ford Mullen. Bush Smith, classy first baseman who tops all hitters, and Wimpy Quinn, rangy third sacker, bat third and fourth, respectively.

The regular outfield combination of Jim Nicholson, fleet centerfielder, Whizzer White, and Jack Shimshak will start today, unless Coach Hobson decides to play Tom Cox, a veteran of last year's road trip.

Washington will line up with either Sierer or Johnson pitching, and either Jorgenson or Gasparovich catching. Infielders will be Captain George Ziegenfuss, first base; Spencer, second; Pyfer, short; Pripp, third; and Millikan, Peltola, and Dobson, outfielders.

Frosh, Rooks Hold Dual Meet Today

Ducklings Travel To Corvallis—Are Favored to Win

By KEN CHRISTIANSON

Oregon freshmen cindersmen will go onto Bell field at Corvallis this afternoon with high hopes of marking up a second victory over Oregon State's rooks.

After tucking a not-hard-to-take four to one victory under their belts in the annual freshman relays held on Hayward field last Friday, Oregon is rated a better than even chance to upset Oregon State.

Local "railbirds" judge George Stovel's charges to be one of the best squads in years. Oregon is especially strong in the running events while the rooks are strong in the field events.

Ettinger Leads Rooks

Bob Ettinger is the mainspring of the rook attack. Ettinger is Coach Swan's crack sprinter and broadjumper. Oregon State is admittedly very weak in the middle distance events.

Oregon's chances are hampered through the loss of Jack Loving, star hurdler, through ineligibility, and of Carlo Apa sprinter, with a pulled muscle. Apa will make the trip as a trainer.

Stovel has assembled an impressive group of near luminaries for the meet. Dutch Schultz, individual high man in last year's state meet, has hung up very speedy marks in the 100 and 220, and has beaten the varsity sprinters in time trials.

Ray Dickson, second high man in the state meet, will be the hardest taxed of the Duckling entries of the day. He is entered in the low and high hurdles, broad jump, and in the pole vault. Schultz is also counted on in the broad jump.

Wes Steele, holder of the Portland city 440 record, will attempt to duplicate his :51.3 time for the quarter mile. Boyd Lee, second in the state meet in the 440, will team with Steele and together they will try to take a first and second place.

Ed Storli hopes to get his time down to 2:00 for the 880 this afternoon. Storli, like his brother, runs the half mile and is Stovel's big hope for the 880. Ed Reiner has been trodding on Storli's heels all season.

Ray Kleinfeldt, Bill Ross, and Bill Johns are the potential point-getters in the mile. Kleinfeldt has been state mile champion for three successive years.

Martin Luther will run with Dickson in the hurdle events.

In the high jump, Harvey McKee and Clair Adams will form a duo of six foot plus bar-clearers. Loyal Lang will be the other yearling entry.

The discus and the shot-put will be filled out with Elmer Hansen and Ed Radigan. Bill Rickman and Radigan will toss the javelin.

In the mile relay, Al Toole, Bob Olson, Lee, and Steele will run. Dick Stanton will team with Schultz in the sprints.
