USCTie Game Boosts ASUO Card Sales

Newest of UO Build

ings to Open Today

Chapman hall . . . The last unit in the University's million dollar building program. Although the Co-op store on the ground floor has been open for some time, the first classes will be held in the new building today. Only the main auditorium will be open for classes today, the rest will be completed some time next week.

Chapman Hall Officially Open for Classes Today

Main Lecture Room Finished; Students to Enter New Hall Soon

Rest of Building to Be Ready for Occupancy Within Two Weeks, Dr. Norris Says

Four classes of Webfoots today will see the new Chapman hall for the first time, when professors of social science, world history, psychology, and United States history take roll there in the main lecture room.

Finishing touches were put on room 207 last night and it is now ready for the influx of students for classes today. The rest of the building will not be ready for classes for several days.

Scheduled to meet in Chapman 207 today are Dr. H. D. Sheldon's world history class, Dr. R. C. Clark's group of US history students, Dr. Breen's sections of background of social science, and the psych class of Dr. H. R. Crosland.

The home economics kitchen and other rooms on the upper floors will get finishing touches during the next week, Dr. W. V. Norris, consulting engineer for the president's office, said last night.

Students who have classes in the Chapman hall lecture room today have been asked to enter by the east entrance, since the regular classroom entry is not yet completed. Halls and classroom floors in the new structure are covered with grey linoleum bordered with black. All woodwork is of hard wood stained light green.

The departments of religion, philosophy and sociology will have offices in Chapman hall, according to the new arrangement.

STAFF RECEPTION TONIGHT

The annual president's reception for University of Oregon faculty and staff members will be held tonight in the alumnae room at Gerlinger hall from 9 to 11 o'clock.

Guests at the affair will pass the reception line after which they will be served refreshments.

NOTICE
A complete list of all Emerald copy desk and night staff workers appears on the bulletin board in the news room of the journalism building.

Ex-Comm Holds First 1939 Meeting

Rally Committee List, Dance Gets Approval

Returning to business after the four-month vacation, the ASUO executive committee opened up shop yesterday in a luncheon meeting, the first of the year.

First item to go through the mill was official approval of the rally committee list as published in the Emerald last week. Approval came by vote after some discussion. Upshot of the discussion was the appointment of Verdi Sederstrom, first ASUO vice-president, to head a committee for constitutional revision from time to time. This is a standing committee within the executive committee, and is always part of the annual setup.

Only other item to come up was the rally committee's dance, which (Please turn to page four)

Dick Names Rosson To Exemption Board; Received '38 Saber

Bill Rosson, Beta Theta Pi, was last night named by ASUO President John Dick as the 1939 student member of the military exemption board.

Rosson, a senior in business administration, last year was awarded a saber given each spring by the military department to the outstanding junior in ROTC. He will succeed Jack Wagstaff to the position on the exemption board.

Full membership in the faculty committee which reviews petitions for release from ROTC training is to be vested in Rosson, Dick said.

Calvin Crumbaker, professor of economics, is chairman of the committee, and R. K. Cutler, assistant professor of education, and A. B. Stillman, associate professor of business administration, are members of the committee.

Freshman Meet Tonight; Villard Hall to Be Scene Of Constitutional Change

ASUO Vice-President Vernstrom To Help Organize Frosh Class; Assembly Scheduled for 4:45

By NORMAN FOSTER

The class of '43, one of the largest freshman groups ever to register at the University of Oregon, will meet tonight at 7:45 p.m. in the Villard assembly. The purpose of the meeting is to arrange a constitution that will set up the present tin pants wearers as an official class. As is customary, Roy Vernstrom, vice-president of the Associated Student Body, will preside.

All members of the class of '43 are urged to attend tonight's meeting, because of its importance both to the class and to the individuals. Accepting a constitution is the first step toward freshman participation in campus life. Election of officers, plans for the homecoming bonfire and political appointments will highlight frosh activities for the coming term.

Should Bring Book

Chairman Vernstrom has asked that the freshmen familiarize themselves with the constitution handbook which they received last Friday night and also to bring said handbook to tonight's meeting. Several suggested changes have been made in the present constitution, and according to Vernstrom, the Freshmen should be prepared to receive the constitutional amendments.

The suggested changes in the Freshman constitution are: pages 30, 31, and 32, strike out '42 and substitute '43; Section 2, article 4—eliminate last four words of the paragraph; and section 3, article 4—strike out entire last sentence.

The by-laws on page 32 are not to be considered as a part of the constitution that will be presented in tonight's meeting, according to (Please turn to page four)

Erb Lauds YM At Meeting

Organization Vital To Social, Spiritual Life, Erb Declares

"The YMCA has a function to perform on the University of Oregon campus which is not filled by any other organization." This statement keyed the talk of Dr. Donald M. Erb to the freshman council sponsored by the YMCA in the "Y shack" Tuesday evening.

"When the intellectual, spiritual, and social life of the students of the University is taken care of 100 per cent, it will be time for the YMCA to consider disbanding. But that times does not seem to be coming in the immediate future," the president of the University told the group. "The YMCA offers a splendid opportunity to combine a social with a spiritual life," Dr. Erb declared. The president titled his speech, "The Place of the 'Y' in a Well-rounded College Life."

William Kidwell, dean of men for Eugene high school, made an informal talk on the transition from high school to college and the YMCA's position in that transition.

Roy Vernstrom, second vice president of the ASUO, covered the same field speaking from the viewpoint of a student. Anne Frederiksen, president of AWS, could not make her scheduled appearance which was to center on the characteristics that college women admire in college men.

Paul Sutley, executive secretary, and Frank McKinney, president, played prominent parts in the freshman council which will meet weekly on Tuesday in the "Y" hut for the duration of the year.

Oregana Editorial Staff Meets First Time Tonight, 7:30

First meeting for work on the Oregana editorial staff will be held tonight at 7:30 at 101 McArthur court.

All persons interested are urged to come to the meeting by Oregana Editor George Knight. New students, as well as old workers, are invited. The Oregana office is on the second floor of the Igloo.

STRONG EXPECTED FOR GAME

Winners in Card Sales Drive Still Undetermined; 6 Houses 100 Per Cent

Spurred by last Saturday's football success and the prospect of another this weekend, ASUO card sales went through their greatest day since the drive started. No figures were available, but yesterday's sales were expected to set a blistering pace.

Apparently Saturday's game in Portland will see most of the student body on hand to jam the bleachers. After Saturday late buyers of ASUO cards will not be able to get full value for their money, because the game will already be crossed off the list, and cards will stay at the same price.

SAE Continues

Meanwhile the davenport-chair squabble was in its second muddled day, with everyone concerned looking for exits. The furniture, prime booty for the first houses to go 100 per cent ASUO, was claimed Monday by more than one house. By yesterday the field had been narrowed down to two houses, Sigma Nu and Pi Kappa Alpha.

Big pre-game event is a Friday night rally on Broadway, Chairman Bob Hochuli announced. Here there will be a platform in front of the (Please turn to page four)

100%

Latest report from the educational activities office was to the effect that the matter had been presented to Dean of Men Virgil D. Earl, who had pronounced it subject to the scrutiny of the ASUO judiciary committee. This committee is provided for in article five of the ASUO constitution, printed in the ASUO handbook.

BULLETIN

Below is the ASUO "Salesmeter" which will each day show at a glance the percentage of ASUO membership at the moment. Today's level is 53.3 per cent. Watch it climb!

By now at least half a dozen houses are in the 100 per cent fold, according to Glenn Eaton, who is heading the fall term drive to student body membership. Several houses lack only one or two members of having a full slate, he said. Every outfit going 100 per cent will get free ice cream, he reminded.

Sign Up

Today a big thermometer-sign, showing the percentage of membership so far run up in sales, will go up in front of the old Co-op store, Eaton said. Each day the mark will be changed as it raises with new sales, just as in the Emerald.

Winners Named

New winners were named today in the sales race among the drive staff, each case collecting $1 theater scrip books. Pat Taylor, leading captain, won for her work with sororities. The girls outsold the boys two to one. Chief Eaton reported. Carl Little, ATO, sold the most among fraternities for the day, Maxine Hansen, DG, most for sororities. Ken Erickson, captain for independent students, outsold all of his salesmen.

With the game now only three selling days ahead, sales are expected to mount daily as football-minded Webfoots buy in. ASUO cards mean free admission Saturday.

Miss Chilcote Bride Of Hale Thompson In September 26 Rites

Miss Ruth May Chilcote, instructor in business administration and office secretary in the school of business, became the bride of Mr. Hale Thompson Tuesday, September 26, at the First Congregational Church of Eugene.

Mr. Thompson graduated from the University law school in 1937 and is now practicing law in Eugene.
