She'll Head UO Band in Future

Mary Anderson . . . will take her place at head of the University band at the Gonzaga game. Mary was given the position by a student affairs committee ruling yesterday. Before entering the University this year she was drum maitress for the Eugene high school band.

Ducks Favored to Down Bears In Vital Game at Berkeley Today

Coaching Staff Optimistic as Game Nears

Webfoots Given Slight Edge Over Golden Bear Eleven; Starting Lineup Uncertain

Can the Oregon football team play the "big three" of California in three straight weeks without a defeat? This afternoon at 2:00 o'clock in Strawberry canyon, Berkeley, this vital question which has confronted the football department of the University of Oregon will be settled.

The Ducks will go into the game a favorite for the first time in 13 years, not since 1926 when Oregon scored an upset. Betting odds range from 10 to 9, to 2 to 1 odds on Oregon. Only football "expert" to choose Cal is Norm Speer, who rates them a slight edge.

In Good Shape

When Tex Oliver left Eugene Thursday, he said his squad was in as good shape physically as they had been at any time this season. Only team member not to make the trip who ordinarily would be Ray Segale, soph guard, who is now sporting a cast around his right knee. It is expected to come off by next Monday.

Coach Oliver said that he wouldn't take $20,000 to pick the exact score of the game today, but by a flip of the coin, he would stick with his own team to win. This optimism is a bit unusual for the coaching staff, yet everyone else says the Webfoots are the team to beat.

Lineup Indefinite

Starting lineups are somewhat indefinite. The Oregon team will probably be the same as the one that started against Stanford. The only change is that the two heaviest halves, Johnny "Buck" Berry, and Bob Smith may start at opposite half positions today in place of Jay Garybeal. Chet Haliski and Bull Stenstrom will open at quarter and full.

Tex Oliver . . . plans defeat for the Golden Bears of California in today's tilt.

Kelly Returns From Institute

Professor C. L. Kelly of the school of business administration attended the American institute of Accountants held at the Fairmount hotel in San Francisco from September 18 to 21.

While there he attended sessions on taxation, on the revision of certificates, and the general meeting at which was discussed the various problems that now confront the accountant. The meeting was outstanding, according to Professor Kelly, in view of the problems that arose concerning the McKesson-Robbins swindle.

One-half day of the meet was given over to visiting the San Francisco world's fair. Professor Kelly considered the fine arts exhibit at the fair especially good. During the convention San Francisco experienced the hottest weather in years.

Campus Adonises Prepare Techniques; Gorgeous Coeds Ready for Awaited Annual University Open House Foot War

BY ELEANOR ENGBAHL

Tonight is the night when handsome campus Adonises pull out their walking boots with the two-inch soles and perambulate the campus to glimpse the gorgeous gals in their natural haunts.

Starting at 7 o'clock, boys are to migrate from one girls' house to another until 11:40 when they begin the homeward trek. The line of march may be located in yesterday's edition of the Emerald.

From a quiz of several sororities, it is probable that phonograph records or radios will furnish the music for the evening.

Last year there was some trouble with the boys' houses not observing their full ten minute waits. If the boys can wait their allotted ten minutes it will avoid many a pile-up, according to Betty Lou Kurtz, president of heads of houses.

This is an annual event which is not to be trifled with, according to several voices of experience. It is whispered about that local drug stores have a boom in bunion and corn plaster sales directly "open house" is over. But be of faith, it must have been just last year that such things happened.

WAA to Entertain Frosh Women at Wednesday Tea

At four o'clock Wednesday afternoon, the Alumni hall at Gerlinger will be the scene of a WAA tea for freshman women.

Janet Morris, head chairman for the tea, revealed the names of some of the committees; others will be named later. Refreshments, Betty Mae Lind; serving, Jean Boggs; invitation, Bette Morfitt; clean-up, LaVaune McDonald.

Preparations have been made to make the tea a really enjoyable one. All freshman women are urged to attend.

Eight students of Little Rock Junior college are earning their college expenses operating a peanut butter plant.

The Campus Crumb is the name of a lunch service managed by Haverford college students.

Stehn Favors a UO Fight Song

Lusty-lunged University undergrads need a new fight song. The latest voice of authority backing this statement is that of John Stehn, Oregon band boss.

"Mighty Oregon" gets mighty boring because of its constant use as a fight song, for which purpose it was never intended, Stehn opined yesterday.

While rooters performed creditably with the pledge song at the Stanford game, they must have a spirited fight song to show their best efforts, Stehn said. The Oregon band leader definitely demonstrated his interest on the subject as he outlined a procedure through which the University could find a song.

The method used by Stanford in getting their fight song, "Come Join the band," was, first, to pick a good march written by a good march composer and, secondly, to write the words. "It sounds simple and really is," Stehn stated. "There is no trick in writing songs. An oil worker wrote the words and whistled the tune of the new Ohio State song, which became a success."

Same Method

The University of California "Sturdy Golden Bear" is a good example of a fight song that was obtained by the same method used by Stanford.

"Oregon could follow this same method," Stehn declared, "by picking several spirited marching songs which would be suitable for a fight song and playing them before a student committee which would represent the student body as a whole. After the committee has chosen the song a lyric writing contest could be held.

Certainly there could be found, somewhere about the University, persons or an organization that would be willing to donate a prize to the person writing the best set of lyrics.

Mystery Shrouds Gift

$250,000 Bequeathed To University

Officials Receive No Word About Affair

Officials of the University of Oregon are faced with a mystery today as the result of news reports concerning the bequest of $250,000 for the University of Oregon made in a will filed Thursday in surrogate's court in New York.

The will is that of Mrs. Mildred Williams who died in Beverly Hills, California, on August 29.

The bequest is made in memory of the late Dr. Kenneth Mackenzie who was one of the founders and the first dean of the University of Oregon medical school in Portland.

No one on the Oregon campus knows yet whether the money is to be given to the medical school or to the University since no word has been received yet to clarify the situation except press reports which gave the first indication of the gift.

Milton Horn, noted sculptor, is a resident instructor at Olivet college this year.

Notice: House Managers

The Emerald business staff requests that all house managers phone the business office and report how many student body members there are in their respective houses.

Professor and Family On Extensive Tour; Travel 10,075 Miles

Professor and Mrs. Jesse Bond and their daughter Ruth Virginia and Steffany Huestis, daughter of Professor and Mrs. R. R. Huestis, traveled 10,075 miles over the United States in seven weeks this summer.

Some of the places on their itinerary include the following: San Francisco World's Fair, Boulder Dam, Zion and Brice Canyon national parks, Grand Canyon, Williamsburg, Washington, D. C., New York world's fair, Boston, Concord, Philadelphia, Niagara Falls, the Bad Lands and the Black Hills in South Dakota, Rushmore Memorial, and the Yellowstone national park.

At the San Francisco fair they enjoyed the beauty of the flower arrangements on the grounds, the lighting effects at night, the art exhibit, and some Chinese jugglers in the Chinese village there.

ROTC Frosh Shoot It Out

FLASH: Beware of the ROTC rifle range next week! Approach only at risk of mortal injury.

The military department announced Friday that the 600 freshmen enrolled in the ROTC would start rifle practice on the indoor range next week.

Staff Sergeant Harvey Blythe will instruct the freshmen in the fine art of the rifle. Sergeant Blythe in the past has turned out rifle teams that have brought championship after championship home to Oregon. Most notable of the competition units was last year's national championship team which brought home the coveted Hearst trophy.

At the present time Oregon holds both the national championship and the Ninth Corps Area championship, all of which makes Oregon's marksmen the finest college team in the United States.

Sergeant Blythe is confident that this year's crop will produce a team as fine as last year's to uphold Oregon's supremacy.

Los Angeles City college students drank 1,500 bottles of pop daily during the recent California heat wave.

Gonzaga university's athletic coaching staff is composed entirely of graduates of the school.
