

For Women Only

By MARGE FINNEGAN

First of all this week we must brag about our fan letter (after all we may never have another) in which our devoted reader stated he no longer lived from week-end to week-end—but from Thursday to Thursday for the Emerald women's page. Hm! what a stupid existence! But any kind of fan mail is appreciated as long as it doesn't cost us anything.

We Liked 'Em
"With Fear and Trembling", and stepping where angels fear to tread, may we now venture our very meek opinion on the rally committee. Maybe we're wrong, but we thought they did o.k. last Saturday. Best in years, we'd say—but that's not a very strong compliment. Anyway we thought they'd improved, but maybe we'd better drop it right here. . . .

Annual AWS Carnival Set for Saturday Night

Riding, Shooting Activities Liked By Barbara Stallcup

By CORRINE WIGNES

She can ride and shoot with the best of them, but she doesn't have a cowboy waiting for her at home.

Barbara Stallcup, popular brunette coed came to the University from her home on "Big Springs" cattle ranch in Montague, California because she had always had a yen for a college with ivy-climbing the walls of old buildings. She thinks the California college buildings are too modernistic, but says Oregon's University is just like the colleges you read about in books. Very congenial, and a fluent speaker, Barbara is twenty years old and five feet three and one-half inches tall.

Attends National Convention

As president of her sorority, she attended the national Alpha Xi Delta convention last summer; visited both fairs enroute and also the Pendleton Roundup. Although not especially interested in athletics, she learned to ride well on the ranch, and acquired accurate marksmanship ability on the University rifle team, of which she was publicity manager last year and is secretary this year.

Barbara's executive ability is being well tested by her position as co-chairman of the AWS carnival to be held Saturday night. She is a member of Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's honorary, and treasurer of the heads of houses organization. Last year she belonged to Kwama, sophomore women's service honorary.

Headed for Alaska

Someday Barbara is going to work on a newspaper in Alaska (she hopes). Just why she chose Alaska is difficult to say. She wants a career but says when she marries, she will mix the two and continue her work. She will do the housework and cooking, and her dream man, an intelligent athlete, with a good personality, will do the dishes!

View on Pins

"The idea of 'planting pins' doesn't mean enough to girls on this campus," says Barbara. "Almost any girl can get a pin, but I think if she takes it, it should mean something besides the mere fact that she is wearing it."

A fascinating hobby, the study of people, is one of our coed's chief interests. She develops her own personality by making new friends and knowing lots of people.

Barbara stated that, besides journalism she likes art courses. She dislikes high soprano opera singers. As background for her journalistic career, Barbara worked two summers on the Siskiyou News in Yreka and also was active on the Emerald staff during her first two years at the University. She received a state scholarship for her freshman year.

Syposium Members To Have Publicity Pictures Taken

The 34 members of the men's syposium group will meet at the University news bureau to have pictures taken for publicity purposes in Oregon newspapers Thursday noon, W. A. Dahlberg, assistant professor of speech and director of the group, announced Wednesday.

The syposium members are divided into two subject groups; 16 of them are planning to speak on propaganda, the others will speak on the distribution problem of consumable goods.

James L. C. Ford, assistant professor of journalism, will speak to the first group on "Propaganda" tonight.

Dress of the Week

Something new in hue—autumn moss green—was worn by BETTY McNEICE, in an attractive one-piece downy wool sport dress.

A rather unusual treatment of neckline and sleeves was created by the heavy over-lapping stitch which trimmed the edges, collar and cuffs.

Very practical was the skirt with flaring pleats, also stitched with an over-lapping cord.

Diagonal gathers across each shoulder gave the bodice a pleasing draped effect.

Leather buttons fastened the dress down the front.

Many Houses Have Exchange Desserts

Changing the order of things a bit, Gamma hall will act as host Thursday evening at a preference dinner dance. Also holding a dessert in honor of their preferences Thursday evening will be Phi Gamma Delta.

Houses exchanging desserts Wednesday night were Sigma Alpha Epsilon—Alpha Delta Pi; Sigma Nu—Susan Campbell; Chi Psi—Kappa Alpha Theta; Phi Delta Theta—Alpha Phi; Phi Kappa Psi—Sigma Kappa; Alpha Xi Delta—Sigma Phi Epsilon; Alpha Gamma Delta—Theta Chi; Zeta hall—University house; Alpha hall—Hendricks hall; Delta Gamma—Beta Theta Pi; Delta Upsilon—Alpha Omicron Pi; Delta Delta Delta—Kappa Sigma; and Alpha Chi Omega—Sigma Chi.

Those scheduled for tonight are Campbell Co-op—University house; Pi Beta Phi—Sigma Nu; and Chi Omega—Pi Kappa Alpha.

Westminster House To Entertain Visitors

Westminster students and their mothers will entertain a group of ladies from the First Presbyterian church in Portland, who will visit the Eugene and Corvallis Westminster houses tomorrow.

A tea has been planned for them, at which the Westminster quartet, including Paul Thunemann, Francis Doran, Steven Rice, and Cecil Craft, will sing.

Frivolous Footwear For Fall

Today's frivolous feet demand more than just a covering . . . recognizing this, downtown stores offer shoes that are practical for the active coed, be it a sport event or formal dance . . . if you swear by the saddle shoe, choose the fall version of all brown with a chill-brown saddle . . . an oxford that promises much is the tan soft leather with matching leather ties, and it needs only an occasional soap and water bath to look like new . . . another point in its favor is its leather lining to protect your hose . . . the loveliest, lightest sandal for evening to be seen is a high-heeled silver brocade with small colored flowers . . . and perfect for your important first formal is a pleated white satin slipper buckled with rhinestones . . . there comes a time in every girl's life when comfort is the prime consideration, and then it is that house slippers come to the fore . . . extremely luxurious and smart is a kid moccasin, gathered softly just above the toe, meant for indoor wear only . . . it can be had in white or blue, and if you're a patient soul can be ordered in other colors . . . the box toe and Turkish toe have been copied in moderately priced shoes . . . most street shoes have closed toes and heels this fall . . . can it be that we are bowing in defeat to the inevitable Oregon mist? !

Poetry

By MARY KAY BOOTH Exhibit A

Those little faults you have concealed,
Alas, are too plainly revealed
By your wastebasket!

The eyes of friends have quickly spied
The flunks on tests you tried to hide
In your wastebasket.

The bills you really meant to pay
Somehow always find their way
To the wastebasket.

Letters you left unreplied
Blithely peep from o'er the side
Of your wastebasket.

A broken diet is revealed
By candy wrappers ill-concealed
In your wastebasket.

If you would keep your secrets hid,
Then heed me, and attach a lid
To your wastebasket.

Red Leaves and White

The winter was made to study in
But autumn was made for play.
It's hard to read all those dry, old books
On a lovely October day.

The trees have showered the street
With leaves
Of scarlet and brown. Just look!
Now, honestly, don't they far surpass
The white leaves that fill your book?

Ode to the Carnival

I've searched my mind so many times
To find a word that really rhymes
With "the carnival."

My poem's sure to be a wess
If I try adding AWS
To "the carnival."

So may I say, though this is trite,
Words fail me when I try to write
Of the carnival.

But anyway, rhyme or no rhyme,
You're sure to have a darn good time
At the carnival.

Dean Morris Speaks

Dean Victor P. Morris will give an address this noon in Corvallis on "The Current International Picture" at a meeting of the Triad club. The club is composed of members of the Oregon State college faculty.

Reception, Dances, AWS Carnival Round Out Full Weekend

Saturday evening the AWS swings open the doors of luck in McArthur court when it will present its annual carnival. Beginning at 8 o'clock the informal evening offers games of chance, a jitney dance, and many special entertainment features. The Igloo will be one noisy and gay midway with all men's and women's living organizations participating. Bob Calkins' orchestra has been signed for the dance, and the women have planned a "barrel of fun."

Pi Kaps Set

For Pledge Dance
A "harvest hop" is the theme of the Pi Kappa Alpha pledge dance scheduled Friday night. A hay ride complete with accordion music is being arranged and old cords and gingham dresses are in order. Alpha Gamma Delta

To Have Reception

Honoring Mrs. Mabel Munger, their new housemother, and Miss Margaret Hilchie, national inspector, Alpha Gamma Delta will hold a reception Friday evening from 8 to 10 o'clock. Mrs. Donald Erb, Maude Kerns, and Lois Ann Soule will entertain.

Tri Delt's Keep

Dance Theme Secret
Although the theme will remain a complete secret until Friday night, Delta Delta Delta pledges will be honored at a formal dance at the chapter house, Art Holman's orchestra will furnish the music.

Delta Tau Delta active members will entertain with a preference dinner at 7 o'clock Saturday evening.
