

For Women Only

By MARGE FINNEGAN

Vacation days are over again for the next three weeks and it's really "back to the grind" with finals so near and work stacked high on everyone's desk. More people are seen in the library every night now, and Hood River apple growers are receiving rush orders from students with low grades.

Speaking of apple-polishing sets me off on another track. A recent campus visitor from the University of Mississippi informed us of differences in our college jargon. Apple polishing on that campus is commonly referred to as "quillin," and they speak of cokes, the all-college favorite beverage as "dope."

In fact, the visitor stated that she was much surprised to find the name "dope" was not universal. She asked for a dope in a

Pot and Quill Writing Contest Closes Tonight

Aspirants to membership in Pot and Quill, campus creative writing honorary, must have their contest entries in the box in the library by closing time tonight, Muriel Beckman, president warned last night.

From the list of entries, the honorary will recruit its new members, Miss Beckman announced. Although it is not necessary to win a prize to be eligible for membership, a first prize of $5 will be given for the best entry, she stated.

Limited only by the fact that entries must be creative work, entries may submit poetry, essays, and short stories.

Nickel Hop Tonight; House Dances Fill Last Open Weekend

By MARY KAY RIORDON

Modernizing the traditional "Dime Crawl," Oregon women offer the "Nickel Hop" tonight from 6 to 8 o'clock, an opportunity for campus men to dance with the girls of their dreams for a nickel. The dance will be informal with sport clothes appropriate, and keen competition will be offered by all living organizations for the loving cup which is annually given to the house collecting the most nickels in ratio to its members.

DU Kiddies Party

It will be "back to the days when" Saturday night for Delta Upsilon pledges as the chapter presents its fall house dance in the form of a Kiddies Party. The house will be decorated with circular paper dolls, slates, and over 500 blue and gold balloons filled with hydrogen. Costumes for the affair will be children's clothes. Bob Allen's orchestra will furnish the music.

Ski Dress 'Colors Up' For Fall

The all-dormitory dance Friday night will be held at the John Straub Memorial hall with Bob Calkins' orchestra playing. A musical theme will illustrate various popular old-time favorite pieces, and large cardboard notes will decorate several walls. Intermittent entertainment will be provided by Helen May Hatcher, who will do Spanish and Hungarian dances.

Campbell Co-op will entertain Saturday night at a semi-formal dance with a "Down Mexico Way" theme. Decorations will carry out this idea with a tile roof and large pictures of Mexican scenes and characters around the walls. The programs will be in the shape of a Mexican house.

Christmas offers seasonal themes for several house dances this weekend. Alpha Delta Pi will carry out this idea Friday night with the traditional colors and a large trimmed Christmas tree. Zeta Tau Alpha will honor their pledges Friday night at a Christmas dance with five Silver Christmas trees with blue lights, giving a holiday atmosphere to the house. Programs will be blue with silver and in the form of the pledge pin. Music will be furnished by radio.

Cops and Robbers "Cops and Robbers" is the theme of the Canard club's dance Saturday night. The dance will be sport with a radio furnishing the music, and programs will be in the form of "gats."

Kappa Kappa Gamma will surprise their freshmen Saturday night at a costume pledge dance. Art Holman's orchestra will play. Also keeping the theme a secret is Alpha Xi Delta whose dance is Saturday evening. Bonny Holmes and his orchestra will play, and a special feature will be offered during intermission.

Kappa Alpha Theta will present a costume dance Friday night with Art Holman's orchestra playing. The theme, "Life is a song," will be carried out in the decorations and the costumes worn.

Alpha Chi Omega's annual fall dance will take its theme from the comic strips. Guests at the dance will dress as their favorite character, and many couples will represent famous "funny" couples. Maurie Binford will furnish the music.

Dress of the Week

Glamorous is the word for MARY STATON'S daring new formal which she wears during her performance in "The Women."

A glistening halter neck of gold metallic, criss-crossed to fall in soft drapes, is tucked under a wide rhinestone belt at the waist.

A skirt of heavy black accordion-pleated crepe is separated from the blouse in front, illustrating the latest in formal trends.

Mary wears a gold turban decorated with metal leaves, gold sandals and jewelry to complete her costume.

Hobbs-Winetroust Wedding Announced For December 20

Announcement of the approaching marriage of Miss Bettie Hobbs, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl C. Hobbs of Orange, California, to Arthur Winetroust, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Winetroust of Grants Pass, was made Monday night at a formal dinner at the Tri Delt house.

News of the engagement was told by means of miniature nosegays of red carnations tied with red and white ribbons, the colors of Kappa Sigma fraternity, of which Mr. Winetroust is a member. Tiny silver bells on the ribbons named December 20 as the date of the wedding.

The Tri Delta chapter house here will be the scene of the pre-Christmas rites. Miss Joyce Crawford will be maid of honor, and Lee Winetroust will act as best man. Rev. Norman K. Tully of the Presbyterian church will officiate. Members of the Greek organizations of the couple will provide the music.

Both the groom and the bride-to-be are students at the University, where Mr. Winetroust was a member of the 1939 football squad. They will be at home after January 1 at 408 B street in Grants Pass.

Margaret Young, Vivacious Coed Enjoys Activities

"Our mothers were Thetas, our fathers were Betas; I'm a Theta, he's a Beta, but he goes to Oregon State," said Margaret Young, this year's first coed of the week to be engaged.

A very attractive girl with wavy light brown hair, she is 19 years old, five feet five inches tall, and has hazel eyes.

"I like to study but not too much," said Margaret regarding activity participation in a student's college life.

Dance Co-chairman

Although only a sophomore, this charming coed is already well-known on the campus. She is co-chairman, working with Barbara Bamford, on the Nickel Hop, treasurer of her sorority, a WAA member, vice-president of Kwama, sophomore women's honorary, and on the YWCA frosh commission. She was vice-president of the Amphibian club last spring, a member of the speaker's committee, and chairman of the water pageant.

In the library is a large plaque on "The Mission of a University." Frederick G. Young, whose name appears at the bottom of the inscription, was Margaret's grandfather and a professor of social science and dean of sociology at the University.

Social Science Major

Margaret also is a major in social science, but instead of teaching it, she plans to be a campfire girl executive after graduation, one of her main ambitions being to start camps for mothers similar to those for girls.

How many of you boys can keep a baseball score? Those who can have nothing on this prominent coed for she keeps up with the best of them! As girls' sports editor Margaret also works on the Emerald.

"It's fun being in different activities, and I am not in them merely for any glory I may receive," she said.

At her home in Portland, Margaret enjoys horseback riding as one of her hobbies. She also is interested in dramatics.

Possessing all the traits attributed to the ideal coed, Margaret has shown the ability of a leader in both her social life and scholastic enterprises on the campus.

Poetry

By MARY KAY BOOTH

Marked Down Last year the girls of Oregon Made money in the fall By having all the boys come in To finance the "Dime Crawl."

This year I learned to my regret Admission takes a drop. Tonight the plea to boys is this: Support the "Nickel Hop."

Girls, rally round, support the cause And protest at this drop. If once we let the price go down No telling where 'twill stop!

If we don't stand together, girls, And this low price revamp, We'll probably be hostesses At next year's "One Cent Stamp."
