

Love Talks Will Be Given Undergrads

Marital Lectures Commencing Soon Are Ninth Annual

Oregon students will again have the opportunity to hear the problems of "Love and Marriage" discussed by prominent authorities as the result of action taken by Student Body President John Dick yesterday, when he announced the appointment of a committee to handle arrangements for the ninth annual series of assemblies on marital relations.

Lloyd Hoffman, junior activity man, will head the 1939 committee. Helping him with arrangements will be Bob Keen, Dick Phillippi, Bill Knight, Roy Vernstrom, John Cavanagh, Helen Angell, Joan Hoke, Genevieve Casey, Janet Goresky, LaVern Littleton, and Grace Irvin.

Very popular with Oregon undergraduates in the past, the lecture series will be over a period of weeks during winter term with a well-known speaker presenting a different phase of love and marriage problems at each meeting.

A higher rating of the value of open discussions on conditions which cause maladjustment and breaks in the marriage relationship, has been given by educators in the past few years. Results of published articles and conference findings presented to the public, have proved the worth of such work in clarifying the difficulties of marriage relationships, and in lifting the censorship of misunderstanding opposition groups.

Oregon was one of the first schools in the nation to offer "Love and Marriage" lectures to enrollees. University officials have considered making the subject a part of the regular curricula for some time, but have never taken definite action.

Music School Sets Plans for String and Woodwind Program

The University of Oregon music school's second recital of the 1939-40 season will be held Tuesday evening, December 12, in the auditorium, with 16 students participating in a chamber of music program, it has been announced.

String and woodwind music will be included on the program. String players will be Jane Young, Emile Chan, Elizabeth Walker, Mary Booth, Monroe Richardson, Bernard Somers, Verne Sellin, and Howard Jones. Playing the French horn will be Freeman Patton, Mary Anderson, Rebecca Anderson, and George Mosher. Other players are Charlotte Plummer, clarinet; Marjorie Williams, bassoon; Don Scott, flute; and Ralph McKenzie, oboe. Selections will be announced in a few days.

This Week's Church News

By BETTY JANE THOMPSON

Touching all but one phase of group organization in young people's work, campus religious groups this weekend emphasize local, state, regional, and national activities.

Although meetings concern matters away from home, only one group leaves the campus. While approximately 50 Wesley clubbers meet with the Corvallis group on the OSC campus, the Episcopal student cabinet will discuss local problems, Lutheran students hear reports on their Thanksgiving weekend regional conference, and Baptist students discuss and formulate suggestions for state delegations to the national Baptist youth unification conference during the Christmas holidays.

Crumbaker Speaks
Dr. Calvin C. Crumbaker of the department of economics will be at the Westminster 6:30 forum Sunday evening. He will speak on "Christianity and Capitalism."

Morning speaker, Stanley Robe, research assistant in Romance languages, will speak on "Self-Expression" at 9:45. Social hour will be at 6 o'clock.

Newman Club Meets
Catholic students will meet for a regular meeting of the Newman club at 7:30 in the men's lounge in Gerlinger.

Student Work Discussed
Relating some of his experiences with similar church groups on other university campuses, C. F. Kossack, instructor in mathematics, will speak to the Plymouth club at the Congregational church at 7 o'clock. Mary Wright will lead the worship. At 11 o'clock, Rev. Williston Wirt will speak on "Am I My Brother's Keeper?"

Cabinet Meets
Following the regular evening meeting at 6 o'clock, the Episcopal student cabinet will meet with Miss Helen Lyles, director. With Miss Lyles in charge, the Sunday school class will meet at 9:45 in the morning. Regular communion service will be held at 8 o'clock and morning service with Rev. E. S. Bartlam speaking at 11 o'clock.

Delegates Report
Meeting at 6 o'clock at the YWCA bungalow, Lutheran students will hear reports from delegates attending the regional conference in Portland Thanksgiving weekend. Speaking will be Lois Nordling, Orin Weschler, Martin Schieder, Doris Berg, Elmer Olsen, Schedis Dunberg, Don Froude, and Cliff Mattson.

Repeats Custom
Repeating an annual custom of several years' standing, Wesley club will leave Sunday afternoon to meet with the Corvallis group. Dr. Calvin C. Crumbaker will be in charge of the regular morning group at 9:45, and Dr. B. Earle Parker will speak at 11 o'clock.

BYPU Makes Plans
Offered an opportunity to help in the national organization of Baptist young people's groups, the BYPU will discuss the things they would like to see incorporated in the program. The discussion will be led by Charles Devereaux, one of the two Oregon delegates to the conference which meets on the Denison campus in Granville, Ohio, December 27 through 30. Floyd Needham will lead the worship service. Leaders for the COS class at 9:45 in the morning, Rollin Calkin will be in charge of worship and Henry Schroeder of the lesson.

"The Shortest and Greatest Word in the English Language" has been chosen by Dr. A. J. Harms for his morning sermon. In the evening at 7:30 he will speak on "The Man Who Dared."

Singing in the dark is one of the features of the evening services. With all lights turned out, the congregation sings old, familiar hymns from scores projected onto a screen. Charles Devereaux, song leader, introduces each hymn with a sketch of the author and the circumstances under which it was written. Music is furnished by Robert Gould, organist, Mrs. D. H. Wilcox, pianist, and Martha Mulkey, violinist.

publication of his new book, "History of Oregon Journalism." It is unusual for a Sigma Delta Chi banquet to be thrown open to the public, but members thought it would be unfair to refuse friends of Professor Turnbull the opportunity of honoring him on this occasion. For that reason they broke a precedent of long standing and made it possible for everyone to attend.

A complete program of entertainment has been planned. Harris Ellsworth, publisher of the Roseburg News-Review, will be guest speaker of the evening and will be introduced by Eric W. Allen, dean of the school of journalism. George Pasero, president of Sigma Delta Chi, will be toastmaster.

Tickets to the banquet cost $1 and may still be purchased either from Miss Lynette Davis in the journalism building or from any of a dozen student salesmen. Students selling tickets include Bill Norene, Wilbur Grant, Roy Vernstrom, George Pasero, John Koppen, Bud Jermain, Lyle Nelson, Ray Foster, Jim Leonard, Max Frye, Glenn Hasselrooth, and Larry Quinlin.

ing acquainted with them. They will face other sets of the modernized backboards during the eastern trip.

The Ducks play their last game before the trip, December 7, here against Bob Ane's Oregonians. An 11-man squad will leave on the eastern trip December 8.

OSC Freshmen Fight for Tuxs

Thanes Honorary Votes Yes; Exec Council Says No

The question of whether OSC frosh will henceforth be permitted to wear tuxes to campus affairs kept the Corvallis campus in an uproar this week, as Thanes, men's honorary, and the executive council battled long over the proposed change.

After Thanes passed a recommendation earlier in the week to permit frosh to dress formally, the exec council yesterday met and vetoed the action.

Because tuxedos for first-year men would tend to counteract the fact that "Oregon State is a democratic school," was the reason listed by the council. Increase of frosh costs of living, social inferiority complexes, and the possibility that such a change might in time lead to a rule forcing freshmen to wear tuxes, were reasons also cited.

Music School To Play KOAC

Both modern and classical numbers will be featured on radio programs from the University of Oregon music school over station KOAC this week, it has been announced by George Hopkins, professor of piano, who arranges the programs.

Monday evening at 8 o'clock a string octet will offer Art Holman's arrangement of Cole Porter's "Night and Day" and the first movement of Haydn's first string quartet. Violas will be played by Bernard Somers, Malcolm Caffee, Fred Dallas, and Alice Coggins. Violinists will be Janet Gordon, Jane Young, Elizabeth Walker, and Verne Sellin.

Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 a string trio made up of Mary Booth, Emile Chan, and Elizabeth Marshall will play "Adagio" by Ropartz, Goudard's "Mignonette," and the first movement of "D Minor Trio" by Mendelssohn.

Library to Exhibit Books on Bali, Ballet

In connection with the Bali ballet which will soon be in Eugene, Miss Ethel Sawyer, browsing room librarian, has put on exhibit in the browsing room a number of books on Bali and the ballet.

Of interest to those who are planning to attend the ballet is "Bali, Enchanted Isle," by Helen Eva Yates. This book gives an interpretation of the symbolism which characterizes Balinese dancers.

Mask Display at Libe

On display in the circulation department of the University library are a group of masks from the collection of Mrs. R. H. Ernst, associate professor of English.

Ye Olde Order Of 3 o'Clockers Meets for Feast

Teeming with the romance of journalism, the adventure loving group of Emerald scribes who have banded themselves into a brotherhood known as the 3 o'clock club, pledged anew their oath of allegiance in a gathering of the band in a closed meeting behind the barred doors of the University press last night.

While all the town was yet in slumber they feasted and made merry. The tavern rang as lusty voices rang forth their theme song, "Three o'Clock in the Morning." As the sleepy innkeeper yawned his way to the kitchen for more food the honored guest was formally introduced and to the many eagerly awaiting ears bespoke of numerous things.

After the finger bowls had been taken away and the funsters had their fill they wended their various ways home to the accompaniment of dawn.

The honored guest was Editor Leonard Jermain of the Emerald. Those in attendance were Lyle Nelson, president; Betty Jane Thompson, secretary, Ray Schrick, Wesley Sullivan, Johnny Kahananui, Tom Wright, Jack Buker, George Pasero, and George Pasero.

Campfire Counselors Hear Dean of Women

Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering, dean of women, spoke at the Oregon College of Education at Monmouth Wednesday evening to a group of 125 Campfire counselors and college girls on "Personality, Leadership, and Guidance." Mrs. Genevieve Turnipseed, director of Oregon dormitories, accompanied Mrs. Schwering.

Extension Class Held

An extension class in geography is being taught in Salem on Monday evenings. This term the class of nearly 40 is being taught by Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geography and geology departments, and J. C. Stovall, geology instructor. Winter term A. L. Lomax, professor of business administration, will be in charge of the class except for one or two lectures by Dr. Smith.

the class. In this way, it sounds to the student as though I have not given the matter any previous thought." An old timer on the campus, Professor H. C. Howe, of the English department, admits his lectures are "entirely extemporaneous." "I used to write them out," he said, "and I thought they were good, but my classes seem to prefer the more informal style."

Mortar Board Officer to Visit

On an official tour of the middle west and the Pacific coast Mrs. Hamilton J. Stevens of Pasadena, national treasurer of Mortar Board, senior girls honorary, will visit the Oregon chapter next Tuesday and Wednesday.

Mrs. Stevens will arrive on the noon train Tuesday. Arrangements have been made for her to be a guest at the Gamma Phi Beta house.

Wednesday evening she will be feted at dinner at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house. Plans are under way to give several teas in her honor to give her an opportunity to meet the alumnae and the advisers.

From the University Mrs. Hamilton will go on to Oregon State to visit the Mortar Board chapter there.

Ed Baker Arrested For Pi Kap Burglary

CHICKEN in the ROUGH!

Come down to Seymour's and try this fried chicken that's the "talk of the campus." Generous pieces of golden brown fried chicken and oodles of shoe string potatoes, hot biscuits and honey, you'll say it's the best fried chicken you've ever tasted. Best of all it's only 50c. Served here or put up in attractive boxes to take out.

Corvallis Saturday, was arrested yesterday in Seattle. A delegation of Pi Kaps made a trip to Corvallis and sent warning telegrams to their chapters at the University of Washington and

Washington State college in an attempt to stop Baker. Pi Kaps Harvey McKee, George Smith, and Hugh Wilson reported the loss of clothes and a traveling bag.

"Turnbull's 'History of Oregon Newspapers' is a work which no newspaper or student of journalism can afford to be without. The careful and interesting authenticity of the book is typical of the man."—E. Palmer Hoyt, Publisher of the Oregonian.

"No other state has had its journalism so comprehensively studied and analyzed. In Turnbull's book there is many a sentence that by itself represents long and difficult research."—Eric W. Allen, Dean School of Journalism, University of Oregon.

"Anything George Turnbull does is sure to be interesting, accurate, and grounded on painstaking research. He is the personification of authenticity in newspaper work."—Harry H. Crain, managing editor Salem Capital Journal.

"An outstanding piece of work, the product of years of careful and competent research."—Wayne L. Morse, Dean University of Oregon Law School.

"The fruit of years of exhaustive research and painstaking checking and compiling. No one but such a determined digger and delver could have accomplished it. A most important and valuable contribution to history, journalism, and the state. May his labor of love be rewarded as he deserves."—Merle R. Chessman, Publisher Astoria Bulletin.

"The first authentic contribution to factual history of the press of Oregon from the early days to the modern. It is destined to be one of the most perused historical books in our libraries."—Arthur W. Prieau, Publisher Eugene Daily News.

"It is a distinctive contribution to the history of Oregon and gives a vivid picture of the progress of the state from crude beginnings as reflected in changes in the character and content of the newspapers."—R. C. Clark, Head History Department, University of Oregon.

"George Turnbull's History finest service ever rendered Oregon journalism. Gives to present day newspapers pride of ancestry that goes with established family tree. Accurate, careful, trustworthy, it has literary value that gets it read. As one Oregon publisher, I tender my sincerest thanks for this fine service to our craft."—Frank Jenkins, Publisher Klamath Herald & News.

"George Turnbull exactly right man to turn out Oregon's press history. An experienced journalist he understood nature of the institution we call the newspaper. Without that understanding no really valid conclusions could be drawn. As teacher and research man he was above the battle and could see his materials in true perspective."—Ralph D. Casey, Dean School of Journalism, University of Minnesota.

"A fascinating story. By years of painstaking research and able writing Professor Turnbull has told the story in all its color and with a wealth of absorbing detail. He has my thanks and my congratulations."—Donald M. Erb, President, University of Oregon.

"A valuable contribution to Northwestern Americana. An interesting and readable treatment of a lot of facts that might have been very dry."—J. Ed Turnbull, of Shelton, Turnbull, Fuller Company.

"Professor Turnbull's monumental work marks a milestone in the literature of Oregon newspapers. No library would be complete without this book."—Arden X. Pangborn, Managing Editor the Oregonian.

"The making of this book has been a labor of love with George Turnbull. He is to be commended and congratulated upon its publication."—W. F. G. Thacher, Professor of Advertising, University of Oregon.

"A scholarly, readable work. Its pages reflect the fact that from the earliest days the people of Oregon have believed in freedom of speech and have upheld the publishers in their right to conduct a free press."—Wm. M. Tugman, Editor the Register-Guard, Eugene.

"It will prove authentic and interesting, a vital contribution to Oregon journalism. Every Oregon newspaperman respects Mr. Turnbull's scholarship."—Sheeldon F. Sackett, Publisher Coos Bay Times.
