'Hobson Hobble' To Open Campus Social Season

All-School Dance Shifted From Igloo to Gerlinger; Fall and Winter ASUO Cards Good

By WES SULLIVAN

It will be a basketball-minded Webfoot crowd that starts the round of winter term campus social life tonight with Oregon's second annual "Hobson Hobble" in Gerlinger hall, designed as the official sendoff for the coming season.

The keynote of the affair will be the "on to victory" movement for another national basketball championship. The first "hobble" was carried off last year with the advent of the first national championship, and it is hoped that this year's dance will mark the start of another drive.

Hops Tonight

Hobby Hobson will be the guest of honor tonight when campus rug-cutters swing to the strains of Art Holman's music.

Fall Cards Good
Although fall term student body cards are outdated, they will be accepted this evening. Winter term cards will also be accepted.

The dance is scheduled for Gerlinger hall instead of the usual McArthur court. The special waxing the Igloo has received in preparation for the basketball season would be marred if the floor were to be used for dancing, committee-men said.

Informality Theme

For those interested in what to wear, informality will reign, according to Les Harger, in charge of arrangements. Music will be furnished by Art Holman's band. The prizes for the ASUO drive will be awarded during the course of the evening.

The hop was originally set for fall term and advertised as the fall term dance, but had to be postponed until winter term because of conflicting engagements.

Band to Give Recital Sunday

The Finnish national anthem, "Finlandia," by Jean Sibelius, will be one of the featured numbers to be presented by the University of Oregon band in its free concert for students and townspeople in the music auditorium next Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock, according to John H. Stehn, director.

The program of the band will include a wide variety of old and newer concert works. Mozart's "Sonata in E Flat," Bach's "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor," "Siegfried's Rhine Journey" from Wagner's "Dusk of the Gods," and "Perpetual Motion" by Johann Strauss are the older numbers. More recent selections are the second movement from Howard Hanson's "Nordic Symphony," "Pavanne" from Morton Gould's "Second American Symphonette," and Haydn-Wood's "Manx Overture."

The first night saw both men's and women's prizes offered. The second contest pitted both men and women in the same competition. The prizes were: first, $15; second, $10; and third, $5.

First night winners were: men, Leonard Ballif, Harvey McKee, Pete Riley. Women winners were: Jean Person, Michi Yasui, and Jane Hooker.

The winners in the second contest were John Blankinship, Charles Devereaux, and George Luoma.

Luoma donated his prize to the Finnish relief fund in Eugene.

Morris Gives Radio Talk on Propaganda

Dean Victor P. Morris, of the school of business administration, gave a radio speech Wednesday afternoon over station KORE for the American Association of University Women's program. The speech was entitled "Facing the Barrage of Propaganda."

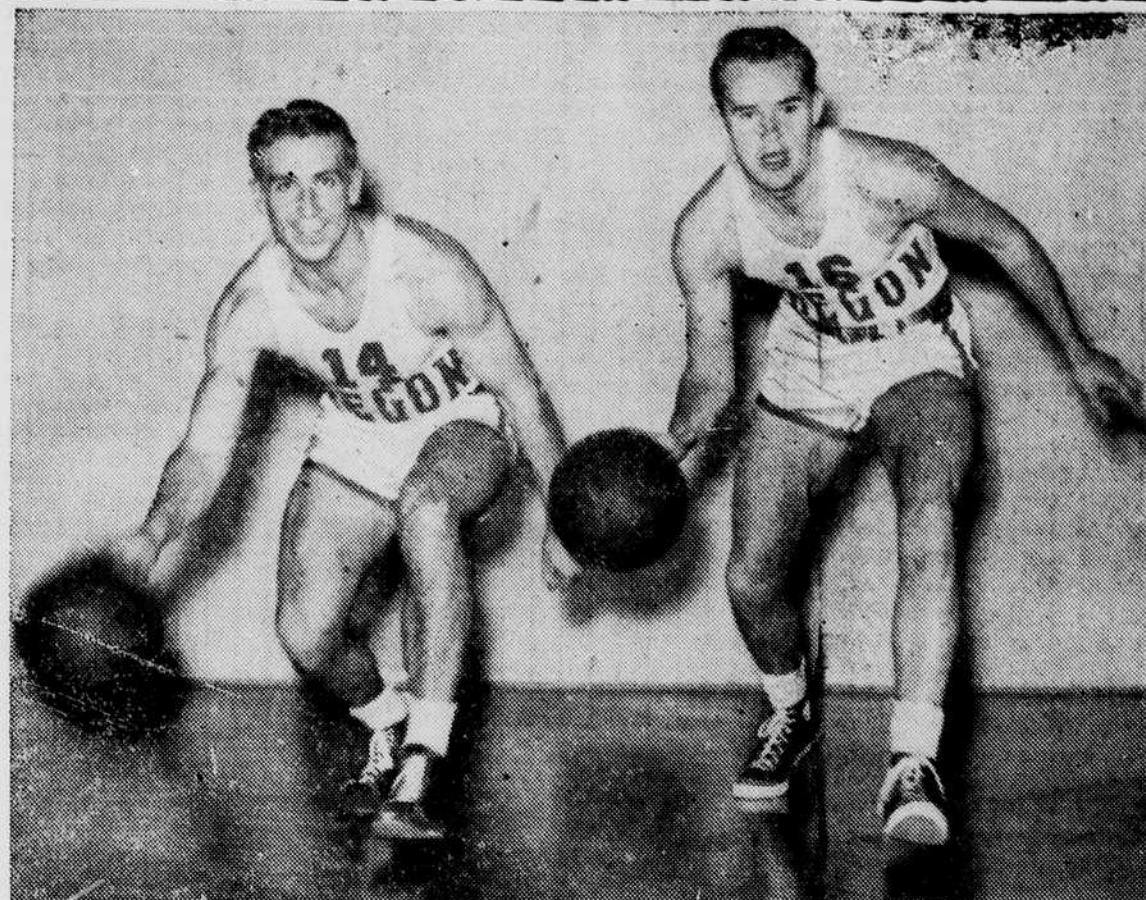

He declared that there was much more propaganda now because it is easier to distribute it. People are massed together in cities, and radio, movies, newspapers, and magazines all help to spread it. Americans should be on guard for propaganda, but should not be so skeptical of news as to discard the truth, he emphasized. He stated that to keep open avenues of information and to think themselves out of difficulties are the duties of citizens of neutral democracies.

Ad Positions Still Open

"Last term's record staff and about a dozen new members make up the active business department of the Emerald," George Luoma, Emerald business manager, announced last night following the day's staff organization. Luoma also said that students who did not apply for Emerald positions yesterday may still do so, and asked all interested students to see himself or Jim Frost, advertising manager of the Emerald.

Enlarged plans of the personnel organization will make room for further advancements on the staff this term. "Staff members will be notified of their positions within a few days," Frost said last night. "One important 'shift' in the business department was revealed yesterday. It was made known that Jean Crites, national advertising manager during fall term, has been placed as manager for Tuesday Emeralds. "Jean is a capable member of our staff and I expect her to do well in the new position," Luoma said.

Their Team Lost

George (Porky) Andrews (left) and Toivo Piippo, guards, saw their mates lose to Rubenstein's, 48 to 36, last night. Andrews is layed up with a pulled ankle tendon, and may not see action against the Idaho Vandals Monday and Tuesday nights.

Morse Says No Arbiter Requested

Law School Dean To Consult Dr. Erb If Asked to Act

Dean Wayne L. Morse, law school head, stated last night that he has received no official request to act as arbitrator in the San Francisco ship clerks' dispute, and revealed that he has no immediate intentions of accepting a position away from the University of Oregon.

Dean Morse said that if and when he should receive an official request to be the third man in the bay city labor strife, he would confer with President Erb for advice and counsel. San Francisco news releases state that his name has been recommended by both disputing parties and Governor Culbert Olson of California.

Dean Likes Oregon

When interviewed as to whether or not he contemplated leaving Oregon in favor of another position, he stated,

"As far as I know now, I expect to continue my services at the University of Oregon. It is true that I have been approached in regard to another deanship and in regards to the availability of my services for another teaching position. However, the negotiations in neither case have reached the point requiring official action on my part. Naturally one does not refuse to give serious consideration to various possibilities for bettering one's economic and professional position. However, I am very happy at the University of Oregon, and I am anticipating many years of teaching at the Oregon law school."

Expensive Closure

The law school head reported that the port of San Francisco, closed for 54 days at an estimated cost of $200,000 a day, is now open for a 10-day period of negotiation by consent of both parties. If at the end of the period no agreement can be reached, an arbitrator will be called in. It is in this capacity

"Will it be all right if I go up and see—?"

"I'm awfully sorry, but the restriction on visitors is still in effect."

Thus more than one person expecting to see patients at the school hospital have been politely reminded by nurses that the no-visiting ban posted during the latter part of fall term is still being observed.

According to Dr. F. N. Miller, health service director, influenza cases in the infirmary, coupled with a flu epidemic in southern Oregon, were responsible for the taboo on patient-visiting. However, he explained that exceptions to the rule would be made, with limitations, in emergencies or very special cases. How long the ban will continue wasn't revealed.

Hoop Ticket Sale Starts

Reserved seat tickets for the University of Oregon-University of Idaho and University of Oregon-Oregon State College basketball games to be played here next week are now on sale at the ASUO ticket office in McArthur court.

Monday and Tuesday nights will see the Idaho Vandals in action while Friday night will feature Oregon State's Orangemen.

General admission will be 55 cents, and reserved seats, in the center of the west balcony, will go for 85 cents. Installation of glass backboards has made possible 2,000 more good general admission seats, it was pointed out. The games will start at 8 p.m.

Co-op Pays Out $1025 To Students

McClain Explains Decision to Release Fall Term Shares

Dividends amounting to $1025 on fall term purchases were paid out to students by the University Co-op store, it was announced yesterday by M. F. McClain, manager. Although this was slightly less than was expected on the basis of cash register receipts the deficiency can be attributed to the short notice given students, McClain said.

Early Audit Explained
In explaining the Co-op board's sudden move to pay dividends of 5 per cent on fall term purchases instead of waiting until the end of the school year before making payments, McClain said:

"The board moved to declare dividends on all fall term purchases after the auditor, Spencer R. Collins, announced that because our fiscal year ended with the calendar year it would be better to pay dividends at the end of the fiscal year.

"This is necessary in order that the Co-op may determine its existing liabilities before making out an income tax statement," he said. December 29 was the deadline for all fall term payments, but dividends will likely be declared on winter and spring purchases at the end of spring term, the manager said.

"If the board sees fit, and it is likely they will, payment will be authorized on the remaining fall term receipts at the end of the spring term," McClain said.

Students To Adopt New Dads

Honoraries Will Guide Fathers Around Campus

By BETTY JANE BIGGS
Students, whose fathers won't be able to attend Dads' Weekend, will have the opportunity to adopt another Dad during this celebration January 26, 27, and 28.

The general committee, headed by John Cavanagh, is working on plans which will involve the various living organizations, honoraries, and student talent for the new novelty program.

Rush the Dads
"Show the Dads a good time," urges hospitality chairman, Walker Treece. "Use rushing tactics on them—the right kind," he amended.

The different professional honoraries will be invited to erect attractive and appropriate signs before their schools to invite the Dads in for open house on the Saturday afternoon.

The heads of Kwama, Phi Theta Upsilon, and Skull and Dagger are being connected to act as guides and welcoming committee during the Dads' visit at the University.

Cavanagh, at the general committee meeting yesterday also introduced two new members: Ralph Woodall in charge of campus preparation and Pat Taylor who will arrange for the student program, a new feature on the Dads' Weekend.

Each of the general committee members will be allowed to choose a subcommittee to work under him. Announcement of these appointments will be made at a later date.

Sororities Can Bid 82 Girls

Sororities are rushing 82 girls for the winter term period according to an announcement made by Aurelia Wolcott, panhellenic president, yesterday afternoon, the opening day of the "rush."

Preference dinner will be held Saturday night. Dinner dresses will be the proper attire.

Rushes will not be given date cards for preference dinner until Saturday afternoon between 2:30 and 3:30. Oral bidding is a violation of panhellenic rules.

Bids will be given out in the dean of women's office between 10:30 and 11:30 Sunday morning for the pledge banquet at noon. Rushes may move into the house immediately after.

Only two dates a day, lunch and dinner, are allowed to the houses during the winter period. Campus clothes at noon are appropriate and short silks for evening.

Increase Expected As Deadline Nears

Present Total Chalks Up All-Time Record For Winter Terms; Freshmen Number 1,031, Twenty-Two Per Cent Over Peak Year Ago

By RAY SCHRICK

Oregon January enrollment figures soared to the highest first day point in University history Wednesday afternoon as 2,845 men and women students registered in McArthur court for winter term work. According to totals released yesterday by C. L. Constance, assistant registrar, this year's mark is eight per cent above last January's high of 2,624. This sets a new all-time record for winter terms.

Registration figures show 1,733 men and 1,112 women students now at Oregon. In 1939 there were 1,613 men and 1,011 women on the rolls. One thousand thirty-one freshmen have signed up for this term's work, 22 per cent above last year's 848.

"Records are expected to mount even higher today and tomorrow," stated Constance. "A large staff of workers is busy enrolling late students in Johnson hall today. This is the shortest term of the year but registration should come very close to the large fall total of 3,700.

Late enrollment fees for undergraduate students were charged starting Thursday and are mounting at the rate of $1 per day. A maximum fine of $5 will be charged. Students who have not yet paid their fees should do so as soon as possible, the registrar's office stated, Saturday, January 13, the last day of registration.

The leap year dance, which will hand the line of "How about Saturday next?" to the feminine half of the Oregon student body, will bring to the University the music of Woodie Hite and his orchestra.

First Time Here
After playing at Portland night spots and at alumnae dances, Hite will be appearing in Eugene for the first time.

Co-chairmen Len Ballif and Bob Fronk, named as head men for the Leap by Frosh Class President Les Anderson, announced yesterday that the dance will not replace the Frosh Glee, annual funfest presented by the freshmen, but is an effort by the class of 1943 to bring another first class dance to Oregon's social schedule.

Limp Informally
Informal campus clothes will be the order of the evening along the "what to wear" front. This will please most campus males, committee-men believe. "With the girls worrying about the date angle, the order can be reversed with the
