DUCK TRACKS

By ELBERT HAWKINS Co-Sports Editor Oregon Daily Emerald

Looks like Oregon's basketeers have gone out and started a hex Washington quintets now that the of northern division play. Webfoot football jinx of over half a decade over Husky teams is sign Tex Oliver's football boys can claim now is the unaltered fact that they always play a terrific game against Washington. . . . Their defeat in Seattle on Thanksgiving day sort of swept away any football winning jinx.

But actual basketball figures show that Friday's and Saturday's Oregon victories over Washington's rangy hoop team made it 10 out of 11 during the last three years for Coach Hobby over Hec Edmundson. That's quite something to jot down in your notebook for both teams play the same basketball system, the blazing fast break type of offense which builds its point totals at a rapid clip by attempting to beat the defense down the court. Aside from Washington's first night win over Oregon in Seattle just over a week ago, the last Husky win over Oregon in basketball was three years ago when Bobby Anet, Wally Johansen, Slim Wintermute, Laddie Gale, and company dropped another "firstnighter" on the Scattle Pavilion's dead mapleboards.

A Few More Bulls-Eyes

Ask Coach Hobson what one factor was more responsible than any other for Oregon's wins No. 9 and No. 10 of that long string (Friday and Saturday nights) and he'll tell you it was shooting. What else could it be? The two clubs went out there and beat a tattoo on McArthur court's glassboards to the tune of around 145 shots both nights and shot reasonably close to the same number of times. It was 73 to 72 Friday.

The result or difference between the clubs can be shown in their shooting percentages which were

It is strange how some girls who posses all the qualities of loveliness and beauty can effect boys who appreciate beauty when they see it. For instance, a lovely girl never enters that place without some forlorn boy coming to me immediately and inquiring who she might be. My answer to this question is always, "Isn't she lovely? But you find out for yourself who she is'."
