IRC Conference to Open Today

Fifty Sign Register Thursday

Booths to Be Open
Until 10; Banquet,
Luncheons Slated

By WES SULLIVAN

As the registration booth closed last night in Friendly hall, 50 delegates to the International Relations club conference had checked in with the officials.

The rest of the representatives will register this morning from 9 to 10. The booth will be open from 3 to 4 this afternoon and 11 to 12 tomorrow for the benefit of late comers.

Tickets Available

Tickets for the banquet and the luncheons may be purchased at the registration booth.

Miss Amy Hemingway Jones, division assistant of the Carnegie Endowment, sponsors of the club, arrived last night. Miss Jones will address the delegates at the opening meeting at 10 a.m. today.

Noble to Speak

The other speakers, G. Bernard Noble, professor of political science at Reed college, and Andre Philip, professor of finance and economics at the University of Lyons, France, will arrive today.

Professor Noble will speak at an IRC luncheon today at 12:15 in the St. Mary's Episcopal church, 166 E. Thirteenth street.

Europe Discussed

"European Affairs" will be the subject of Andre Philip's address to the delegates at a banquet tonight at 6:30 in St. Mary's Episcopal church.

The general meetings of the convention will be held in the faculty room of Friendly hall, while the library will be the scene of the round table sessions.

The round table talks on "The System of Future World Security" will be held in the staff room of the library. The "American Foreign Policy, Isolation, Neutrality or Cooperation?" discussion is scheduled for the browsing room.

Peace Talked

The talk on "Peace in the Western Hemisphere" will be held in the map room, while room 304 will hear the discussion on "The Far East and the Present World War."

The fifth session will be held in room 150. The subject is "Democracy, Can It Survive?"

Students of the University who are interested in international affairs are invited to attend the meetings.

An official program is on page four.

Wesley House Plans Leap Year 'Shindig'

"It's leap year—and anything might happen."

So forecasts the notice announcing the Leap Year party at Wesley house this evening.

"Probably around 8:30," say those planning the party, "the time is indefinite." The party will follow a 6 o'clock church dinner. Report of the club activities will be given at the dinner.

BA Office to Make Payment on IRC Delegate Tickets

House managers must collect housing tickets from their visiting International Relations clubs delegates. Turn them in to the BA school office for payment.

Internationalist

Andre Philip, professor of economics and finance at the University of Lyons, France, who will address members of the IRC conference at a banquet tonight.

Arragon Tells Problems of Social Sciences

Speaker Blames Diverse Methods For Misconception

Diverse methods of approaching social science problems can be blamed to some extent for charges that social scientists don't do as much to develop things as natural scientists do to create them, according to Dr. Reginald Arragon, professor of history at Reed college, in a speech on "Social Science and the Humanities" to students and faculty in the faculty room of Friendly hall last night.

"There is an emphasis on pure description on one hand and pure theory on the other," averred Dr. Arragon.

Concerning pure description, the speaker declared that social science could not get along without it, and on the theoretical approach, he said that two points of view dealing with its difficulties existed.

"First there is the contention that the social sciences weren't primarily concerned with ends of action, that they took the ends as given," Dr. Arragon declared.

Contrasting the historian's and the social scientist's approach to problems of society, Dr. Arragon said that the historian must not use only words to describe the situation but "must feel himself in the situation," and work up a psychological mood due to his having to remove the time element.

Dr. Arragon obtained his first degree from Northwestern university, his Ph.D. from Harvard university, and was awarded a traveling fellowship in Europe. He was exchange professor in England, taught at Harvard, and came to his present position at Reed college in 1924.

Bishop Dagwell To Talk to Church Groups Today

With all his free time taken up by students with problems to solve, Bishop Benjamin D. Dagwell, bishop of the Oregon diocese of the Episcopal church, is proving a popular visitor on the campus.

After leading four meetings Wednesday and seeing people yesterday, he will end his visit on the campus today.

At 9 o'clock he will speak to the directors of the student religious groups on the campus. This afternoon he will be guest of honor at the Friday open house for Episcopal students at the home of Miss Helen Lyles, student director.

Paul Robeson Signed By Activities Board For Concert Series

Prize of $15 Awaits Lucky UO Contestant

Junior Weekend to Be 'Best We Can Prepare,' Is Report

Rumors being circulated on the campus to the effect that the theme for Junior Weekend has been already selected are untrue, according to the Junior Weekend committee.

"We don't care who gets the distinction or the $15. All we want is a theme that will enable us to present the University with the best weekend we can possibly prepare," Lloyd Sullivan, general chairman for the event, said last night. Sullivan's statement followed several students' inquiries as to whether the whole thing was "cut and dried."

Committee Ready

The entire Junior Weekend committee, ready to go to work, is waiting for the start that will launch preparations for the weekend of pageantry. The starting signal will be given when the winner of the theme contest is announced.

Although the event is scheduled for far-away May 10, 11, and 12, the committees are ready to begin working.

See Picture?

All the contestants need to do is visualize the picture they would like to see portrayed by Junior Weekend, put in writing on an entry blank and drop it in a ballot box either at the College Side or the Co-op store on or before Tuesday, February 27.

Fred Ehlers is in charge of the canoe fete, and George MacKin is in charge of finances.

Attend Conference

Horace W. Robinson, assistant professor of drama, and Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt, drama director, attended a western division national drama conference in Seattle, February 14 to 18, the president's office announced yesterday.

Five Student-Acted and Directed Plays to Be Given Tonight

By DOROTHY KREIS

Five student-acted, student-directed, one-act plays will be presented tonight in Johnson hall by students not enrolled in the regular drama classes but are interested in drama as an extra-curricular activity. No admission will be charged for this program which is open to students and the general public. Curtain time is set for 7:30.

"The Starter," a comedy of Harlem life is set for Eulalie Spence, to be directed by Gene Edwards, features Florence Cantrell and Robert Deiz, colored students of the University. Miss Cantrell, a sociology major, who took part in "Emperor Jones," will take the part of Georgia. Robert Deiz, outstanding Georgia. Robert Deiz, outstanding track man, who took part in amateur shows in Portland, will play T. J. Kelly.

Helen Michaels and Doris Edwards will make their first appearance on the guild stage taking small parts in this play which was prize winner in a contest held by "Opportunity, a Journal of Negro Life."

The cast for the fairy tale, "The Flying Prince," by Peggy and Eugene Wood, includes: Princess Anne, Phyllis Sanders; Henry Wadleigh, Prince II, Gene Speer; Clotilde, queen of Yvetot, June Bowerly; Henry IX, king of Yvetot, Bill Rogers; Annette, a maid, Helen Mitchell; M. de Boulgrin, Byron Adams. This play is to be directed by Trudy Harland.

Thirty Attractions Considered for Next Year's Greater Artist Series; Well-Known Performers to Appear in Igloo

WHAT THE BOARD DID:

1. Ratified the signing of Paul Robeson as lead-off artist in next year's Greater Artist series.
2. Looked over a list of 30 possible items for next year's program.
3. Decided to line up the rest of the series with an especial view toward popular type attractions.
4. Denied an interfraternity request for an adjustment on canoe fete expenses.

Next year's concert series will be no radical departure from those of recent years, the education activities board decided Wednesday night, but the tendency will be definitely toward better known, popular-appeal artists.

In a meeting lasting until a few minutes after midnight the board thrashed out the problem of what kind of program to offer next year's swing concerts of the Whiteman type in the Igloo, speakers like Alexander Woollcott, and in general attractions which would draw more students into Igloo audiences on concert nights.

Standard Series Won

The standard five-number Greater Artist series won out, although the kind of attractions offered will be selected with a view toward getting more popularly accepted artists, meaning people who are both excellent in their fields and popular among the many.

The door was not closed to other attractions such as the Igloo swing concerts, however, for the board was agreed that if such arrangements could be made such features could be put on as "extras." Since the board is not going to spend every cent of income next year a sizeable reserve will be available if the need and opportunity arise.

Big Names Fail

Igloo appearances of big-name, high-type orchestras failed to win a place on the regular series because (1) there is little possibility that they could be booked more than two months ahead, if at all, and (2) they would not harmonize with an educational activities Greater Artist series for which fee money was spent. By leaving them on the extra list the board signified its willingness to try out this type of feature next year, if arrangements could be made.

Paul Robeson, world-known negro baritone, was definitely in the fold for next year, the board learned. It passed on him some time ago, but the actual signing of the contract was not accomplished until the first of the week.

Formals Are In Order for Senior Ball

'Top Hat' Theme Will Be Carried Out In Igloo

One of the foremost formals of the year is scheduled for Saturday night when the Senior ball will be held in McArthur court. Formals

BULLETIN

Late permission, 12:30 o'clock, was granted for the Senior ball, it was announced last night by Chuck Skinner, general chairman.

and corsages are in order for girls; tuxedos or dark suits for men.

Gay Jones, University of Washington band, will furnish the music. Jones' orchestra will play from a band stand of three levels.

'Top Hat' Theme

Decorations and programs will carry out the "top hat" theme of the occasion. The walls of the Igloo will be decorated with black and white panels, black serving as the predominating color. Four silhouetted figures will also be placed on the walls, each measuring 13 by 10 feet.

Programs will carry out the silhouette idea, with outlines of figures appearing on the cover. James Jarvis is the chairman of the decorations committee and is being assisted by Bob Swan.

Tickets on Sale

Tickets will sell for $1 at the University Co-op store and men's houses, but the price at the dance will be $1.25.

Seniors will get a 25 cent reduction in price by showing their class cards at the Igloo for exchange tickets.

WAA to Announce Election Results

The new officers elected at yesterday's WAA election will be announced at a banquet of the Women's Athletic association in the Anchorage Tuesday night, February 27. The banquet will begin at 6 o'clock and will last until 8:00.

Margo Van Matre, retiring president, who will serve as toastmaster at the banquet, announced committees for the affair yesterday. They are: co-chairmen, Martha McClung and Barbara Bamford; decorations, Mary Louise Vincent, Mary Jane Ford, and Mary Ellen Smith; entertainment, Jeanne Haehlen and Eleanor Von Weddestadt; corsages, Helen Moore and Susan Huffaker; and programs, Jo Bullis.

Girls winning WAA awards will be announced at the banquet. Members of WAA will make necessary contacts in the different girls' houses for invitations to the banquet, Miss Van Matre said.

Plates at the banquet will sell for 50 cents.

Householders to Meet Mrs. Morris

All householders who want their names on the housing list for spring term will meet with Mrs. E. M. Morris, housing secretary, Tuesday, February 28, at 2 p.m. in Villard hall.

The list when completed will serve as a guide in helping students find board and room for spring term.

Jean Crites Elected 'YW' President; WAA To Announce Officers

Barbara Stallcup Named Vice-President Of Women's Group; Marge Montgomery Given Second Spot by YWCA Members

By BETTY JANE BIGGS

Betty Buchanan was named to head the Oregon women students next year, while Jean Crites was named president of the YWCA in the election held yesterday in the YW bungalow. The new WAA leaders will not be announced until the annual banquet Tuesday evening.

Anne Fredriksen, retiring president, reported 600 women students had voted for AWS offices. The new cabinet will be:

Barbara Stallcup, vice president; Maxine Hansen, secretary; Elizabeth Steed, treasurer; Betty Jane Biggs, reporter; and Mary Ellen Smith, sergeant-at-arms.

YWCA Elects

YWCA members chose as their other new officials: Marjorie Montgomery, vice president; Bobsie Roehm, secretary; and Trudi Anderson, treasurer.

Miss Buchanan has been prominent in activities during her three years at the University. She is vice president of the junior class, a member of Phi Theta Upsilon, junior women's service honorary, and on the rally committee this year. She is also campus social chairman. Last year she belonged to Kwanas, sophomore women's honorary.

YW Head Elected

Holding the office of religious chairman of the YW during the past term, acting as day manager of the Emerald advertising staff, and as a member of Phi Theta Upsilon is the activity record of Miss Crites. She belongs to the Alpha Delta Pi sorority.

The AWS officers will take over the duties of the retiring cabinet immediately. Anne Fredriksen, president, declared, but the formal installation will not take place until April. Old YWCA officers will also resign their posts to their successors soon.

Dates Fewer As Exams Near

Library Schedule For Coming Weeks Changed for Finals

This weekend is the last one this term that will be open to all-campus activities and entertaining, according to a report from the dean of women's office.

Next weekend girls may have two dates but will have only 10:30 permission Friday night. The last weekend of the term they may have only one date, again the doors of all women's living organizations being closed at 10:30 Friday.

An announcement of library hours for the two weekends by Mr. M. H. Douglass, librarian, disclosed that the library will, as formerly, extend the hours to accommodate the pre-examination rush. The lengthened study period applies to the reserve, circulation, and reference departments of the library.

A combined schedule of the general University hours and the library hours follows:

Friday, March 1—closed, 10:30 permission. Library open until 10. Saturday, March 2—Open, 12:15 permission. Library open until 10. Friday, March 8—closed, 10:30 permission; no dates. Library open until 10.

Saturday, March 9—open, 12:15 permission. Library open until 6.

Students Will Have Early Opportunity To Check Housing

University students living in private homes or boarding houses will be given a chance to clear their housing requirements before spring term registration, thus saving considerable time on that day, Mrs. E. M. Morris, housing secretary, announced yesterday.

If these students contact Mrs. Morris some time between now and the end of the term a permanent permit for spring term will be issued to them.

Next Term NYA Appointments to Be Considered

Winter Jobs End March 20; Renewal Depends on GPA

With winter term NYA appointments scheduled to expire within less than a month, the University work committee has begun to consider students for spring semester employment, the personnel office announced yesterday.

Final date for this term's assignments is March 20, and new appointments will include the last of March, all of April and May, and the first of June.

Cuts Slated

The committee Thursday released the following information for students who are holding NYA work at the present time.

If circumstances have made it possible to attend school without NYA help, or with a smaller assignment, notify the personnel office as soon as possible.

Students Helped

Students who need the work and have held positions before will be automatically be reappointed as long as they fulfill the requirements. Next term's work will probably be in the same department as this semester, but anyone desiring change should call at the personnel office to see about the different work.

Requirements for automatic re-appointment are a grade average of 2.75 for old students, and 2.25 for freshmen. This must include at least 12 term hours, with no incompletes accepted.

GPA's Considered

Those who do not have the required grade point will not necessarily fail to receive spring appointments. This only means they will have to be considered along with other students having similar records.

Those possessing the required average will be notified of their appointment from the personnel office. These notices will be mailed some time between March 20 and March 26, and will be sent to the Eugene address of students. No notice will be mailed to those failing to make the necessary requirements.

Professor N. B. Zane's advanced arts class spent Wednesday afternoon in the museum sketching the Japanese textiles. Professor Zane's survey of creative arts class was also held in the museum Wednesday.

Today Is Deadline For Contest Entries

Today is the last day to enter the W. F. Jewett after-dinner speaking contest, according to J. L. Casteel, director of the speech division.

The subjects, which must be approved by a member of the speech department staff, should be on an entertaining subject and should be aimed to please the audience.

The contest is open to all undergraduate students. Prizes of $15, $10, and $5 are being offered.

Those who have already signified their intention of entering are Florence Kinney, Bob Whitch, Jack McCliment, and Jane Hooker.
