Sigma Delta Chi, national professional journalistic fraternity, will hold its annual spring dance on Saturday, April 13, in McArthur Court, Jimmie Leonard, dance chairman, announced yesterday.

Final arrangements for the signing of an orchestra have not been completed, but the society will attempt to bring a well-known band to the campus, in answer to many requests from the students, Leonard said.

ASUO Card Holders To Get Reduction to 'Madame Butterfly'

Tragedy unfurls when East and West merge in "Madame Butterfly," which San Carlo Opera company players bring to McArthur court for an evening performance tomorrow at 8. Hizi Koyke, "dainty Japanese artist," rated by critics as "the greatest living Mme. Butterfly," sings in the title role.

Portraying the little child "Trouble" in the performance, will be Dawn Wood, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Wood of Floral Hill, Eugene, being chosen by Madame Rose McGrew, former opera star, following an elimination process in which scores of local children participated.

"Madame Butterfly" is the tragic story of Cio-Cio-San (Hizi Koyke), who devotes herself to her American husband, an officer in the United States navy (Francis Pernilli, tenor), only to see him return after three years' leave of absence with an American wife. The latter two seek custody of Butterfly's child, which the Japanese maiden releases. However, when her former husband, Lieutenant Pinkerton, arrives to obtain the youngster, Cio-Cio-San (Mme. Butterfly) has committed suicide with her father's sword.

Included in the cast, besides Hizi Koyke in the title role, are Charlotte Bruno, portraying Cio-Cio-San's faithful servant; Francis Pernilli, Lieutenant Pinkerton of the United States navy and Butterfly's husband who "walked out" on her; Mario Vallo and the American consul, Sharpless (at Nagasaki); Richard Wentworth in the basso role of Prince Yamadori and the Bonze; and Francesco Curci and the Goro, marriage broker. Carlo Peroni conducts.

Admission prices run 85 cents, $1.10, and $1.65, with ASUO card-holders receiving a cut. Exchange tickets will be issued at the door.
