

ROTC Men Turn Out for Drill En Masse

Top Students To be Stationed In Company A

Band to Practice Parade Marching With Cadet Group

The Oregon campus took on the appearance of some European armed camp yesterday afternoon as more than 900 ROTC students turned out in uniform for the new two-hour weekly drill and parade. Khaki-clad cadets filled the streets in the greatest display of mass drill and marching ever attempted at the University.

The students were divided into seven companies, designated alphabetically, with Company A composed of the outstanding freshman and sophomore ROTC cadets. Each company is officered by a detail of upper division military students.

Several innovation have been introduced this year. The ROTC band will practice during the same two-hour period, and in a few weeks will join the companies in their parades. Guide bearers have also been added to the companies, and will carry the company flags during the spring term parades.

Its Birthday Party

Oregon's school of art (above) next week will celebrate its 25th year on the campus. Below is Dean Ellis F. Lawrence, in charge of the two-day celebration.

Art School Honored On Anniversary

Twenty-five years of instruction to would-be artists will be commemorated by the University art school next week when prominent art leaders and educational leaders will figure in a two-day celebration.

This Sunday's rotogravure section of the Portland Journal will carry a full page of pictures tracing the development of the school since its beginning in 1915.

Commemoration here will begin on Tuesday, when Dean William Emerson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology will be the honor guest.

Greenwood Tells Of British Fight For Democracy

Methods Compared To American Way By Philosopher

By WES SULLIVAN

A picture of an England fighting undemocratic foes in much the same manner as America controls un-American activity, was painted for University students and faculty by Dr. Thomas Greenwood, philosopher and lecturer at Birkbeck college, University of London, since 1930, in the first of the spring term University lecture series last night in Friendly hall.

"The only difference is in method," he explained. "You use your Dies committee and a few extra G-men while we have to call out our reserves."

In connection with his subject, "English Political Theories," he pointed out, "The political philosophy which we have is to be found in the hearts of the people instead of people who make it their business to know politics. The basic views of our philosophy, I am sorry to say, still have to find a man to express them. However, many people go beyond their field to con-

Co-ops Celebrate Fourth Birthday On Oregon Campus

A birthday banquet with places laid for 115 last night at Gerlinger celebrated the fourth anniversary of the founding of girls' cooperative living organizations on the University campus.

Joan Murphy, former president of Hilyard house, was toastmistress. Special guests included Dr. and Mrs. Schwering, Alice B. Macduff, Miss Janet Smith, Betty Brown, Dean and Mrs. Onthank, and the three co-op housemothers, Mrs. Josephine Stewart, Mrs. Doris Wulzen, and Miss Mary Kirkhan.

Musical entertainment was presented by Marguerite Williams, Howard Jones, and Lois Gunther. There was also group singing.

YW Cabinet Group Will Meet Monday

The Student Executive cabinet will meet with the Adult Advisory board Monday noon at the Anchorage for luncheon. The purpose of the joint meeting will be to enable the student cabinet to report on the phases of their present program.

tribute to the political philosophy of our nation."

"It takes a great deal of philosophy for Great Britain and the other countries of Europe to keep a consistent policy in the strong seas of today," Dr. Greenwood pointed out.

SPEED'S THE THING IN A HORSE, BUT I LIKE MY CIGARETTES SLOW-BURNING. THAT MEANS CAMEL, THE CIGARETTE THAT GIVES ME THE EXTRAS!

SHE LIKES FAST HORSES but slow-burning cigarettes—"that means Camels." Peggy adds: "Camels are milder, cooler, and more fragrant. By burning more slowly, Camels give me extra smokes. Penny for penny, Camels are certainly the best cigarette buy!"
