

Harry E. Barnes To Talk Tuesday

Assembly Speaker Author of 26 Books, Over 200 Articles

Best known for his work as an educator and writer, Harry E. Barnes, member of the editorial department of the Scripps-Howard newspapers, will address an assembly of University students in Corlinger hall, Tuesday morning at 11, according to an announcement from the personnel department.

Barnes is the author of some 200 articles on historiography, sociology, political theory, and penology. He also has written 26 books, his most recent "The History of Sociological Thought," printed in 1936.

He taught as a professor in the University of Oregon summer session in 1929.

Among the honors the author received while at college was a Phi Beta Kappa key and "summa cum laude" at graduation.

The subject of his Tuesday address is "The Crisis in World History."

Pursley to Talk

CLASSIFIED ADS

The Emerald runs a found column FREE for the benefit of University students, whose personal belongings have been forgotten in the rush to leave classes and have consequently been turned into the lost and found department by janitors and students.
A minimum charge of 5c is made to each claimant of lost articles.
The following have been turned into the lost and found department, in the University Depot, which is located across the street from the AAA building and adjoining the heating plant:

Found

The lost and found department has been swamped by a number of umbrellas of varying size and hue; a large assortment of gloves; an equally large assortment of scarfs; 8 men's hats; 2 ladies' hats; 1 muff; 1 rooster's lid (color: yellow and green); a few coats and rain jackets; 6 note books; a writer's dozen of spiral composition books; 1 pair of women's galoshes; 1 pair of men's rubbers; a regular library of books ranging from Hygiene by Meredith to Accounting Fundamentals; at least 25 fountain pens, some worth finding; 4 compacts; and a variety of pocketbooks and money purses—without money.

Stanford's Royal Flush Changed To Royal Blush

Lightly and Politely . . .

During finals at Stanford last quarter a few of the boys in the dorm were having a little poker game when they heard a knock on the door.

"Who the hell is it?" one of the guys yelled.

The knock was repeated.

"Well, come in."

They came in: two gentlemen, the presidents of Stanford and Rochester universities. Dr. Wilbur wanted to show his colleague what a typical Stanford dormitory was like.

According to Hooton

Neurotics cause the student's horns an "extra-potent" variety, noted anthropologist and author of "Apes, Men, and Morons," told students at the University of Nebraska recently.

They have paid too much attention to the development of their nervous systems and none to the biological make-up, he said. "Modern vocational guidance courses do not help students to adjust themselves to society," Hooton said. "These courses regiment the individual instead of guiding him individually."

Let Our Little Shavers Grow

Prize joke of the evening at a recent leap year and "Reversia" dance at Southern Cal came when some unidentified Trojan, weary of the feminine custom of putting on make-up in public, pulled his electric shaver from his pocket, calmly plugged it in a nearby lamp socket, and started shearing the hirsute promontory from his face.

A Prisoner's Imagination

was so fired by a newspaper picture that he saw of Barbara Van Fleit, queen of the 1940 junior prom at Indiana University, that he produced a likeness of her on a man's handkerchief using rug dyes for color. With the head surrounded by rose petals, the prisoner named his work "Heart of a Rose."

The reproduction was exhibited at the college Bookstore in a group of prison art. "I never expected anything like this," said Miss Van Fleit when she saw the picture. Elmer Houston, prisoner at the Michigan City penitentiary and creator of the handkerchief portrait, plans to present the picture to Miss Van Fleit.

churches. They will leave for Portland Sunday noon.

Yearly Trip

The interfraternity council and the University will act as hosts to the group. Housing for the group was handled through the council.

Each year the Portland Hi-Y picks the campus of one of the colleges of the state to hold its meeting.

"I wish the campus as a whole would extend a friendly welcome to our guests," declared Walt Miller, president of the interfraternity council.

"Queen of Finance" is original. She is chosen each year as sweetheart of the business ad school at the University of Texas.

Athletic Board Will Meet Monday Night

Finances, reports by Howard Hobson and Orlando J. Hollis on eastern and southern trips respectively will bring the athletic board into meeting Thursday night; April 11, it was learned from notices mailed yesterday to members of the board by Earl M. Pallett, chairman.

In the finance department, the board will consider J. O. Lindstrom's financial report, and will adopt a 1940-41 income budget.

A complex question will come in the determination of policy of the board in regard to the 1940-41 expenditure budget, which will be compared with the income budget. Reductions will be considered, as is the usual practice.

Miscellaneous items will also be considered, the notice declares.

The "report of the southern trip by Mr. Hollis" is a statement which is awaited with considerable interest among members of the board, in view of the conference's new eligibility rules and the tangle thereby created in every school in the conference as to athlete support.

The meeting was scheduled last term for this date.

Juniors Nominate Officers April 11

Junior class nominations will be held Thursday evening, April 11, instead of April 18, as was reported by error in Thursday morning's Emerald.

The nominating convention, according to President Bob Calkins, will be held at 7:30 in Villard hall, at the same time as next year's sophomores, will nominate their next year's officers.

Math Professors To Go to Portland

Professors A. F. Moursund, E. E. DeCou, K. S. Ghent, T. S. Peterson, and Dr. C. F. Kossack of the mathematics department will attend the meeting of mathematicians of the Pacific Northwest at Reed college in Portland today and Sunday. Professor Moursund will present a paper on "Gibb's Phenomena in Fourier Series."

All of the mathematicians will participate in a discussion of the problem of securing better high school mathematical preparation for college work.

The periodical department has received two new publications, Hemisphere and Modern Language Quarterly dealing with news and trends in the western world and foreign languages.
