

AWS Delegates Visit Corvallis

OSC Hospitality Extended to Group At Luncheon

The 200 student representatives and deans of women attending the AWS western intercollegiate convention who have been making Eugene their Mecca turned their eyes north to Corvallis for the second day of their meetings.

Buses transported the delegates to the Oregon State campus where OSC women extended hospitality at a special luncheon in the Memorial Union building.

Dr. Erma Gordon as guest speaker blamed the women of Europe for the rise of totalitarian states. Using Germany as an example, she declared that the rise of Hitler and his regime was due to the lack of interest women took in foreign affairs. "Their women organizations," Dr. Gordon said, who spent six and a half years on the Continent, "are more for the establishment of kindergartens, out of which grows 'cannon fodder'."

Praising the United States feminine citizens, Dr. Gordon said that America is not in danger of any "isms" except Americanism as long as women organizations take an active part in the culture and government of the nation.

Deans and student delegates gathered in room 105 of the Memorial Union hall to discuss "Freshman Orientation," and for a short business meeting before being the honored guests of Omicron Nu, home economics honorary.

General chairman of Oregon state's part in the convention program was Elaine Bowman, who was also toastmistress at the luncheon, introducing: Mrs. Frederick Hunter, wife of Chancellor Hunter; President and Mrs. George Peavy of OSC; Mae Calloway, outgoing AWS president for the Beaver college and her successor, Carolyn Wolcott; Ralph Floberg, president of the OSC student body; Anne Frederiksen, western AWS president; Mrs. Hazel P. Schwering and Mrs. Kate W. Jameson, deans of women of Oregon and Oregon State, respectively.

Minnesotans Let Hair Grow For Production

No Wigs!
was the order of the Shakespeare drama director at Minnesota, where "Romeo and Juliet" is in the process of being produced.

"I won't be responsible for the next guy that calls me artistic," one of the long-haired students threatens.

The only two men in the cast who have not been subjected to the "barber ban" are those playing the roles of monks. The rest of the cast feels they should live their parts with equal sacrifice, and have their heads shaved—or at least a hole in the top.

Pardon us while we have a blitzkrieg.

Whitman college freshman went berserk last week, and waged war on authority with firecrackers as munitions. "The most important action to date was a large scale bombing attack on the library late Tuesday night, followed by a blank attack on forces around Lakum Duckum," the "Pioneer" reported.

Sunrise and eight o'clock, And one clear call for me; And may there be no moaning of my prof; I cannot rise, you see.

I'm up to stop the alarm, half-dead,
Too sleepy to rise and roam,
For I, who jumped from out my cozy bed,
Soon turn again home.

Sunrise and nine o'clock, And still I slumber well, Unmoved by the stirring call Of my alarm clock bell,

And tho' my cuts from year to year
Pile up in mighty masses,
I hope to see my diploma face to face
If I did cut too many classes.

Aquatic Show

Flashlights on wrists and ankles in the dark while executing a two and a half and other dives of this type make an imitation of anything from a lighted pinwheel to an active glow-worm, which is done by Al Sandner.

Two varsity men give the show a comic touch with fancy diving, worked into the story as the shooting of a native by two American sailors who imbibed too freely of the potent native wine.

Survey Rates

The campus calendar drew 70 per cent readability. Least read story was that on page seven of the French table. Only six per cent of the readers saw this inconspicuous, headless item.

The best-read advertisement was the Camel cigarette ad, with 69 per cent of the readers seeing it.

One hundred per cent of the persons interviewed read at least one front page item. Pages 4 and 5, the sports pages, showed reader interest only for those who like sports, for they attracted only 79 and 70 per cent. All other pages were read at least partially by 90 per cent of the readers.

The University of Oregon symposium team will be the feature of the regular meeting of the freshman discussion group which will be held at the YMCA lounge this evening at 8 o'clock.

Speaking in panel fashion, the symposium team will discuss "Propaganda." An open forum will follow the program.

Ehlers Avers Plans Speeding

Construction Starts On Junior Festival Canoe Fete Stage

An indication of the speed with which plans for this year's Junior Weekend canoe fete are going forward was given yesterday by Fred Ehlers, fete chairman.

With Junior Weekend nearly a month away, the construction of the canoe fete stage has already begun and is assuming its final appearance, Ehlers said. Bob Swan is handling the construction of the platform from which the University of Oregon symphony orchestra will play on Saturday night, May 11.

"As all weekend committees in past years have learned, there are a lot of headaches connected with getting preparations started on the right track," Ehlers commented, "so we have every right to be happy that we are well ahead of our schedule."

Living organizations are expected to begin construction of their floats soon, Ehlers said, because the bases will be launched during the early part of next week.

Rex Underwood, professor of music, will meet with representatives from each of the organizations who are entering the canoe fete at his home tomorrow night at 9:15. All of the plans for the fete will be studied, and the musical accompaniment for each float determined. There will be a different Strauss waltz for each entry.

Newmann Will Play Recital in Monmouth

Fritz Neumann, brilliant young Czechoslovakian violinist who made his concert debut before Eugene audiences in a February performance, will play in concert at the Oregon College of Education in Monmouth April 26. Aurora Potter Underwood, professor of piano at the University, is to accompany him.

Frances Brockman Lanier, a former Eugene girl, has recently had a very fine success playing with the MacDowell club orchestra in Jordan hall, Boston, under the direction of Arthur Fiedler. She played Lalo's "Symphonie Espagnole," receiving many compliments on her performance. She returned from Europe last year after extensive study under Fritz Busch, European virtuoso, at Basel, Switzerland. Mr. Neumann, a friend of Mrs. Lanier's, also studied there.

Miss Barrett Hurt

Miss Myrna Barrett, business administration reserve librarian, is confined to her home with a broken bone in her foot.

Professor Ford will handle two courses, one in newswriting, the other in "Propaganda and the News."
