Sophomores Pick Officers At YM Today

Jack McCliment, Louis Torgensen Vie for President

After a pre-election day marked by lack of political rallies and parades, a quiet sophomore class today will go to the polls between 9 and 4 o'clock to elect new class officers.

Politicians circulated throughout McArthur court yesterday to urge moleskin-wearers to buy their class card voting tickets before last night's deadline.

After the polls in the YMCA hut close at 4 o'clock, either Jack McCliment or Louie Torgensen will be president of next year's junior class. Running for other offices are Virginia Tyrrell and Jean Burt for vice-president; Betty Plankington and Martha McClung, secretary; and Clark Weaver and Wayne Kelty, treasurer.

Scientist to Speak On Forum Series

Davis McEntire, senior social scientist of the United States bureau of agriculture, will speak at the Phi Delta Kappa public forum series Monday, April 29 at 7:30 p.m., at the school of physical education on "Population Problems of the Pacific Area."

At present McEntire is regional leader of the Bureau of Agricultural Economics division of farm population and rural welfare of the Pacific area, with headquarters in Berkeley, California.

McEntire's address will emphasize the problems of the migratory workers and their families who have recently moved to the Pacific coast. His speech will cast a new light on the problems dramatized in John Steinbeck's "Grapes of Wrath."

The sociology department has invited McEntire to speak also at Tuesday morning's sociology class.

Three UO Faculty Men Attend State Meet in Portland

The University of Oregon's three members of the interinstitutional curriculum committee, Dean O. F. Stafford, dean of lower division and service departments; Dr. Howard R. Taylor, head of the department of psychology; and Professor Orlando J. Hollis, of the law school met with committee members from other schools in the Oregon state system of higher education in Portland Tuesday.

The committee is appointed by Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter for the purpose of examining course change requests and suggesting plausible changes in courses offered in all Oregon higher institutions of learning. Tuesday's meeting was concerned with changes in courses for the three colleges of education. The three returned to the campus yesterday.

Betty Brown vs. Darrel Johnson In Trials Start

If plans materialize, a law suit will have been started by 12 o'clock this morning by one law school student, Darrel Johnson, against another, Betty Brown, because Miss Brown's dog attacked Johnson.

The case will be the first of this year's moot trials, which are a part of a course in trial practice offered in the law school by Professor Orlando J. Hollis.

In the event that Johnson does file a complaint, the equivalent of suing, "Judge" Hollis will try the case in the circuit court room of Lane county's courthouse in this city.

The incident behind the case took place in a law school classroom when Johnson tried to evict the animal from class under a teacher's request. The dog put up resistance, "injuring" him. He has not been able to settle out of court.

Life Coverage Hopes Boosted

Canoe Fete May Be Broadcast Over Portland Station

Indications that Junior Weekend may assume national proportions were voiced yesterday by committee heads, when they said that a letter from the editors of Life magazine had discussed the possibility of their publishing photos of Junior Weekend events and personages. In the event that a staff photographer can't be sent to the campus, the shots will be taken by local men.

Word received from radio station KGW, in Portland, spoke very optimistically regarding a half hour network broadcast of the canoe fete Saturday night, May 11, John Cavanagh, promotion chairman, declared. "Although we are still speaking in possibilities, interest among the groups concerned is plenty gratifying," he said.

Cavanagh also announced the appointment of Rod McMillen to aid Betty Mae Lind, who is in charge of getting Junior Weekend promotional shots. Miss Lind said that the pictures would be taken as soon as final arrangements are made on program layouts.

Extension Division Offers Extra Credit

Students enrolled in the University, who lack a few hours for graduation at the close of the term, find the general extension division of real practical value, according to Miss Mozelle Hair, head of the correspondence study department. A number of students have already made arrangements to complete their University work during the summer months through correspondence study, she stated.

Army Air Corps Gets 28 More UO Men; Total 60

60 Out of 85 Taken In Three Days; 77 Selected at OSC

By BOB MCGILL

In the final day of the army air corps examinations, 28 more University of Oregon students received their appointments as flying cadets Wednesday, making a total of 47 men accepted in the last three days. Approximately 15 students are scheduled to return for rechecks this morning, which will raise the total to more than 60.

The examining board of air officers reported that an exceptionally high percentage of Oregon students are being accepted. Of the 85 students examined approximately 60 will be appointed cadets, a total of 75 per cent.

At Oregon State, of 150 students examined, only 77 were accepted, or about 50 per cent. The larger number of OSC men examined was due to a full week of examinations, while the board was forced to limit its stay at Oregon to three days.

Flying cadets who received their appointments Wednesday were: Herbert J. Hamer, Robert W. Hendershott, Ehle H. Reber, Norman A. Nysteen, Donald O. Tower, Clarence J. Zurcher, Frank C. McKinney, William I. Lonigan, Robert F. Berghan, Robert W. Jolly, Harry T. Finnell, Henry A. Potter, Charles E. Kearn, Donald J. Eroesamle, Robert W. Greer, Dale W. Peterson, Frank Clemons Jr., Jack M. Bryant, Jack B. Showler, Bradley D. Fancher, Donald M. Ellington, Erling Jacobson, Edward F. Mansfield, Paul E. Logan, Fred J. Ziegler, Lawrence M. Elstead, Harold B. Fox.

Petitions Due

All petitions for business managers of the Oregon Daily Emerald and for the Oregonian must be turned in to the educational activities office in McArthur court today by 5 o'clock.

What Price Glory! New Editor Dunked

It all started out as a plot to millrace Managing Editor Lyle Nelson by way of congratulation upon his appointment as next year's Emerald editor but it resulted in half the staff of the campus daily being dipped unceremoniously in the race.

The Emerald gang was in high spirits last night over the selection of "Nels." In a gay, reckless mood someone suggested that the new editor should be millraced. Instantly the cry was in every mouth, "Millrace him!"

Nels objected strenuously to this high-handed treatment but his loyal staff members were obdurate. So Nels went home (with a guard of honor) to change his clothes.

During his absence, someone (Heaven only knows who) suggested that while honors were being handed out the present editor

New Emerald Head

Lyle Nelson, former managing editor, who was chosen editor of the Emerald for 1940-41 by the student executive committee Wednesday.

Co-op Election Open to Oregon Student Body

One Sophomore, Two Juniors to Be Nominated Friday

Every student at the University is automatically entitled to attend and take part in the annual meeting of the University of Oregon Cooperative store to be held Friday at 4 p.m. in 207 Chapman, Chuck Skinner, president of the board of directors, said Wednesday.

Nominations will be held at the meeting for a sophomore board member who will serve one year and for two junior members who will serve two years each. The only qualifications for these positions are that the sophomore must be a student of the University and have sophomore standing next year, and the junior members must have junior standing.

Lyle Nelson Named Chief Of Emerald

Managing Editor Chosen Staff Head By Activities Board

By HAL OLNEY

Lyle Nelson, editor of the Oregon Daily Emerald for the year 1940-41, was the recommendation turned in by the educational activities board to the executive committee after a lengthy session Wednesday afternoon. The executive committee, in a short meeting immediately following the activities board meeting, placed their stamp of approval on the recommendation.

Stepping into the editorship will merely mean moving across the hall into another office for Nelson, who has served as managing editor of the campus daily this year.

Nelson's appointment culminates three years of work on the Emerald during which time he has served as sports writer, reporter, copyreader, night staff worker, assistant managing editor, and managing editor.

Nelson is a junior in journalism and has a cumulative grade point average of 2.90. He was the only applicant for the position—the first time that this has happened in Emerald history.

Pinafore Orders Stopped by Stores

With over 250 orders for pinafore costumes for Junior Weekend already taken by Eugene merchants, the announcement came yesterday that the stores would take no more special orders for the dresses, Joan Hoke, costume chairman, said.

"The weekend committee would like for all of the girls who wish to purchase the charming, but inexpensive, pinafores to understand that it will be impossible to secure them if they wait until Junior Weekend," Miss Hoke said.

Representatives have been appointed for each women's living organizations, whose work will be to take orders for pinafores within the houses, Miss Hoke announced.

Art Museum Plays Host to Portland AAUW Art Group

The art museum will have a special opening today at 1 o'clock when the Portland AAUW art study group comes to the campus.

This is one of four special openings of the museum, the other three being May 3, commemorating library day, May 4 for the wives of the Junior chamber of commerce of Eugene, and during Junior Weekend.

The public is invited to enjoy the facilities of the University library during any of these special openings.
