DUCK TRACKS

By GEORGE PASERO, Co-Sports Editor, Oregon Daily Emerald

Note to northern division monound artists in general and Mr. ·Glenn Elliott and Clayton Shaw of Oregon State in particular: Take care, gentlenen, the next time you face Oregon's revamped baseball nine. . . . Yes, be very careful or start ducking.

It's no more than fair, it seems to us, that

George Pasero we should issue the warning at this time for a remarkable change has taken place in the Duck camp . . . and credit for the turn for the better can only go to one gentleman-a guy by the name of Buck Berry.

Before Berry turned out for baseball, Oregon's defending champs were rapidly gaining a reputation for being mild-manmered at bat. But Berry changed all this. In the last Idaho game, the Duck bats fairly smoked as "they poked out base hit after base Ait. Even the Yankees or, oh yes, the Brooklyn Dodgers, seldom give a more convincing demonstration of hitting power. Three home runs, four doubles, and one triple were included in the 19-hit blitzkreig attack.

Berry at Third

Berry, of course, is the Big Bertha of the new Webfoot potoney. He's hit nearly everything the pitchers have tossed up to him and after three games rides along with an even .600 average (nine hits for 15 times up). Sure, the's made errors afield, but brother, that extra power at the plate makes up and more for a fow bobbles. As far as we're conecerned, he could play on our ball club any time. In this we echo the Register Guard's Dick Strite's setiments wholeheartedly. What's More, we are of the opinion that Mr. Berry will find himself at short or anywhere else in that infield. Yep, he has the actions of a ball player.

So far, Berry has been playing at shortstop, but he may be shifted to third base. Last night, he played at the hot corner in a game with the frosh, while Billy Calvert, a good hitter, roamed The short patch.

Cripples Come Back

John Berry is definitely riding thigh, but he isn't the only Webwoot who is tough at that plate these days. Bill Carney, a great Sielder who didn't hit the weight sack games, evidently has found his oye. Dick Whitman, a slugger first and last, is out of his slight wlump, and Cece Walden has Hoads of power. Add to this the fact that Arba Ager and Billy Calvert, two capable stickers, are almost fully recovered from injuries and about ready to aid the

Also we can't forget the averages of Jack Shimshak and Bill White, who seems to have taken over permanently the right field job. Both are hitting over the .300 mark.

We don't exactly know how Coach Hobson will utilize his extra power, now that Calvert and Ager are almost ready to play. Maybe last night's practice was an indication, with Berry at third and Calvert at short, Of course, Utis leaves Cox on the sidelines. en f "Pepper" is a valuable man to have anywhere. And also there's the question of how best to use Ager. But of course this is we to Coach Hobson, and he hows what all his boys can do

Five Hoopmen

Understand, we're not saying that the Ducks will sweep through the rest of their games or that Berry can possibly keep up his present pace. We do believe, however, that if the pitching continues to hold up and the fielding tightens a bit, Hobby's tossers will make it tough for opponents the rest of the way.

Five basketball players, virtually Coach Forrest Twogood's regulars, on Idaho's baseball team -this attests to the versatility of athletes of the Inland Empire. The five are Otis (Suitcase) Hilton, first base; Chuck Atkinson, second base; Whitey Price, catcher; Roy Ramey, third base; and Ron Harris, outfielder. All are pretty fair country ball players, What's more, all but Hilton are also members of Ted Bank's football team. Coach Twogood, in a rather despondent mood after a second defeat by Oregon, explained this rare sports situation this way: "We've got to use someone, and they do all right." Three-Sport Man?

At present, Oregon has no three-sport man. Bill Borcher, rugged Oregonian from Sacramenton jaysee, is threatening to become one. Big Bill has already won one letter in basketball. Also he's quite a football end and may take a whirl at the grid sport before his three-year varsity career is completed. He turned in a sparkling game at end for the all-stars against Tex Oliver's 1940 varsity. Football and basketball aren't the only sports in which Bill excels, however. Yesterday he tried his hand at pitching in baseball practice. In softball he is a recognized star who has pitched a no-no game this year in donut play.

Speaking of Borcher and softball recalls that Oregon's four athletes from down Medford way -Calvert, Virg Haynes, Ager, and Borcher are all softball players of note. They played n the fast Medford league. Haynes was Borcher's catcher, while Calvert and Ager played in the infield. Calvert's team won the Medford championship and then drafted the Borcher-Haynes battery for district play. Incidentally, Borcher will tell you that Haynes is some backstop man.

Go West, Young Man

Haynes, Calvert and Ager all played softball while performing for the Medford baseball team of the southern Oregon league. Haynes' so Borcher says, pitched Medford to the championship.

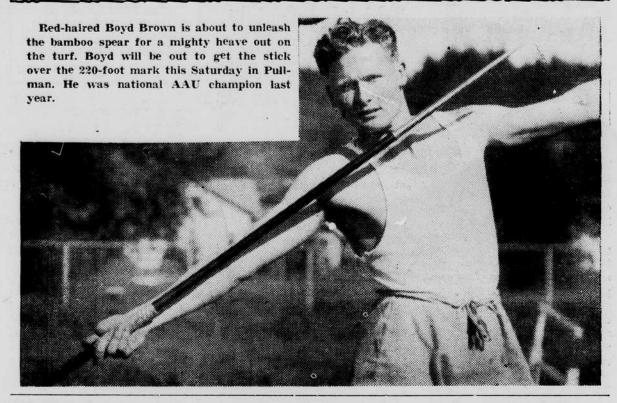

This fellow Havnes is an Illinois boy who four years ago came west to live in Oregon . . . he drove out in a battered car. and lucky for the Webfoots that he did, for he's chalked up two wins already this year. The blackhaired pitcher landed in North Bend after traveling all the way from Abe Lincoln's home state and he still calls the coast city his home, though he spent two years at Sacramento jaysee before coming to Oregon. No, he definitely did not go to Southern Oregon normal. Borcher, incidentally, was Haynes teammate at Sacramento.

Fastest Webfoot

While a sophomore Dale defeated Storli twice last year by less than a stride in both the coast and northwest meets.

This year, Dale turned in a 1:55 half at Berkeley against the San Francisco Olympic club and California. Last week, he repeatSlinging Boyd

Betas, Gammas Post Fourth Straight Wins

Winners Sure of Tie for 1st Place In Volley League

The Betas and Gamma hallers each hung up their fourth win of the season as "B" volleyball nears the final round of play.

The Gamma hall boys assured themselves of not lower than a tie for first in their league as they downed the DUs 15 to 6. 12 to 15, and 15 to 8. The DUs missed the play of Fred Foster in the first game and gave the hallers little competition, but came back in the second under the peppery play of Bob Schott and evened the games up.

Betas Win, 15 to 3, 15 to 1

The Betas had little trouble in gaining their fourth decision of the season with an overwhelming 15 to 3, 15 to 1 win over Canard

The SAEs had a hard time in downing a determined Sigma hall team, and were extended to three games. They took the first game easily, 15 to 4, but the Sigma hallers rallied in the second game and took a 15 to 12 decision. The SAEs settled down in the third ed his 1:55 performance in a meet in the Inland empire.

The Ducks' powerful captain hasn't broken two-minutes yet this year, but he's confident of beating Washington State's pride. Storli has run the fastest 880 ever turned in by an Oregon man, and this includes George Scharpf, star of Hayward's 1935 team.

Scharpf's fastest time was 1:54.8, while Storli was clocked in 1:51.9 in the national AAU meet last year. He placed third, which is mighty okay.

By BOB FLAVELLE

The University of Oregon's 14-man track team will board the train at 4:40 this afternoon bound for Pullman, Washington, where they meet the strong Washington State Cougar squad Saturday afternoon in the second northern division dual meet of the season.

Hayward was faced with a difficult problem when the time came for him to pick the travelling squad. If he took a full twenty man team, the finances available would not be enough to cover expenses of an extra day of travel. However, the second string runners answered the question for him and voted to send the small 14-man crew, enabling them to leave Thursday and have a good night's sleep on Friday.

Hayward Won't Predict

It was impossible to coax a pre-meet prediction out of the cautious Duck coach. He stated, however, that every man making the northern trip is a potential point winner, and several first places are probable.

Captain Kirm Storli has pointed for this weekend meet, as it will give him the opportunity to erase the blemish of two defeats administered last year by Bill Dale, Washington State halfmiler. Storli says he is in good shape and determined to take this one.

Oregon will be the underdog in practically every one of the track events, but is expected to score heavily in the field.

Deiz Stays Home

Deiz, dusky sprint flash will be left behind this week with a pulled muscle in his leg suf-encounter and took the final game 15 to 12.

The Delts received their fourth win as a result of a default by the Fijis.

Today's games (all "B"): Sigma Nu vs. Theta Chi; Chi Psi vs. Alpha hall; Phi Delts vs. Kirkwood co-op; Sigma Chi vs. Sherry Ross co-op.

Thetas, ADPis Win In Coed Softball

In a five-inning game yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock, on the Gerlinger field, the Thetas triumphed over the Gamma Phis' softball team with an overwhelming score of 16 to 1.

Theta's outstanding players, Kerr, Latourette, and Miner, each hit a home run for their team.

Later in the afternoon, at Gerlinger, the ADPis played Susan Campbell hall in the fastest and hardest-fought girls' softball game of the season, with the ADPis scoreing over the Susies, 9 to 2.

Those making the trip are: Jim Buck, Ray Dickson, Bob Mitchell, Kirm Storli, Rea Kleinfeldt, Frank Emmons, Bill Regner, Jim Harris, Harve McKee, Boyd Brown, Ehle Reber, Rod Hansen, and Bob Hendershott. Bill Hayward, coach, and Bob Officer, trainer, complete the party.
