Celebrating Libe Holds Open House

Birthday Guests Welcome Today To All Sections

The University of Oregon celebrates the fourth anniversary in its present building today, in conjunction with the 500th anniversary of printing. An open house in all the departments will be held from 2 to 5 and from 7 to 10 p.m.

Numerous displays will be exhibited on all floors of the library. Student private libraries submitted in the prize contest will be in the main corridor. Also there will be books purchased during the current year from the income of Henry Villard's gift in 1883.

Displays Included

There will be several displays in the browsing room including the Pauline Potter Homer collection of beautiful books, the International Relations club library, and two types of model libraries.

In the circulation lobby a collection of water colors of Oregon wild flowers, a herbal display, documents commemorating the history of printing, a hand printing press, and an exhibit of fine binding are some of the things to be shown.

Burgess Room Open

Old and rare books, manuscripts, and a collection of nineteenth century authors will be shown in the Burgess room on the first floor.

On the second floor there will be a map display, a showing of Braille books, and a demonstration of microfilm.

Some interesting special collections will be on display on the third floor. Old newspapers may be found in the basement of the library, and refreshments will be served in the staff room.

Saturday, Deadline For ASUO, Junior Class Card Sales

ASUO and junior class cards will not be sold after noon Saturday, May 4, the educational activities office announced yesterday.

Lost cards must also be adjusted before noon Saturday; otherwise the vote will be forfeit, the office ruled.

The move is designed to eliminate the type of last-minute card-buying run which at the last campus election resulted in an incomplete list of polling lists, a factor in the error in final tabulations.

Those who fail to register for cards before the specified time will not be permitted to buy cards later, it was declared, so Saturday noon, when the activities office closes, is the absolute deadline.

Poison Oak Plus Poetry Found Double-Trouble

Seen while sniffing about the infirmary:

Coed sports-writer Nancy Lewis is all by her only in ward two stuck in some bird-cage affair . . . its general function—to keep the covers from getting too familiar with Nancy's poison oak . . . Ditto for Jim Stubblebine.

Wes Sullivan (the guy who writes those odes in the Emerald) being swarmed over by a drove of his hall-mates . . . they recite some of the poetry they've scrawled on some pink paper . . . Wes' ward-buddies, Terry Millen and Bill Parker, burrow deeper down in their mattresses and jam their blankets over their eyes and ears. . . .

Johnson Wins Moot Damages

Jury Says Brown Must Pay $75; Hollis Presides

By DON BUTZIN

A jury of seven men and five women awarded Darrel Johnson $75 damages for injuries inflicted by Betty Brown's dog in the first moot trial held by third-year law students last night in the circuit court room of Lane county's court house. Judge Orlando J. Hollis, law professor, presided at the case.

The jury was influenced in its verdict by evidence submitted by the plaintiff's attorneys, William F. Lubersky and Sheldon Parks, to the effect that the dog should have been more closely restricted by Miss Brown since she knew the vicious tendencies of the dog as exhibited in a previous biting incident brought forth at the trial.

Defense attorneys Denton Burdick and Kenneth Abraham were unable to convince the jury that the plaintiff should have known better than to continue holding the dog after it had allegedly growled as he was about to evict

Come Early or Late; Independents Dance

By CORRINE WIGNES

Early or late—with or without a date!

This is the invitation for all independent University students to attend the informal dance in the third floor room of Gerlinger hall tonight starting at 9 o'clock.

According to co-chairmen Connie Riddell and Bill Hodson, only campus clothes are acceptable. The girls may wear pinafores if they wish, and a charge of 25

Breakfasters Will Hear Dr. Aitchison

Junior and Senior Women Will Meet Sunday at Osburn

In the annual interclass breakfast, the junior and senior women will meet at the Osburn hotel this Sunday at 9 a.m. to hear a program featuring Dr. Beatrice Aitchison, popular woman speaker.

Selections by the Kwama vocal trio, the Phi Beta instrumental trio, and Jeanette Gordon, violinist, are also scheduled for the morning's entertainment. The program will not be long, breakfast chairman Carolyn Kortge announced, and will be over in time for the guests to attend church services.

Barbara Fulton, in charge of ticket sales, reports that a larger amount of tickets have been sold to date than in any previous year, emphasizing the fact that all sales will cease Saturday morning.

The breakfast room will be decorated in a spring theme, with flowered place cards, and bunches of spring flowers on every table.

UO Will Promote Weekend Via Air

Seventeen Oregon Students to Broadcast Over KGW, KOIN Tomorrow; Torbet Is Master of Ceremonies, Says Chairman

Radio stations KGW and KOIN will put Junior Weekend on the air tomorrow afternoon, when a group of 17 University students appears in Portland for the broadcast, Jack Holcomb, weekend radio chairman, announced yesterday.

One presentation will be heard from the Journal station, KOIN, from 12:45 until 1:00; and the second—entirely different—will be broadcast by KGW, the Oregonian, from 1:30 to 1:45. Holcomb said after arrangements were completed yesterday with H. Q. Cox, production manager at KGW, and Stan Church, KOIN program director.

"This is quite a step forward for Junior Weekend," Holcomb commented, "because it is the first time in 50 years that the event has been promoted by radio. Alan Torbet, junior in journalism, will act as master of ceremonies. The program settings will be the Oregon campus, and will consist of dramatizations, supported by the Delta Tau Delta quartet, a string quintet, and Jean Morrison, soprano soloist.

Medics to Be Fitted

Uniform measurements for second-year students expecting to enter the University of Oregon medical school next year will be taken May 17, 11 a.m., in Gerlinger hall, it was announced yesterday.

Ode to Infirmary

I hate to leave the infirmary. I've got to go back today. Although they've got me well again, I can not stay away.

My ward-mate has a radio. I've classes all this morning. But I must know what Ma Perkins did About that nasty warning.

Engineer Group Meets in Condon

Talks on Metals Will Be Presented; Banquet at Osburn

For the first time in many years the American Institute of Mining and Metallurgical Engineers is holding its annual meeting in Eugene. The meeting will begin tomorrow afternoon at 4 p.m. in Condon hall at which time several papers will be read.

A symposium on the subject of metal deposits of the Cascade range will be carried on by Dr. L. W. Staples, geology instructor, John Allen, Kenneth Watkins, and Kenneth Hamblin. Following this there will be a paper by F. W. Libby on "Lesser Known Oregon Metallic Deposits."

After the afternoon meeting, to which the general public is invited, there will be a private banquet at the Osburn hotel. The evening program is being sponsored and arranged by members of the Condon club. Albert Burch from Medford will give a short speech before the main address of the evening by Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology and geography departments. Dr. Smith will speak on "Metals of the Philippines."
