Tomorrow's Job

Western Personnel Service

Did you ever think of getting your first job by passing an exam?

Civil service jobs, obtained only by examination, offer possibilities for achievement, advancement and responsibility. In government service there is every type of opportunity—everything from poundmaster to governor's aide.

For inexperienced college graduates, many civil service jobs are open. A new development is the practice of appointing government internes or apprentices; the purpose of this program is to give the experience which may eventually lead to opportunity in higher government service or in private business or industry.

It pays to watch the announcements of all civil service groups—federal, state, county, and municipal units. Also, it isn't a bad idea to take an examination even though the position isn't exactly what is wanted. Government officials say that the more examinations a person takes, the easier it is to pass them.

Uncle Sam pays up to $2,000 a year to junior professional assistants. However, some apprenticeships programs pay as little as $50 a month. But regardless of what the pay may be, civil service is an excellent way to get a "start."

The California State Personnel board in Sacramento will send announcements of examinations on any requested subject. For instance, if a person writes and asks to be notified of all accounting exams, the board will do this.

For further information on civil service or for any other occupational information, students should call at the office of Karl W. Onthank, dean of personnel.

Band Box

college education is worth something has been obtained by the Columbia Broadcasting company. Those four hard years were worth at least $64 to a student from New York's City college. The gentleman in question was a contestant at a preview of the new radio quiz show "Take It or Leave It," the one which ups the ante, and thus the risk, every time one answers a question correctly. The student romped through six questions, entitling him to $32 if he stopped there, and either $64 or nothing if he took a chance on the next question.

The emcee took a look at the question and advised the young man to quit. He refused. The question was, "How many signers were there to the Declaration of Independence?" The City college man had been asked this very same question in a history quiz the day before. He pocketed the $64. The answer, in case you're interested, is 56.

Baptist Social Group Will Use Plantation Theme

"Old Southern Plantation" will be the theme of the C.O.C. class's party at 8 o'clock Saturday night in the social hall of the Baptist church. June Bowerly, of the promotion committee, announced last night.

Inviting all University students to the formal party, Miss Bowerly said that a group of negro boys from the South would be the evening's guests. The entertainment, she stated, will consist of special numbers and games.

Committees for the party are: chairman and assistant chairman, Lillian Kutz and Pauline Pengra; decorations, Ralph Woodall; games, Juanita Chase; program, John Harms; refreshments, Betty Jean Van Atta; promotion, "Squeak" Aldridge and June Bowerly; properties, Edith Paris; lighting, Elwood Soasey; and construction, Gerald Krutzler and Marshall Mobley.

May to Be Emerald Business Assistant

Fred May has been appointed assistant Emerald advertising manager to Jim Frost for the remainder of spring term, it was announced yesterday.

Sophomore and second-year advertising worker on the Emerald, May succeeds Jean Crites, junior in advertising, who assisted Frost the first half of spring term.

The typical college student has a vocabulary of 60,000 words.

William Rainey Harper, first president of the University of Chicago, liked to lie on the floor to study when he was a student at Yale.

Westminster Open

Tonight will find Westminster house putting on a "good old-fashioned" open house, according to Mrs. J. D. Bryant, hostess. Doors will be opened at 8 o'clock.

Any and everyone is welcome to attend these open houses. The proper procedure is to come when you can, stay as long as you can, do what pleases you, and leave when you want to.

"THE MAN'S SHOP" BYROM & KNEELAND 32 East 10th ARROW SHIRTS

My Friend, Joe Holmes, is now a horse

JOE always said when he died he'd like to become a horse. One day Joe died.

Early this February I saw a horse that looked like Joe drawing a milk wagon. I sneaked up to him and whispered, "Is it you, Joe?"

He said, "Yes, and am I happy!" I said, "Why?" He said, "I am now wearing a comfortable collar for the first time in my life. My shirt collars always used to shrink and irk me. In fact, one choked me to death. That is why I died!"

"Why didn't you tell me about your shirts sooner?" I exclaimed. "I would have told you about Arrow shirts. They never shrink out of fit! Not even the oxfords."

"Swell," said Joe. "My boss needs a shirt like that. I'll tell him about the button-down Gordon oxford. Maybe he'll give me an extra quart of oats. And, gosh, do I love oats!"

Sea Romance Film Scheduled Tonight At Guild Theater

Not trick shots filmed in an aquarium but actual action scenes of animal life in Puget sound and other bits of ocean will be shown in the Guild theater, Johnson hall, at 8 tonight, when Floyd Schmoe of the University of Washington forestry department lectures on "Romance of the Sea."

Sponsored by Asklepiads, men's pre-medical honorary, 25 cents admission will be charged attendants of Schmoe's movie-illustrated talk.

Action photographing of ocean life by Schmoe started as a hobby about six years ago.

Latest available figures give a total of 1709 institutions of higher learning in the nation.
