Band to Present Free Concert

Soloists To Play Sunday

University Group Organized Under Direction of Stehn

One of the highlights of the free concert to be given Sunday afternoon at 3 in the music auditorium will be presentation of a new tone-poem written by a member of the University concert band, Norman Cory, graduate assistant in music.

The new work, topically titled "Democracy Triumphant," will be directed by the young composer. Mr. Cory came to the University last fall after several years of teaching and composing at Miami university, Oxford, Ohio. Throughout the composition one hears the "pulsating, confident theme of democracy," and there is a "suggestion of modern democracy in the tonality of the final chord."

The University concert band, which is separate from the football band and the military band, was organized in its present form in 1930 under the guidance of its present director, John H. Stehn. The 50 musicians that make up its number, chosen in tryout contests each year, are generally upperclassmen.

Sunday soloists will include Norman Cory, saxophone; Charlotte Plummer, clarinet; Robert Carlson, cornet; and a sextet composed of Tom Landless and Robert Chilcote, cornets; Lois Ginther, baritone; Paul Anderson, Vern Spaugh, and Jack Plummer, trombones.

Opening the program will be Goldmark's "Sakuntala Overture," which is based on the Hindu poem of Khalidasa. Norman Cory will play an alto saxophone solo in the performance of "Chant Lyrique" by Breilh-Decruck, and Charlotte Plummer will be soloist for Weber's "Concertino." Numbers played by the band alone will be Gliere's "Russian Sailors' Dance" from "The Red Poppy," and the first "Roumanian Rhapsody" of Georges Enes-

Robert Carlson, cornet champion of northwest high schools two years ago, will solo in the performance of "Andante and Allegro" by Guy-Ropartz. Donizetti's "Sextet" from "Lucia" will feature the sextet of band memhers mentioned above. The public is welcome to attend the con-

Architecture Grad Writes From Japan

A letter from the architecture school's first graduate, Jo Tominaga, was recently received from Japan by Dean Ellis F. Lawrence of the art school.

Mr. Tominaga is now an architect in Tokyo, Japan and with his letter sent several pictures of his home, his five children, and buildings he has designed.

Displayed with Mr. Tominaga's letter and pictures are a group of five designs he made while at school in the University. They can be seen in the drafting room of the art school.

Mitchell To Play At Prom

Popular Demand Brings Favorite Back to Campus

Campus piggers will again swing and sway to the precision beat of Bob Mitchell and his orchestra as a result of the Junior class selection, Bill Senders, Junior Prom publicity chairman, announced yesterday.

By popular request, Mitchell was chosen from a number of possibilities, Senders added. Mitchell swung his way into the heart of Oregon couples last February when he appeared on the campus to play for the Military ball.

The new type of rhythm will be featured by the orchestra in the orchestrations which are all done by Mitchell. Virginia Wheeler, the maestro's choice for his girl vocalist, is featured in novelty numbers.

Mitchell has been playing at the Hollywood Bowl in Portland after finishing engagements at Jantzen Beach and at the Rio Del Mar in California. He has also been heard over Portland radio stations.

Setting the scene for Mitchell's danceable rhythms, the Igloo will be decorated to match the Viennese waltz theme of the week-

"The Junior Prom is the biggest dance of the year," Senders stated. "It is advisable to get dates early as there may not be any left by next Friday.

Japanese Student 'High Tor' Will Tour Orient

Second generation Japanese in America should know something of the land and customes of their ancestors, according to Michi Yasui, Phi Theta Upsilon pledge and secretary of Susan Campbell

"Because I have a sentimental attachment to the culture and ideals of my race, I am going to live in Japan this summer in order to be betetr informed on my background, heritage, and the history of my forefathers," she

To Sail June 10

"A friend and I are sailing on June 10 from Seattle on the NYK Hikawa Maru, a Japanese ship, to live for three months in Japan and Manchuria and to study the country's culture, history, people, language, and visit relations and personal friends."

Michi said that they would live as natives during their stay dressing in Japanese costume, speaking the language, staying at Japanese homes, and dropping all American ways. They will cover Japan from the central part down to the southern tip and visit the most famous scenic and historic spots, schools, churches, and especially shrines. After completing their stay in Japan, the two girls will visit the largest cities in Manchuria and China.

"Since I have spoken the language for many years at home, I ought to be able to make myself understood in Japan and in Manchuria, which is now under Japanese rule. Where Japanese is not spoken, we can get along with English because the Orient has become so modernized that the language is spoken a great deal in all places except the most remote parts of the country."

Consul Helps

"We expect the trip to be very inexpensive because my father has written to many of his friends with whom we will stay during our sojourn," she said. "Also since the government is very interested in students, they have made rates for them on a great many trips. The Japanese consul in Seattle has volunteered to help us in any way possible on our trip."

Michi said that there was no danger in two girls traveling Jane alone because the extremely courteous to travelers

Koyl and Gerlinger Cups Will Be Given

Two cups, one for the junior woman attaining the best symmetrical development by her junior year and the other for the junior man attaining the best symmetrical development by his junior year, will be awarded the night of the junior prom.

The cup for the junior man was established in 1914 by Charles W. Koyl, the first paid secretary of the YMCA. Last year Roy Vernstrom was presented this trophy.

The Gerlinger cup for the junior girl was won last year by Rita Wright.

'Y' Ice Cream Sale Will Begin Today

Ice cream bars will be sold at several booths stationed on the campus today. The bars will be sold from 10 a.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Sponsored by the YWCA the sale is in charge of Florence Anderson. Mrs. DeCou, YWCA executive secretary, is assisting.

and especially to students.

"So many people ask us if we are not afraid of being involved in the war; but there is really no danger because most of the Japanese troops have been withdrawn from China and guerilla warfare is the only actual fighting in the Orient at the present time.

"We hope to get into some interesting and unusual places with our letters of introduction," she said. "Our special aim is to bring back symbols of all important places and to interpret them in the United States. We will be especially careful not to do anything forbidden because with the world in its present chaotic state, they would just as soon shoot us on the spot."

Back by Hawaii

Michi said that they would probably be back in time for school unless something interesting or exciting came up. The two girls will sail from Japan and return home by way of Hawaii and San Francisco.

"Our trip will be financed mostly by lectures which we will give for the university dramatic department and articles which several newspapers want us to write on our return," she said.

To Open May 22

There is the old saying that "you can't please everyone."

Maxwell Anderson undertook the gigantic task to disprove this statement in his romantic comedy, "High Tor," which will be presented as the concluding drama of the University theater's season, May 22, 23, and 24.

For those who like tales of bank robbers, there are stolen bags of clinking gold. For those who have trouble with their landlords, there is a scene with rascally land-stealers spending the night in a steam shovel. For those who love to shiver before an atmosphere of mystery, there are the ghosts of Hendrik Hudson's crew. And for those of a sentimental nature, there is a whimsical love strain in the play.

The comedy will be under the direction of Mrs. Ottilie T. Seybolt, head of drama, with stage sets designed by Horace W. Robinson, assistant professor of drama.

Our most popular PLAYSUIT

It may be the fabric-an exquisite chambray, or it may be the fit and tailoring, guaranteed by Tom Boy label, since both contribute to the increasing popularity of this particular playsuit. It's a classic, really, with its notched collar, pleated shorts, zipper fastening, and button front skirt.
