

Mothers to Hear 'Sunlight Serenade'

Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock, on the second day of Junior Weekend, students are invited to bring their mothers to the sunken gardens behind the school of music to hear "Sunlight Serenade," a musical program by the Oregon concert band, dedicated to Oregon mothers, Doris Ann Neely said yesterday.

Miss Neely, who has made arrangements for the afternoon musicale, said that an elaborate decoration scheme had been planned. The audience will be surrounded by bowers of flowers and 11 hostesses dressed in the official Junior Weekend pinafores. In keeping with the informal spirit, tables will be available for all the guests and punch will be served.

11 Hostesses Listed

The 11 coeds who will serve as hostesses are Helen Culp, Virginia Tooze, Barbara Williams, Margaret Girvin, Dorothy Wheeler, Jeanne Filcher, Catherine Crane, June Olson, Joyce Bechtell, Mary Elizabeth Swearingen, and Mary Rose Ryberg.

Sunlight Serenade programs will be distributed at all campus living organizations and announcements will be made by the girls on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday, Miss Neely stated.

UO Catalogs Now Available

Announcement has been made by Roy Vernstrom, chairman of the Oregon Federation, that the new Oregon catalogs are now published and may be obtained by any prospective University students by writing to the Federation, the offices of which are in Friendly hall. Other questions concerning the departments will also be answered.

In its role as public relations committee, the group will carry on its work during the summer when its chairman will travel throughout Oregon making speeches and showing movies of campus life.

Chairman Vernstrom has also consented to show these films to any living organizations on the campus by making an appointment with him. A number of houses and organizations have already taken advantage of this opportunity, says Vernstrom.

Shumaker Talks On University Aims

What the University does to help young people adjust themselves to college life and to train them to be better citizens when they leave the University was discussed by Kenneth Shumaker, director of the lower division advisory committee, at a Eugene Rotary club luncheon yesterday.

After an explanation of the University requirements, Mr. Shumaker concluded with a summary of the professional and general background courses offered by the University.

Members of Kwama, sophomore honorary, and a group of freshman girls, all dressed in pinafores, will serve the Junior Weekend luncheon Friday.

Heads Seniors

Bob Keen, junior class treasurer, was yesterday elected to the presidency of the class of 1941.

Kappas Entertain Mrs. Burrows at Dessert Party

Mrs. Jennie Burrows, house-mother of the Sigma Kappa house, who will not be on the campus next year, was entertained at a dessert party Monday noon at the Kappa Kappa Gamma house.

Guests other than the house-mothers of the girls' living organizations on the campus included Mrs. Sue Badolette, former housemother of the Phi Mu house when it was on the campus; Mrs. Alice Macduff, assistant dean of women, and Mrs. Reynolds, sister of Mrs. Lucy Perkins, Alpha Delta Pi house-mother.

Hostesses for the event were Mrs. Perkins, Mrs. Elizabeth Talbert, Kappa Kappa Gamma housemother; Mrs. Josephine Stewart, Hilyard housemother, and Miss Fannie McCamant, Pi Beta Phi housemother.

Mrs. Burrows was presented with a pin by the other house-mothers.

Dr. Morris Lists Mt. Angel Speech

Dr. Victor P. Morris, dean of the school of business administration, will speak at an assembly at Mt. Angel college at 10 o'clock Thursday. His subject will be "Economic Background of Present European War."

Dean Morris will be a guest of the faculty of the college at a luncheon while there.

The Northwest Christian college will observe the anniversary of its founding tomorrow.

Jameson Named To Conference Post

Dr. S. H. Jameson, professor of sociology, was elected vice-president of the Pacific Northwest division of the conference on family relations held at the University of Washington May 3 and 4.

Both Mrs. Mary B. Farr, instructor in home economics, and Dr. Jameson attended the convention from the University.

Professor Jameson and Dean Wayne L. Morse are members of the advisory council.

The conference is held for the purpose of enabling people in the Northwest interested in family and marriage from a scientific point of view to get together. Psychologists, psychiatrists, physicians, lawyers, professors, teachers, ministers, social workers, and home economists attended the last meeting.

Art School Names Governing Council

Under a revised system of organization, the University art school recently elected a representative to the governing council from each of its departments.

Officers elected were announced Tuesday. They include Neil Farnham, architecture; Jess Shinn, painting; Jerry Tripp, interior design; Bill Wharton, landscape architecture; Ruth Solberg, art education; Don Shirley, general art; and Frank Hodson, sculpture.

The new officers will meet Wednesday at 11 o'clock to select a chairman of the council either from their own number or from the school at large.

Hayward Gets Emerald Position

Steward "Stew" Hayward, junior in advertising, has been selected Saturday manager of the Emerald. He will replace Bob Rogers, who left yesterday for the Alpha Delta Sigma, men's advertising honorary, national convention in Columbia, Missouri.

"Stew" began Emerald activity this term and has done consistently good work," George Luma, Emerald manager, stated. "He has also worked on extra promotion work connected with the May 10 Emerald's Junior Weekend issue."

Phi Beta Kappa candidates will be selected tonight at 7:30 in Friendly hall.

Veteran Stage Star Pleases UO Audience

By JEFF KITCHEN

Changing from choice comedy scenes as rollicking Falstaff in the "Merry Wives of Windsor" to the solemn philosophies of Hamlet, which presents the answer to every problem, was but a matter of seconds for Louis Lytton, veteran of fifty years in the American theater, when he appeared before a University audience Monday afternoon in Villard hall.

A guest of Dr. Robert D. Horn, associate professor of English while on the campus, Mr. Lytton was introduced as a troupier who, for half a century has played all over the United States in companies that ranged from traveling medicine shows to Shakespearean productions on Broadway. He has also worked in Hollywood.

"Shakespeare should be read and heard and seen for the pure enjoyment and pleasure which it can give," Mr. Lytton said. He explained that modern students can find much in the works of the immortal writer without analyzing it too much.

Favorite bits from many of the bard's plays were done before Monday's informal gathering by Mr. Lytton, but none found more favor with the audience than his portrayal and explanation of the antics of Falstaff, rogue of "Merry Wives." Mr. Lytton appeared last year on Broadway as the star of this play.

Talk on Experience

After doing other scenes which included the "Gravediggers" from Hamlet, Mercutio's advice to Romeo, and the "Advice to Players," Mr. Lytton spoke to the audience on his experiences as a showman and answered questions about his career and personalities of the stage which he has known. Among these he numbers as personal acquaintances Maude Adams, Sarah Bernhardt, Ellen Terry, the Barrymores, and many others equally famous.

Disease Campaign Getting Results

First results on the athlete's foot campaign, being conducted at the men's physical education building, show an improvement of 32 per cent in the last six months, according to Dr. Paul E. Anderson who is conducting the research.

Last winter term, when the examinations were begun, 96 per cent of all students examined were found to show some trace of the disease. By the end of the term only 84 per cent were infected. And in this term's examinations only 64 per cent of those inspected gave positive results.

The improvement was attributed to chemical footbaths, careful sanitation of the floors, and to the general education program being conducted.

U.S. Marine Captain Here for Two Days To See Students

Students interested in the naval reserve service are invited to interview Captain L. B. Stedman, jr., U.S. marine corps, at the Eugene hotel, today and tomorrow.

A favorable passage of the questions and physical examinations given by Captain Stedman, leads to a commission as an officer in the U.S. naval reserve, it was announced.

Oregon men who receive the government's okay will be stationed for duty at the Seattle Air Base, and then continue their training at the Pensacola Air station, completing the course with active service duty afloat as junior officer of the navy.
