Canoe Fete Floats Will Pass in Review

By DON BUTZIN

Hundreds of Junior Weekend guests, mothers and friends of Oregon students, will get the thrill of their weekend visit tonight when they witness the annual canoe fete which starts at 8:30 on the millrace.

It will be "Springtime in Vienna" for all present, with the University symphony orchestra under the direction of Rex Underwood, furnishing the background of musical theme with Strauss waltzes. Eleven floats will endeavor to add to the spirit of Vienna, and three Oregon students will dramatize a story of two Viennese lovers to the crowd which is described as one which "touches the heart and won't let go."

On First Float

Riding in the first float to pass in review will be Queen Betty II. The Yeomen and Orides independent organizations, are builders of this float. Princesses will be seated on one of the three levels of the sound shell which will also contain the orchestra.

During an intermission in the procession of floats a song written by Joan Riesch will be sung by a Pi Beta Phi sorority and Phi Delta Theta fraternity chorus, winners in the interfraternity song contest this year. Fred Ehlers, chairman of the event, will address the audience he helped bring together when he makes announcements.

Judges for selecting the prize-winning floats will be Dean Theodore Kratt of the school of music; Associate Professor Maude L. Kerns, art school; Mrs. W. F. G. Thacher; Professor L. K. Shumaker, director of the lower division advisory committee, and Professor Waldo Schumacher, political science department.

'Lizzy' and 'Hans'

Lillian Davis and Jim Davidson will take the parts of "Lizzy" and "Hans," mythical lovers, in a script written for the occasion, bringing out the Viennese spirit of Strauss' time. Announcer for the fete will be Dolph Janes.

The order in which the floats will appear, with their music theme: Phi Sigma Kappa-Delta Delta Delta, "Artist's Life"; Zeta hall-Alpha Omicron Pi, "Voices of Spring"; Sherry Ross hall-Alpha Chi Omega, "Roses from the South"; the cooperative houses, "Gross Wien"; Phi Kappa Psi-Chi Omega, "Wine, Women and Song"; Sigma Alpha Mu-Sigma Kappa, "A Thousand and One Nights, Part One"; Phi Delta Theta-Alpha Xi Delta, "A Thousand and One Nights, Part Two"; Delta Upsilon-Kappa Kappa Gamma, "Vienna Blood"; Delta Tau Delta-Alpha Phi, "Emperor Waltz"; Beta Theta Pi-Gamma Phi Beta, "Beautiful Blue Danube."

To Sing Numbers

The choruses from Beta Theta Pi and Gamma Phi Beta will sing their number, "Blue Danube," as the annual float event comes to an end. Assisting vitally in the formation of ideas used in these floats was Pat Erickson, who also was awarded for presenting the theme used by the junior class in their annual weekend of celebration.

A few general admission tickets for this event are still available at the educational activities office in McArthur court for 50 and 75 cents.

The uniform of Major H. L. Barrett, of the University ROTC, was a handicap to him, because husky Order of the "O" men gave him a taste of the ducking pool. Other prey of the husky chastisers were outlaw women who forced conversation from unwilling males.

Payne Says Word

Master of Ceremonies Les Harger introduced Tiger Payne, student body president-elect, who addressed a brief word of welcome to visiting mothers. Les Anderson and Bob Calkins, freshmen and sophomore presidents, bet a haircut on the outcome of the annual tug-of-war this morning.

Les Ready sang two baritone solos—"Without a Song" and "A Chip of the Old Block." The Kwama trio, composed of Elizabeth Steed, Pat Shea, and Jean Burt, sang a Hawaiian medley and "Liebestraum." The Maurie Binford musical quintet entertained the throng during the luncheon.

Meanwhile the aging Mussolini is sitting poker-faced and quiet, and no one is sure whether he's holding a straight flush or a pair of deuces.

But another gambler in this international game for high stakes is also silent, but that may be because he has discarded the wrong card. We refer to Stalin, who just kicked his war minister, Voroshilov downstairs a few days ago. Perhaps this is the prelude to another purge. Nice people, these dictators.

This Week's Church News

By DON BUTZIN

Mothers will be honored by college young people in their religious services tomorrow.

Westminster house members are inviting their mothers to hear Madam Rose McGrew, voice teacher at the University, talk to them tomorrow morning at 9:45. She will also sing for the group. Relta Lea Powell, worship chairman, has scheduled Phil Beardsley to sing also. Dorothy Davis will accompany.

The regular Westminster tea will be at 6 p.m. J. T. Gano will speak at the 6:30 meeting on "Tolerance in Relation to Student Problems." Mr. Gano is an associate professor of history on the campus. Anne Dean leads the worship service.

Congregation church young people will honor their mothers and other guests of Junior Weekend at 6:15. Lester Ready is scheduled to sing a baritone solo both at this meeting and at the 11 a.m. church service. Rev. Williston Wirt will deliver the sermon in the morning service and will discuss the topic, "Making Goodness Attractive."

Henry Schroeder leads the Baptist church University students at 9:45 a.m. This group also meets at 6:30 tomorrow evening. "Mother's Light in the Window" will be the Rev. H. A. Harmes' topic for the 11 a.m. sermon service. He speaks again at 7:30 tomorrow evening on "Sardis," Philadelphia, and Laodicea."

Mrs. Henry Trout, former browsing room librarian at the University will entertain and inform Episcopal church students at 6:30 p.m. with a talk on the technique of stories and a demonstration of story reading.

The young people of this group have planned for next week, a Friday night dance, and a retreat for next Sunday up the McKenzie river. Pat Salisbury is chairman of the dance event.

Adrienne Flurry opens the Wesley club meeting at 7 p.m. tomorrow with a worship service. Dr. B. Earle Parker will lead the discussion to follow, first speaking on "My Idea of God."

Mothers will be honored at a Wesley club and Epworth league tea at the Methodist church. Starting promptly at 3 o'clock, the event will last two hours, with Eleanor Scott as chief hostess and chairman for the occasion.

Catholic students on the campus will attend 9:30 mass at St. Mary's church tomorrow morning instead of at Gerlinger hall. This change is made because of special Mothers' Day and Junior Weekend observance which includes a breakfast to be held at the Del Rey cafe immediately after mass.

Major H. L. Barrett, assistant instructor of military science at the University of Oregon will address Newman club members and their mothers and guests at the breakfast, says John Schiemer, president of the group.

Pledges Chosen

Friars "tapped" John Cavanagh, Kenneth Erickson, Lyle Nelson, Gleeson Payne, and Wendell Wyatt. Jack Shimshak, who was also chosen, was at the University of Idaho with the baseball squad.

Carrying a skeleton, happily smoking a cigarette in his immodest exposure, Asklepiads chose Herbert Larsen, Phillips Meyers, Delmar Molenkamp, James Rodda, Edwin Palmrose, Walter Achterman, Allen King, Clinton McGill, William Endicott, Harold Schluter, and Robert Range.

Mothers Hear Concert Today

Coed Hostesses to Greet Visitors at Sunlight Serenade

Greeted by 11 coed hostesses, Oregon mothers will step into the flower-surrounded amphitheater behind the music school at 4 o'clock today to hear "Sunlight Serenade."

The Oregon concert band, under the baton of John Stehn, will present a one-hour program of popular semi-classics, said Doris Ann Neely and Stan Staiger, co-chairman. At party tables the pinafore-clad girls will serve the guests with punch.

Signs have been placed around the campus, directing the guests to the scene of the afternoon musicale, the chairman said.

Following are the seven numbers the band will play:

- Blue DanubeStrauss
 - Mardi GrasGrove
 - ConcertinoWeber
 - Charlotte Plummer, clarinet
 - PavanneMorton Gould
 - Andante and Allegro.....Ropartz
 - Robert Carlson, cornet
