

Co-op Groups Take Barker Awards Again

Campbell Co-op, Women's Club Top Scholastic Lists

Cooperative houses again captured the Burt Brown Barker vice-presidential cups, awarded yesterday to men's and women's living organizations attaining the highest scholastic average for the preceding year.

Campbell Co-op took the annual men's cup, with Sigma hall second.

The women's cup was won by the Women's Co-op club, with Kappa Kappa Gamma sorority second.

The Women's Co-op have won for four consecutive years. Last year they gained permanent possession of one cup and the new award is one step toward another. Campbell Co-op's triumph was its second in succession.

The cups are an annual award made by Burt Brown Barker, vice-president of the University.

Freshmen to Apply Annual 'O' Paint Job

The class of '43, fired by the exhortations of its president, Les Anderson, at the campus luncheon yesterday, will be preparing the final chapter of its first school year at 8:15 this morning. At that time the Order of the "O" will escort them to Skinner's butte for the painting of the huge Oregon "O."

All freshmen are expected to be at Villard hall at 8:15.

Obstacle Seen

Generally speaking, freshmen become sophomores this weekend, but, according to reports, they will leave a bloody trail behind them. The sophomores, boasting an undefeated record, will place a serious obstacle in the way of a frosh victory. Sophomore Class President Bob Calkins promised.

Dunking at 10

All member of the two under-classes have been asked to be at the millrace, near Villard hall, when two squads of 18 men each will meet at 10 o'clock. In the ensuing "affair of dishonor" one side will get wet. If previous years' results are an indication, the sophomores will get the dousing, Don Turner of the traditions committee commented. Concentrated combat will then evolve into guerilla warfare, with scattered bands of raiders dashing off to the millrace with doomed captives.

Led by Ralph Lafferty, Order of the "O" lifesavers will keep a watchful eye on the skirmishers to make sure that no blitzkriegs are carried too far.

Radio Will Present Salute to Weekend

A salute to Junior Weekend, giving a history of the event and details of the present Weekend, will be made on the Mutual Don Lee broadcasting system during the Wing's Saturday night party from 9:15 to midnight tonight, it was announced yesterday by Day Foster, program director of KORE.

Telegrams of congratulation will be read from Donald Erb, president of the University; Donald McCormick, president of the Oregon alumni association; Mayor Elisha Large of Eugene; Carl Bergman, Eugene chief of police; Fred Stickles, president of the Eugene chamber of commerce, and other dignitaries.

Union Display Open For Visiting Moms

Student union display material will be open for inspection by visiting parents today from 1 until 2 o'clock, Glenn Williams, frosh union committee chairman, announced yesterday. The display is located in the Student Union room, lower floor of Johnson hall.

"The display will be of especial interest to Oregon parents in that they may see how student activities are centralized in other colleges," Williams said.

Plans, drawings, and illustrations from the union buildings of several major universities are included in the exhibit. Future campus expansion is graphically depicted in a drawing by F. A. Cuthbert, associate professor of landscape architecture.

The drawing shows the location where the Oregon Dads' wrought-iron gates will be erected and the proposed mall extending from the entrance to the library. A complete report submitted by a committee of faculty members explains the building's financial set-up and approximate cost.
