English--Elite, Slang--Included in New Book

"Vocabulary and mechanics of English usage, and plain garden variety of communication" will be contained in an embryonic freshman English book in the field of communication being written by L. K. Shumaker, director of the lower division advisory committee, and S. Stephenson Smith, former professor of English here who is now a traveling agent for ASCAP, the American Society of Composers, Authors, and Publishers.

Henry Holt, head of a nationally known publishing firm in New York, has contracted for the book. According to Mr. Shumaker, it will be finished sometime this summer, and if present plans work out, will be printed around the first of next January.

"Never before has anyone attempted anything of this exact variety," said Mr. Shumaker. The book is aimed at adult education, and will make use of the resources of the vocabularies of both Mr. Smith and Mr. Shumaker.

Duck Tracks

Russ Cutler, the man who coached Oregon's crack 1940 swimming and tennis team, won't be back next year. You bet genial Russ will be missed! He has that knack of getting the best out of his athletes, just as Hayward has. Also, like Colonel Bill, he can look at an athlete once and tell him what he's doing wrong and what to do to correct the fault.

Leave of Absence

Cutler will be away from Oregon just one year, however. He's taking a sabbatical leave to work toward his doctor's degree . . . probably at the University of Iowa.

Taking Cutler's place as tennis coach will be Paul Washke, the man Cutler succeeded. Washke has been on a leave of absence. It is rumored also that Mike Hoyman, popular Oregon swim coach who has been in the east studying the past two years, will be back next fall . . . so this clears up the situation for next year.

Silverton's baseball management is not giving out jobs to young ball players this year, so those kids who pitched and tossed the Red Sox to national recognition last year are shifting for themselves . . . Stew Fredricks will play for Albany's power-packed outfit . . . and Dick Whitman and Don Kirsch may also be with this club.

Ducks to Medford

John Bubalo is set to go to Bend, and Bill Hamel, who played with Edward's Furniture last summer, is headed Medford way, as are Virgil Haynes, Billy Calvert, and Arba Ager.

Bob Bonney and Glenn Elliott, OSC aces, are also reported ready to report to Albany, the team which just recently signed Red Miller, ex-Portland Beaver.

Don Cawley, one of the school's top golfers, and Jack Lansing tell me that a Portland sporting editor was wrong when he said Laurie Heath, Washington Husky pitcher, did not play high school baseball.

Heath, according to Seattle-ite Cawley, played for Garfield high school, and once pitched an extra-inning game against Freddy Hutchinson, Detroit's touted rookie. Hutch's team won, 2 to 1, with big Freddy, himself, providing the punch. Freddy, it seems, hit a triple to knot the score and then blasted a home run to win.

Clubs Don't Help

Young Heath, incidentally, is a brother of Cleveland's Jeff Heath. Laurie has often pitched to Brother Jeff, but he's never struck him out . . . at least this is the story that's told. Jeff played football and baseball in high school at Seattle, and Oregon gridsters, Bill Rach and Hymie Harris, remember him as a "real man."

No. 1 man for the University of British Columbia golf team which lost to Oregon's mashie swingers was Hans Swinton, an Austrian who has been in America only a year. . . . What's more, the clubs he used were those with which Henry Cotton, great English professional, won the British open a couple of years back.

It seems Swinton took lessons from and played with Cotton quite a bit last summer. The clubs didn't help Swinton, however, for he bowed to Oregon's Doc Near, 2 to 1.
