

Reduced Prices Announced for Goodman

'King of Swing' May Be Heard For $1.75 Down

Frosh Glee Heads Announce Single Tickets for $1.00

An opportunity to dance to Benny Goodman's "king of swing" orchestra at special reduced prices was unfolded yesterday when Jeff Kitchen and Lyle Selleck, co-chairmen in charge of Frosh Glee, revealed that bargain rates will be given all students who purchase their tickets before May 25, night of the dance.

Advance prices for the general student body will be $1.75 and all frosh card holders will be given a rate of $1.25. According to Kitchen, definite announcement regarding sale of tickets in living organizations will be made in the next few days.

"We expect to fill the Igloo for Goodman's appearance," Kitchen declared yesterday, "and these special rates are to enable students to do their share of packing the court that night."

General admission May 25 has been set at $2 for couples and $1 for single tickets. The $1 admissions will replace usual "spectator" tickets and entitle holders to dancing privileges.

Cuthbert to Speak At Seaside Meet

Associate Professor F. A. Cuthbert, landscape architecture instructor at the University of Oregon, has been invited to speak to members of the league of Oregon cities at their 15th annual meeting at Seaside on May 23 and 24.

The topic on which he was asked to talk is "Proposed Changes in City Planning."

Among other speakers scheduled for the two-day meeting are Dr. Paul Raver, administrator of the Bonneville dam project; Ormond R. Bean, Oregon public utilities commission member, and Richard Graves, president of the American Municipal association, according to William O. Hall, acting executive secretary of the league and acting director of the University of Oregon Bureau of Municipal Research.

Dr. Baird to Talk At Westminster Luncheon Today

Dr. Jesse Baird of the San Anselmo theological seminary will be guest speaker at the Tuesday noon luncheon being held today at Westminster house.

Students may arrange for conferences with Dr. Baird in the afternoon. These conferences will be held at Westminster house.

Reservations may be made for the luncheon for 25 cents, and should be made early with Mrs. J. D. Bryant, hostess.

Students spend 21,000 hours a year standing in line during registration periods.

Eight Pass Exam In Foreign Trade

Eight senior men students in the school of business administration have successfully passed the written examinations given this year by the foreign trade advisory board and will go to Portland Wednesday for the oral examinations to be given there by the board.

John P. Dwyer, Dayrl L. Evans, George H. Jackson, Jack L. McClung, Chris Madera, Donald A. Marcy, Dip Gaycid, and Darold Windsor, all members of the foreign trade marketing class, are given the opportunity to take examinations given in Portland by the board.

The foreign trade advisory board is composed of a number of Portland business men interested or affiliated with foreign trade.

Of these few who pass the written test, usually about three pass the oral examination given and they are issued a certificate stating that they are qualified foreign trade people, according to Alfred L. Lomax, professor of business administration. Both Professor Lomax, and Assistant Professor A. G. Dudley are members of the board.

Eight signers of the Declaration of Independence were Harvard graduates.

Vocations Books In Browsing Room

On display in the browsing room of the University library are a number of books dealing with "vocations."

Several types of material have been used in the display, including booklets on preparations for vocations, how to obtain a job, and facts about men who have made good. How nine famous men such as Theodore Roosevelt, Abe Lincoln, and John D. Rockefeller began their careers is told in "How They Started," edited by Elizabeth B. Hamilton.

Total investment in the campus of the University of California at Los Angeles is $12,000,000.
