

Recital Scheduled For Three Coeds

Two violinists and a pianist, coeds studying in the University of Oregon music school, will present a free recital Wednesday night in the music auditorium on the campus. Jane Young and Jeannette Gordon are violin students of Rex Underwood, and Margaret Mills is studying piano under Aurora Potter Underwood.

Piano solos on the program will include Beethoven's "Andante and Variations" and Lecuona's "Malaguena," played by Margaret Mills. Miss Young will offer the "Ballade and Polonaise" of Vienuxtemps and "Romance in F" of Beethoven.

Dvorak's popular "E Minor Slavonic Dance" and a violin concerto by Vienuxtemps will be performed by Jeannette Gordon. Together Miss Gordon and Miss Young will present Bach's "Concerto for Two Violins." Accompanists for the violin solos will be Dorothy Davis and Corinne Pritchard.

UO Students Who Passed Air Exams May Be Training in This Kind of a Plane Soon

Weekenders Weakened as Weekend Ends

"They just can't take it. The weekend was too much for them."

Such are the sentiments of at least one of the nurses in the infirmary, and her beliefs are borne out, at least in part, by the number of patients under the infirmary's wing at the present time. They total 20 as compared to 6 before the weekend began.

Those who adorned infirmary beds last night were Earl Shackelford, Doris McMinders, Adeline Hanson, Ester Horstkotte, Frances Singleton, Levell Walstrom, Corrine Lamon, Frances Sowell, Robin Nelson, Eleanor Alford, Patricia Howard, Glen Williams, Bob Skelley, Douglas Walwyn, Terry Mullin, Dewitt Rucker, William McKeivitt, John Taylor, Bob Stevenson, and Charles Gorsage.

Palm Fossil Called Genus Nipadites

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology and geography departments has classified the fossil palm stem found by WPA workers, as belonging to the genus Nipadites, similar to the modern Nipe found in the Philippine Islands.

Dr. Smith said the workers found the palm stem in Oligocene beds in the tunnel near the art museum. The fossil, according to Dr. Smith, indicates that there was tropical vegetation in this region at some time.

Plane Ride Ends In Law Suit for Third Moot Trial

$500 Damage Case Will Have Hearing Tomorrow Night

A girl and a boy, a wild ride in an airplane—and now a law suit. What more could be asked for in the way of interest, color, conflict? The final episode will take place tomorrow night in the Lane county courthouse when Mary-Jane Wormser, law student, acts as plaintiff in a case against William F. Lubersky, another future lawyer.

With Judge Orlando J. Hollis sitting on the bench trying to keep up with the aviation terms spoken in testimony, with the jury going into tailspins over the attorney's legal terms, and Defendant Lubersky trying to del his way out of paying $500 damages, the third moot trial promises a varied interest and a hard job for the bailiff in trying to keep the court room in order.

Six Teams Take

all over the lot to down the Sigma hall team, 20 to 7.

Bob Whitely, ATO's pitcher, issued seven scattered hits in the five innings that he pitched, while his teammates pounded the offerings of John Browning at will.

A seventh inning rally on the part of Gamma hall fell short by one run as the Kappa Sigs pulled the game out of the fire with some timely fielding in the last of the seventh to take a 5 to 4 win.

The Phi Psis capitalized on hitting and good fielding to push the Canard club down a notch in the league standings as they came out on top, 8 to 3.

The Phi Psis drove across runs in the third, fourth, fifth, and seventh to account for their win.

Pitcher Ted McMurren helped win his own ball game with two singles and a double in three trips to the platter.

In another lopsided scoring affair the Delts picked off the Alpha hall team, 13 to 2. The winners pushed across at least two runs in every inning to completely outclass the hall team, which counted for its only win in the third.
