

Alumni of Six Classes Plan To Revisit UO

Graduates From 1880 to 1930 Join In Reunion Plans

By ELSIE BROWNELL

University alumni of six graduating classes of Oregon will have a chance to compare the campus as it was then with its present appearance and to see again their Oregon classmates at the reunions which will be held here Saturday, June 8.

Agness McCornack Geary of Portland has signified her intention of attending the reunions as have a number of other 1880 to 1890 graduates. Mrs. Geary is one of four living members of the class of 1880.

1890 Alumni to Come

Nine of the ten living members of the class of 1890 have notified E. F. Fancett, alumni secretary, of their intention of attending their fiftieth reunion. Fletcher Linn, permanent class secretary, will speak at the University luncheon Saturday, June 8. He has kept a complete record of the class, its pictures, programs, and stationery, and plans to turn it over to the University at this time.

The class of 1900 will hold their fortieth anniversary and a good number of the ten members are expected to be present. Homer Angel, congressman, is permanent class secretary but will be unable to attend because of the late adjournment of congress. Walter Dillard and Mary McAllister Gambler are making arrangements for this meeting.

Prizes to Be Given

At the last reunion (five years ago) of the class of 1910 Oliver Huston was made responsible for plans for the group's thirtieth anniversary. He has appointed a committee of Edith Siefert, Wiltshire Bristow, Isolene Shaver Gilbert, Ruby Platt Loomis, and Caroline Dunston Kerr to assist in the preparations.

Prizes will be given by Wiltshire Bristow to members of this class that fall in the following categories: the lady who has changed least; the man with the least hair; the lady with the nicest complexion; member with the most children; member with the most grandchildren; member attending from the most distant place; etc.

Dance, Dinner Planned

A dinner at the Osburn hotel and an old-time dance with music such as was popular when the class of 1915 graduated will be the feature of its twentieth anniversary. Bert Jerard of Pendleton is in charge of arrangements and is being assisted by Sam F. Michael, Rex Putnam, and Ben Dorris.

Dorothy Duniway Ryan, permanent secretary of the class of 1920, has appointed a local committee to make arrangements for the class's reunion since she is now in New York. The committee consists of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Banks, Mr. and Mrs. Hal White, and Pauline Spencer.

A large response has been received by Mr. Fancett in regard to the first reunion of the class of 1930, and a large proportion of the 300 members are expected back.
