Chamber of commerce members at Newport were spoken to Tuesday night by the dean of the University of Oregon law school, Wayne L. Morse. The talk was on "Limitation of Arbitration."

E. P. Hoyt Speaks At SDX Banquet

Newspapers Must Aid Democracy, Publisher States

Newspapers are democracy and democracy is journalism, according to E. Palmer Hoyt, publisher of The Oregonian, at the annual Sigma Delta Chi banquet, last night at the Anchorage.

If democracy is to survive in this country, the newspapers must lead the way, Hoyt said. The United States is now the only nation in the world which has a free press, he added.

Hoyt led an informal forum discussion on the function of the American newspaper in the present world crisis.

Sigma Delta Chi members combined their annual banquet with a farewell banquet for Professor James L. C. Ford, assistant professor of journalism and this year's chapter adviser, who is leaving at the end of the school year for the University of Southern California.

Groesbeck to Talk At Lawyers' Dinner

R. C. Groesbeck, Klamath Falls attorney and latest addition to the Oregon state board of higher education, is scheduled as speaker at the annual law school banquet now set for June 7 at the Anchorage cafe, says Jack Hay, law school president.

The banquet will be the occasion for the announcement of the third year law students who rate the Order of the Coif, international legal honorary.

Law school students and faculty and guests from the legal profession will be present.

Senior Interviews Conducted Here

Mr. S. E. Orr, division manager for the Pennzoil company, was on the campus recently interviewing graduating seniors for permanent positions, it was announced by the University employment office.

"I am more than pleased with the type of men here at Oregon," Mr. Orr said on leaving.

He took five recommendations for consideration, Miss Janet Smith, employment bureau head, reported the positions to be filled later.
