Activities Board Passes on Three Emerald Officers

George Luoma, 1939-40 business manager of the Oregon Emerald, will step into the position of assistant educational activities manager next fall, the educational activities board decided yesterday at a meeting in McArthur court.

Luoma is president of Alpha Delta Sigma, national advertising honorary, at the present time, and was recently announced winner of the W. F. G. Thacher scholarship as outstanding junior student in advertising. He is also a member of Delta Sigma Rho, forensics honorary.

Director of publications for educational activities will be official title of the job next year, the board voted, and announced that the appointment will be on a one-term basis.

Storage of bases for Canoe Fete floats was also discussed at the meeting, and general questions concerning future Junior Week-ends were brought to the attention of members by George Root, educational activities director.

Three paid Emerald officers for the coming year received a final vote of approval. Those passed were Jimmie Leonard, Emerald managing editor; Kent Stitzer, news editor; and Fred May, advertising manager.

A slight change in the Emerald's budget concerning pay for student office-holders was passed.

This Week's Church News

By DON BUTZIN

Guest speakers from far and wide flood this week's pulpits and discussion tables as University students attend religious services Sunday.

Rev. and Mrs. Harold Backlund of the Baptist Chinese Christian center in Portland will present a program with some of their Chinese young people participating at 11 a.m. Sunday at the First Baptist church.

At 6:30 Sunday evening Professor J. W. Fiscus of the Northwest Christian college will speak to the senior group of the BYPU on the topic, "Consecration." Following this service is a talk on the "Living Christ" by Harold Frazee, Phi Beta Kappa graduate from Oregon, who has been attending the Baptist seminary in Louisville, Kentucky, for two years. The Minutemen quartet will sing three or four numbers at that time. Gordon Frazee, Estley Schick, Rollin Calkin, and John Harms are in the singing group.

Dr. Lloyd Lorber, India missionary, will talk to Congregational church-goers Sunday morning on some phase of his work in the Asiatic country.

Miss Ethel Sawyer, browsing room librarian, will review the book, "The Nazarene" before Wesley club members at a meeting which starts at 7 o'clock Sunday night.

Dr. B. Earle Parker's sermon theme Sunday morning in the Methodist church will be "Heirs of the Promise."

"How to Lead Singing" will be the novel topic of the meeting of the Episcopal University youth group's meeting Sunday at 6:30 p.m. Mrs. Henry Norton will endeavor to answer the question. Also practicing what they learned in a meeting two weeks ago will be three members of the club as they tell stories before the group. This stunt will be a follow-up on the technique of storytelling which was taught them in a recent meeting. Story-tellers will be Lorraine Long, Alfred Tyson, and Elizabeth Dick.

Next week a sunset service is planned which will bring a close to the school year's work. All who care to attend are invited to be at the Episcopal church at 6:30 by Helen Lyles. From there the group will go to some suburban beauty spot for the service.
