

'Boost Traditions, Spirit,' New Assembly Theme

'Tiger' Payne Releases Fall Program Plan

Schedule Will Open Thursday; Frosh To Sit in Balcony

Cleeson "Tiger" Payne, ASUO president, in an interview today disclosed a new plan in reference to student body and pep assemblies to be followed out this year.

The first student body assembly will come on Thursday, October 3, according to "Tige" and will be mainly to acquaint the freshmen with the spirit of the school and some of the customs. During this assembly the freshmen will sit in the balcony as they will throughout the year.

There will be five assemblies fall term, pep and student body combined, and Payne announced that important matters will be brought up before the students at those times.

"There is more school spirit this year than ever before as exemplified by the great increase in sale of athletic cards. Never before have so many houses gone 100 per cent before the end of registration. Also there will be more enthusiasm due to the fact that all students now belong to the student body."

This year he has inaugurated several new ideas in the handling of the assemblies. A chairman will be appointed to handle each, and efficiency will be increased in that manner.

Pat Cloud will be the chairman of the initial assembly and will appoint a committee to help him in details. The cooperation of the drama, music, and speech departments will be asked at various times throughout the year as will that of the entire student body. Also student talent will be displayed as often as possible with the Greek living organizations singing as before.

This year a new policy in regard

YWCA Will Welcome Frosh Wednesday

The YW bungalow, filled with flowers and warmed by a cozy fire, will be the scene for a general assembly to welcome freshmen and new students at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Jean Crites will preside and Dorothy Dunham will act as chairman. All upper classmen as well as new students are invited to attend.

The highlight of the program will be the talk by Mrs. Marguerite DeCou, executive chairman of the YW. Mrs. DeCou is as familiar with the women's movement abroad as she is with it at home, as she has acted as a member of the National Board of the National Women's Movement.

"I have watched with deep concern the fate of the YW women in Europe," stated the executive secretary of the YWCA. The larger part of Mrs. DeCou's speech to the girls will be the program of work this year at the University of Oregon and the dangerous situation with which many of her YW friends in Europe are faced.

(Continued from page one) group meetings in Tokyo. The group has a membership of about 30 persons, the oldest being a member of the class of 1905 and the youngest of the class of 1937.

One of the people with whom Dr. Noble visited frequently is Dr. Jiro Harada, who is visiting lecturer in Portland and at the University in 1935-36, taught Japanese art and culture. To all his acquaintances and friends here Dr. Harada asked Dr. Noble to convey his "best regards and good will."

Dr. Harada is continuing his work with the Imperial Household museum, Dr. Noble reports.

The prexy closed with the statement, "The way to make our student body a success is to acquire new student spirit, not through the rally committee but to interest the students themselves."

Two Librarians Leave University To Attend School

The furniture in the reserve book room has been rearranged to try to keep the freshly painted walls clean. A new clock has been added to this room, too.

Both Frank Bennett of the circulation department and Adele Skinner of the associate graduate reading room have gone to library school. The former is going to the University of Southern California at Los Angeles; the latter is studying at the University of Michigan.

Miss Myrna Barrett was transferred from the Business Administration library to take Miss Skinner's place. Mrs. Rutherford is now in charge of the Business Administration library.

Business Office To Conscript Staff Monday Afternoon

Recruits to the business staff of the Oregon Daily Emerald will be signed up at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in Room 105 of the Journalism building by "General" Jim Frost, business manager, and his lieutenants, Fred May, advertising chief, and Bob Rogers, national advertising head.

Freshmen are urged to attend this meeting and find a position in one of the four departments of the business office: advertising, circulation, office, and layout makeup.

"Journalism majors are not necessarily specified," Frost stated. "B.A., social science, and arts and letters students will find that experience in the business office will help them in their line also."

This week at McArthur court students who are unfamiliar with the library and its customs may sign up for a tour through the building.

Lasting several hours, the tour will take place on Thursday and Saturday mornings and any other time if enough students decide on it.

Seven Houses

Daily prizes will be given Monday through Saturday to the card salesman who lead in each of these groups, and a five-tube radio to the salesman who is high-over-all when the contest ends Saturday.

New Play Stage Crew Has Easy Time

Unique is the word that describes the scene-shifting method used by the University Players in their forthcoming production, "Touch Wood." Instead of changing sets, the audience will move from the lounge in Gerlinger to the theater in Johnson hall, where an exterior scene will be played.

"Touch Wood" will be played in the lounge of Gerlinger hall, because it is an informal play, and the small lounge promotes a more intimate relation between the audience and the actors.

When the play was produced this summer, the exterior scene was played outside on the campus. However, due to weather conditions, it is slated to take place in the Johnson hall theater.

Professionally, "Touch Wood" is known as a perambulating production, which gives scene-shifters a vacation, and audience a chance to stretch cramped legs.

Because of limited seating capacity, the drama department has announced in advance that seats will be limited to one hundred persons for each performance. All seats will be reserved.

Radio Group Plans Varied Programs

Opening the year with new modern studios in the extension building, the radio department under the direction of D. E. Hargis, instructor in speech, plans a wider variety of entertainment over KOAC and KORE, it was announced yesterday.

According to Mr. Hargis the new studios include one small studio and a control room. Included in the new arrangement is a room to store sound effects.

Every Thursday from 7:30 to 8:30 KOAC will broadcast a student hour. The University Theater of the Air and an interview series with campus and visiting personalities will take 45 minutes. The remaining 15-minute program has not been selected.

Friday evenings from 7:30 to 8:30 the radio department will broadcast a collegiate quiz. Each week a different type of quiz program will be featured.

English 309, radio course in public discussion, is open to freshmen students. The course in radio production is open only to upper division students, Hargis said.

Refreshments will be served by Kwamas, women's service honorary, during registration today.

Oregana Editor Schedules Date For First Meeting

40 Staff Positions Open to Students Of Varied Talents

First general meeting of the 1940-41 Oregana staff will be 8 o'clock Monday evening at the Oregana office on the second floor of McArthur court, Wilbur Bishop, yearbook editor, announced last night.

Approximately 40 staff positions will be open at that time and ready for student applications. These include jobs for writing, typing, section, retorial work, proofreading, art work, and copyediting.

Those interested do not have to major in any special field, Bishop revealed. The only qualification, he said, is an interest in the yearbook and a desire to work.

Names of those receiving appointments will be announced in several days, allowing enough time for several personal interviews.

Preliminary work on the book has already started under the direction of Bishop and Business Manager Dick Williams, and will speed up with announcement of the full staff.

Enlarged CAA

(Continued from page one) course taught at Oregon, students are being chosen to take the one given at Corvallis and Albany, where they take ground school and flying respectively. From last year's CAA students six were named for the advanced school at the Oregon Institute of Technology at Portland. They are Wendell Haley, Lloyd Cummings, David Hershiser, Pierce Mallory, Kneeland Stone, and Paul Christy.

This year's course will not differentiate from last year's in selection of applicants, as preference will be given first to seniors, then juniors, and finally to underclassmen.

Chancellor Hunter Leaves for East

Chancellor Frederick M. Hunter left Eugene Wednesday, September 25, to attend a three-day meeting in Washington, D.C., of the educational policies commission scheduled for September 29.

This commission which is just completing a five-year program sponsored by the General Education board, will work on the final volume of a series outlining a philosophy for education in America. This volume is entitled "Integration of American Education."

This commission, which was created in 1935 by the National Education association and the American Association of School Administrators, was recently granted funds to continue in operation for another four years. Dr. Hunter is one of the thirteen appointed members of the commission who are chosen from the nation's education leaders.

The commission will also take up matters relating to educational agencies throughout the nation and will plan the future program.

Carlton Spencer Granted Leave

Professor Carlton Spencer of the law school was granted a year's leave of absence to accept his commission as major in the U. S. army. The headquarters are in Salem.

He will continue as director of civil aeronautics program here at the University until someone has been appointed to fill his place.

Since he did not receive his appointment until September 26, there has not as yet been appointed a successor. Dean Morse announced that he is in communication with several lawyers in regard to the vacancy.

1,087 Students Can't Be Wrong

That is why more Oreganas were sold yesterday than at any single day during the history of the Oregana.

We give you 5 more good reasons why you, who didn't register yesterday, will order your copy today.

- 1—It is a tradition that Oregon supports its yearbook better than any other student body in the West.
- 2—Authorities on yearbooks freely admit that the Oregana is getting better and better as each edition rolls off the press.
- 3—Because old grads wouldn't sell their Oregana for 10 times the money they paid for it.
- 4—Because you may use our Easy Payment Plan.
- 5—Because the Oregana will be remembered long after the price is forgotten.
