

French Movies Due for Campus Showing Soon

'Harvest' Recently Freed From Ban Of Censorship

Banned a year ago by the New York board of censors and subsequently exonerated by their superior body, the Board of Regents, Oregon's first French movie of the year, "Harvest," is scheduled for a one-day showing here on the campus next Wednesday afternoon and evening in Chapman hall.

Calling the movie's first scrape with the board of censors "unfortunate," the board of regents hastened to explain away the popular misconception that the film was something "naughty and cheap," and the New York Times, in commenting on the situation stated, "Any one who could find it so would be outraged by the nudities of the Metropolitan Museum of Art!"

Filmed From "Regain"

"Harvest," Jean Giono's pastoral of Provence, is filmed from his highly successful novel "Regain," and deals with scenes close to the earth, such as the gift of bread, the labor and loves of the peasants, the restoration of a village, the basic unit of Europe's civilization. Here is a picture of European peasant life and struggles which the present war has interrupted. The Times calls this work "the escape from the harshness of a mechanized world and a return to the simpler, the elemental."

Tickets in Co-op

Tickets for "Harvest," both the afternoon performance at 4 p.m. and the evening performance at 8 o'clock are on sale at the Co-op in Chapman hall. Both showings are in Chapman's room 207.

Dr. Barnett Studies Tsimpsian Indians During Summer

Dr. H. G. Barnett, acting head of the anthropology department, took advantage of a grant from the American Philosophical society and the University of Oregon to study and observe the Tsimpsian Indians of Northern British Columbia during the summer months. Dr. Barnett, stopping at two reservations, one on the coast and one 180 miles in the interior, studied the results of the Indians' contact with white culture during the period from 1830 to 1900.

Spending five weeks on each of the reservations, Dr. Barnett talked with individual Indians, sometimes through interpreters and sometimes directly.

According to Dr. Barnett the Tsimpsian Indians are expert wood-carvers and have made some of the best totem poles as well as maps, we have today.

Two preliminary papers on "Problems in Culture Contact and Culture Change" are ready for publication in the near future.

Wesleyan university, Middletown, Conn., has purchased a special collection of 2,000 volumes on international law.

Eight Los Angeles students of the University of California will attend the seventh Japanese-American student conference in Japan this summer.

Prof Smothers Art School Fire As Pupils Cheer

Fireman to the rescue! Quick thinking and fast work made one professor in the University art school a minor hero recently.

When sparks from a small motor operating the ventilating system in the art gallery ignited the muslin stretched across the top of the gallery, our hero sprinted out the door.

In a matter of seconds, he bounded back into the room dragging an anonymous workman's ladder.

Scrambling up the steps, he smothered the flame, while an appreciative audience vigorously applauded below.

Leukemia is being treated with an orange juice cocktail spiked with radio-active phosphorus developed in the University of California's 200-ton atom smasher.

Campus Calendar

Yeomen will vote on constitutional changes Monday night.

Saturday noon is the deadline for Ordes and pledges to sign up for the Monday night dinner. Those interested call Mrs. Seifert. Pledges will be charged 10 cents and old members 25 cents.

Miss Regina Moeda will be at the Anchorage Friday at 6 p.m. Those wishing to eat with her be there at that time.

Noise Parade

The parade has traditionally ended at the frosh bonfire, but the homecoming committee has ruled that there will be no frosh fire this year.

Judges for the noise fete have not yet been announced. Committee members were named as follows: Jeanette Christensen, secretary; Bill Edlefsen, torch parade; Wes Johnson, line of march; George Arbuckle, judges; Jack Boone, fraternity organization; and Barbara Johnson, sorority organization.

First systematic course in the philosophy of physics is being given at Harvard by a former University of Prague professor.
