Ends Important

Safely imbedded in the right end position is Bert Gianelli who is having the time of his life playing football. Gianelli, who played tackle for Everett, Washington, hadn't tried the job of catching far flung passes, rushing passers and kickers, or cutting down blockers until he showed up to play on "Honest John's" team, and from the showing he has made the newness of the position hasn't bothered him.

Pushing Gianelli for the right flankman's job is Bob Lucy, the player that we will remember for his catch of the pass that gave the frosh their score against the rooks. Lucy, who hails from California tips the scales at 185 pounds and is a "sticky finger" pass receiver.

Leaders Welcome Alums

ASUO President

Dear Alums,

It is with a sincere feeling of loyalty to your Alma Mater, and mine to be—the University of Oregon, that I urge you to "Trek the Oregon Trail" and attend this year's Homecoming festivities.

Following the Friday night noise parade the concluding game of the Frosh-Rook grid series will be played on Hayward field. We won the initial tilt and now John Warren has imbued his men with the idea of dedicating win No. 2 to you Alums.

Oregon's varsity football aggregation, composed largely of sophomores and transfers, will meet the UCLA eleven and Jackie Robinson Saturday. We expect to have a championship contender for '41, and this is the time for you Oregon backers to "preview" the boys in action. After the game will be the Homecoming dance; I hope to see every one of you again. "Trek the Oregon Trail," only this time to McArthur court.

Sincerely,
Tiger Payne
President ASUO

Chairman

The larch string is out, alums, and University of Oregon students have planned their 1940 Homecoming November 8, 9, 10 to be the most inclusive program in the history of grad celebrations.

Through the Homecoming directorate, 3700 undergrads invite you to spend those three days recapturing memories of your alma mater and comparing this year's version of Oregon to the "good old days." Opening Friday night with the traditional noise parade the program travels for 48 active hours until Sunday evening.

Without the gilt edges, but with all the sincerity we invite you to Trek the Oregon Trail . . . it's Home to Honor Oregon.

Joe Gurley
General Chairman

Alumni Secretary

Greetings Oregon Alumni Everywhere:

We have a date with you for November 8-9-10. Get out your date book and make plans accordingly. Don't stand us up as we are counting the days until we get together again.

This isn't going to be a blind date so there is no reason for holding back any of the details. We have been away from one another for a long time, but we haven't changed much. To make sure that time and distance doesn't take us too far apart we will keep our date on a campus filled with customs and traditions familiar to us when first we met.

From the opening blast on the old steam roller whistle Friday until the sun sets Sunday you are going to feel that you are back again to take up where you left off those many years ago.

Your name is starred in our date book and we hope our name has a prominent place in yours. For old times sake let's drop everything
