

Bids Out Today To Matrix Table

Theta Sigma Phi To Invite Women During Lunch Time

Today at noon members of Theta Sigma Phi, women's journalism honorary, will officially present invitations to the annual Matrix Table, November 14, to outstanding women in the fields of journalism, literature, and the arts.

Bids will be given before the assembled members of each living organization during the lunch hour by a special committee of active Theta Sigs, it was decided yesterday at a luncheon meeting of the honorary at the Anchorage.

100 Coeds Invited

Coeds invited, numbering around 100, will make up about one-fifth of the list of outstanding women throughout the state to have been invited to attend. The affair, a formal dinner at the Osburn hotel, will be highlighted by the address of Nancy Wilson Ross, well-known Oregon authoress and Theta Sig alum. Mrs. Charles A. Sprague will be an honored guest.

Also to be honored will be the outstanding senior in journalism from both University and Eugene high schools, and two outstanding sophomore women in journalism from the University of Oregon. They are to be selected by faculty

Fashion Fellowship Open to Senior Girls

Tobe-Coburn School for Fashion Careers, Rockefeller center, New York, is offering five fashion fellowships to members of this year's senior class, according to an announcement from the dean of women's office.

Each fellowship covers a year's tuition of $700 in the school. Only one will be awarded in any college or university. University of Indiana, Oberlin, Wellesley, University of Toledo, and University of Colorado are now represented in the school by last year's winners.

Women members of the senior class who wish to apply for one of the fashion fellowships must mail registration blanks and answers to the first test questions on or before December 10. One more set of test questions and a research project will complete the work for the awards. Announcement of the awards will be made April 25.

Members of the three schools. Toastmistress for the occasion will be Doris Murphy, president of the local chapter. Mrs. Eric W. Allen, wife of the dean of journalism of the University, will also speak.

This year's banquet is a digression from the usual custom of having Matrix Table during spring term. The change was arranged because of the heavy spring term social schedule, Miss Murphy said.

Registrars Plan Annual Conclave

Three-Day Meeting Will See McKenzie, UO-OSC Campuses

Approximately 60 registrars will meet on the University of Oregon and Oregon State college campuses November 10, 11, and 12 in the fifteenth annual convention of the Pacific Coast association. Headquarters will be at the Eugene hotel, Eugene.

The convention will open with an informal reception Sunday at 8 p.m. in headquarters. Monday at 9 a.m., Publications Editor D. M. Goode of Oregon State will discuss "the catalog and the curriculum." A general forum on trends and techniques relative to penalties will follow at 9:45 with J. P. Mitchell acting as chairman.

On to McKenzie

At 10:30 the registrars will shift to the Belknap Springs hotel on the McKenzie river, returning to Eugene in time for a talk by Rodney M. West, registrar at the University of Minnesota at 8 p.m.

Tuesday at 9 a.m. Irvin Hoff, registrar at the University of Washington, will give an evaluation of Canadian credentials. At 10 o'clock the convention will adjourn to the registrar's office of the University of Oregon for an hour.

On to OSC

Leaving for Oregon State at 11 o'clock, they will lunch in the Memorial Union building, conduct their business session, and inspect the institution's facilities.

The convention will close with an informal dinner at 6 p.m. in the Eugene hotel. Dean J. R. Jewell of the school of education on this campus will be toastmaster. C. D. Byrne, secretary of the Oregon state board of higher education and assistant to the chancellor, will speak at the dinner on the work of the board which he represents.

Negro Baritone

Accompanist Sings
Lawrence Brown, Mr. Robeson's accompanist, provided an attractive background for the vocal selections. The pianist is well known for his composing and his arrangement of old songs, several of which the baritone sang.

Highlight of the program, possibly, was Mr. Robeson's delivery of "Ballad for Americans," the 15-minute "inspirer" of Americanism which was written by Earl Robinson and John La Touche, and which made such a wham of a hit last winter over CBS. The interpretation suffered by lack of a chorus, but Mr. Robeson conveyed the patriotic spirit and buoyant character of the song with skill.

One of Mr. Robeson's encores was Jerome Kern's "Ah Still Suits Me," which he premiered in the 1936 movie version of "Show Boat." Those who paraded happily away from the Igloo at the conclusion of the concert expressed, in varying words, the sentiment: "Paul Robeson Still Suits Me!"

his pant legs rolled up, and wearing high heels, and silk stockings. John Wood, Fiji, attended his 8 o'clock in pajamas . . . seems John lost a little wagger to Brother Dick Larkin. Milton Small, of Campbell co-op, went to all his classes all day wearing a sandwich sign with the following inscription thereon:

"Heck! I wanted Willie!"
Over at the DU house the fellows refuse to talk. Well . . . okay.

Phi Psi Hal Baker is another peanut roller . . . distance 40 yards.

Bob Christianson, Phi Sig, got a new haircut . . . something phenomenal.

The Theta Chis don't gamble— or maybe they just won't talk.

The Betas . . . likewise.

Al Hunt says: "This is Al Hunt, and that's a lie!"

Our opinion: "(?)"

Dinner Date

Two Kappa Sigs answered the telephones at the same time. From them we gathered that Pat Riley had been miltreated, and that Bill Miller is taking a young lady to dinner. Bill says . . . her name doesn't begin with "S."

The SAEs had quite a time of it, all the Republicans have to get up and do the housework at 4:30 on Wednesday morning. Also, the Republicans were supposed to attend the dessert dance that evening with their pant legs rolled up. However, it seems that most of the Republicans were upperclassmen, and they refused!

At the Sigma Phi Epsilon house all we could get from their end of the line was static . . . we hung up!

Peace (apologies to Ridgley Cummings, and Father Divine). It's Wonderful.

YW Sponsors Tea For Mrs. E. E. DeCou

Chrysanthemums and autumn leaves filled the YW bungalow yesterday afternoon in honor of the tea given by the advisory board of the Y to welcome Mrs. E. E. DeCou, new executive secretary of the YWCA and resident supporters of the organization.

Over 200 people attended the tea and partook of the refreshments prepared by the hospitality group and served by the members of the Frosh commission.

House mothers of living organizations and prominent women of the University poured tea and received guests.

Entertainment was furnished by Madeline Chin, who sang two songs, accompanied by Ruth Baker, Phyllis Gray and Helen Luvaas played piano solos.

"We are very pleased with the successful afternoon and are confident that everyone who attended the tea had a really good time, as we did," Jean Crites, president of the Y exclaimed.

Homecoming Mums Offered by Kwamas

A new mum, decorated especially for the Homecoming game Saturday, will be offered for sale at noon today as the Kwamas make the rounds of men's living organizations.

The new flower will go into a special price bracket of $1.50 over the usual 50 and 75 cents and $1 corsages.

The sale is under the direction of Grace Williams.

Campus Calendar

Orides members who wish to ride in the noise parade tonight must be at the YW bungalow at 5:45.

Orides pledge dance will be held tonight, third floor Gerlinger, immediately following the noise parade. Orides and Yeomen free, all other independents 25 cents.

Westminster house will be open to homecomers and friends after the game Saturday.

Roles for Six Men Open in 'Moonset'

Tryouts for the Studio players' production of "Moonset," a one-act play by Helen M. Clark are being held at 1 p.m., Tuesday, November 12, at 103 Johnson hall. There are six parts open to men on the campus.

Anyone interested in trying out for one of the roles, but unable to meet at the specified time should leave his name and telephone number at the drama division office, 106 Johnson. Others wishing to read for the play before tryouts may do so by contacting Adrian Martin at the drama division office.
