Campus Calendar

All freshman footballers must suit up for Oregon pictures Thursday at 3:45 p.m. at the Igloo.

Tabard Inn will meet Thursday evening at 7:30 at the home of George Root. The address is the upstairs apartment in back of 1369 Emerald street.

Dr. J. R. Branton, head of the department of religion, will direct the Bible study class of the YWCA this afternoon at 4.

AWS council will meet at 4 o'clock today in the AWS room in Gerlinger hall. Fines will be imposed on absentees.

All representatives are asked to hand in names of persons on respective volleyball teams who they think are eligible for the All-Star team to be announced at the end of the season. Hand in at WAA desk in Gerlinger.

Wesley Mothers' club will meet today in Wesley house from 2 to 4:30 p.m. The members plan to sew on drapes for the sun room.

Professors to Visit

The open house will be held Saturday and Sunday.

Senior Bench

painted practically every color in the rainbow at some time during its academic career. The bench still has to be watched carefully when the Oregon-Oregon State game nears so the Beavers won't sneak over and give it a coat of orange and black.

Then, too, quite a few alums remember the unpleasant experience of having to scrub its entire surface with a toothbrush and innumerable people have been hacked, ducked or mill-raced for illegally sitting on it.

Nevertheless, despite the penalties of too-close contact with the senior bench, it has been a beloved part of Oregon tradition for 30 years. Fenton hall will look rather bare without it for a while but as Mrs. Seifert says, "I like it where it is now—the students can sit and watch the sunset."

Estimated 1200 Alums Visit UO Over Weekend

Football Victories Play Leading Role In Holiday Success

Describing Homecoming as a "huge success," alumni officials estimated that 1200 grads returned for the holiday last weekend.

High in making the fete a success were the Oregon Frosh-Oregon State Rook game (13-7) and the Oregon-UCLA game (18-0), with Oregon teams winning both, they said.

Kappa Sigma won the cup for the men's living organization having the most alums registered in proportion to the number of members in the house. Chi Omega won the women's cup.

Alumni association members nominated candidates for president and vice-president of the group. These two are the only elective offices in the association, Elmer Farnett, alumni secretary, said.

Hollis N. Johnston, ex-'21, Portland architect and Raymond O. Williams, '14, school clerk at La-Grande, were nominated to take the place of retiring President Dr. Delbert Stanard, '14. Dr. Stanard, a Eugene physician, is now with the national guard at Camp Murray, Washington.

Other Officers

Forrest E. Cooper, '27, Lakeview attorney, and Chester O. Knowlton, ex-'32, Tillamook freight manager, were nominated for vice-president. Johnston served as vice-president last year, and as president in Dr. Stanard's absence.

Voting will be done on mail-in ballots, Farnett said. These will be mailed to association members about December 1, and must be postmarked not later than December 25 if they are to be considered. Those elected will take office the first of the year.

Farnett Explains
Farnett explained, however, that nominations may still be made by mail.

Ward Eight Men Keep Infirmary In Gay Uproar

Prize cup for women's fashions go this week to Barbara Crain, who is convalescing in a beautiful pair of pink p.j.s, designed by Tsailovozitch.

Ward eight again cops top honors for being "the rowdies" of the infirmary. Jack Saltzman, Roy Dyer, et al, are really keeping things moving. Long after "light out" the ward eight agitators are still going to it.

Things are picking up at the campus pill palace as to date. Score for today, seven in—two out, leaving a total of 13. They include: Betty Clay, Pat McAffery, Betty Hughes, Carmen Williams, Barbara Crain, Martha Lampa, Bruce Buehler, Harold Harris, Dale McMullin, Bill Endicott, Jack Saltzman, Roy Dyer, and Willard Hambleton.

Many alums were reported to have engaged in "bull-sessions" at the alumni reception at the Eugene armory after the UCLA game Saturday.

WAA will meet Wednesday at 4:45 in PE social room.

UO Graduates Fly In Navy Air Corps

Roy Burnett Starts Pensacola Study; Povey Will Begin

Several University of Oregon graduates are now in the United States naval flying corps, states Lieut. Charles Wayne, instructor at Sand Point navy base in Washington. Lieut. Wayne was in Eugene over the weekend visiting friends.

Among Oregon men he mentioned were Roy "Bud" Burnett, '39, who has just completed his primary work at Sand Point and is now on his way to the Pensacola, Florida, base for additional training. Neale Povey, '39, will enter the corps November 15, the instructor said. Both men were members of Beta Theta Pi while in school here.

Lieut. Wayne said opportunities for qualified men in the naval air corps were excellent at the present time. The course includes four years of training. College graduates or men having completed courses in aeronautical engineering are eligible to enlist.

While in training the navy cadets get $75 per month plus a subsistence allowance of $1 per day. Upon graduation they receive the rank of ensign and are qualified to get $205 per month.

Theater Will Present Anti-Nazi Melodrama

Tonight marks the third performance of Clare Boothe's satirical anti-Nazi melodrama, "Margin for Error," which is being presented by the Very Little Theater at the fair grounds. The final performance is Thursday evening.

Miss Boothe, famous for "The Women," has written the first successful play dealing with national socialism, according to New York critics. Walter Winchell proclaimed himself her press agent, and with ecstatic sincerity he urged, "Go and enjoy hearing her players speak their minds for you in these hateful times abroad."

Men Lead
In contrast with "The Woman," the principals in the cast are men.

Men interested in this branch of the U.S. armed forces were advised to write to the procurement officer at the U.S. naval reserve aviation base, in Seattle, Washington.

All members of Mu Phi Epsilon are reminded of Founders' day dinner, at 5:45 in the sun room of Gerlinger hall this evening. Alums and faculty members are invited. Call Ext. 267 for reservations.
