Students Will Revise ASUO Constitution

Students Vote on Change in Laws
At School Election

What the Executive Committee
Did:

1. Appointed George Luoma and Wendell Wyatt to work with John Cavanagh in getting together several necessary changes in the ASUO constitution to be presented to a student body election.

2. Voted to ask Skull and Dagger to handle the announcements, etc. of the speaker's committee for such drives as Salvation Army, Red Cross, and Christmas Seals.

3. Appointed Frances Cox and Gloria Difford to organize the student body office force.

Two law school students, George Luoma and Wendell Wyatt, were appointed to work with ASUO Vice-President John Cavanagh on proposed revisions in the ASUO constitution, at the regular weekly meeting of the executive committee yesterday.

The three students will draw up amendments to the constitution to be presented to the student body at an all school election early next term.

Skull and Dagger, sophomore men's honorary, will be asked to handle all announcements for the speaker's committee, the executive committee decided. Announcements concerning the various campus drives, etc. will be handled by this group.

The committee also appointed Frances Cox and Gloria Difford to begin organization of the new student body office force in McArthur court in the only other business of the day.

Oregon Songs On Sale Today

Sales of music books containing three comparatively new Oregon songs will begin in living organizations today under the direction of the Kwamas, according to Eleanor Sederstrom, chairman of the committee.

The first song in the book, "Fight on for Oregon," was composed by Leslie Irvin who attended Oregon last year, and it is hoped that the profit of the sale of the book can be given partly to him so that he may continue school.

Pat Keller of the rally committee is asking students to learn these new songs before the game on Saturday afternoon so that they can be sung during the game and they will be used to serenade Oregon State if Oregon wins.

"I think they're good songs," said Pat, "and they should help the rooting spirit, if the students will just buy the books and learn the songs before the game."

Wesley House Tea Will Feature Exhibits Of Chinese Goods

The initial showing of the "Shop of China," a bazaar of Chinese imported goods, will be the main feature of the tea to be given from 3 to 5 p.m. today at Wesley house. There have been 75 invited guests. In keeping with the theme of the tea, Chinese food will be served.

Wardene Hadley is general chairman of the tea.

This Chinese display will be at Wesley house each afternoon for a week. Everyone is extended an invitation by Wesley foundation. All articles are for sale, December 5 and 6 a table of Chinese goods will be in the co-op and on the 7th at the public market.

Crossing the Bar

So the law school's got another bench. Well, they didn't use their head. They should have been more practical. And put a soap box there instead. —J.W.S.

IN 'SQUARE'

Jerry Lakefish, Oregon actor, who will appear as Mr. Throble in the Guild theater's forthcoming production of "Berkeley Square."

Guild Theater Stars Lakefish In Production

'Berkeley Square' Opens December 4 At Johnson Hall

Jerry Lakefish will appear as Mr. Throble in the Guild Theater's forthcoming production, "Berkeley Square," December 4, 5, 6, and 7, under the direction of Mrs. Ottilie Seybolt, head of the drama division.

Lakefish will be remembered for his portrayal of Quillery, the radical Frenchman in last season's production, "Idiot's Delight," and his caricature of a cockney soldier in "The Terrible Meek."

In addition to numerous supporting parts in University productions, he has had a varied experience off the campus. He has been in Portland Civic Theater plays, and broadcast with the Baker Players on KOIN.

"Berkeley Square," is a costume fantasy set in modern and colonial times. It tells the story of a young American who goes to London to take the title to his ancestor's mansion at Berkeley Square. While looking through old diaries, and letters belonging to his deceased ancestors, he is whisked to the past in which he finds himself living among them. He falls in love, and the suspense mounts. To use a well known critic's expression "One is continually dancing on eggs that never break."

The cast includes a new cast of Guild Theater players: Ed Burtenshaw, Jeanette Harbert, Helene Parsons, Betty Fiksdal, Jerry Lakefish, Betty Jane Quigley, Pat Taylor, Gene Edwards, Parker McNeil, Trudy Harland, Ray Dickson, Don Hargis, and Jean Harper.

The box office at Johnson hall will open December 27. Tickets are now being sold by Bundles for Britain who are sponsoring the premiere.

Sammies, Kirkwood Photos Scheduled

Kirkwood co-op and Sigma Alpha Mu fraternity members will be photographed at Kennell-Ellis studio today for the Oregonana. The schedule for the remainder of the pictures is as follows: Phi Sigma Kappa, Thursday; Pi Kappa Alpha, Friday; Sigma Kappa, Monday; Yeomen, Tuesday; all unaffiliated seniors, Wednesday.

All students, in houses or other organizations, who have not had their Oregonana picture taken, should go to the studio before next Wednesday, which is the deadline.

Pauline Pengra Gets Vice-President's Post

Pauline Pengra was elected vice-president of Orides, organization for independent women, Monday night. She will succeed Carol Bird who resigned last week.

A music major, and junior at the University, Miss Pengra is also in charge of the Orides chorus, organized for the first time this year, and has served as program chairman for the independent group.

Filing System May Be Used For Activities

Board to Consider Committee's Five Recommendations

Containing five specific recommendations for use on the Oregon campus, an activity card file report has been submitted to the educational activities board for its consideration and approval. The activity card file system, which is designed to compile an accurate and complete record of all activities in which each student participates during his University career, will be an innovation so far as this University is concerned.

Busterud Chairman

With John Busterud, sophomore in law, as chairman, assisted by Cynthia Caulfield and Marian Allen, also sophomores, a committee has been active for the past month in conducting research of the system as practised on other campuses. After an exhaustive analysis the committee has made the following recommendations:

1. A colored card, 5 inches by 8 inches, with a different color for each of the four classes, shall be used in the file system, with a student keeping the same card each year.

2. The ASUO shall sponsor and be nominal head of the system, with the educational activities department in direct administration.

3. Freshman girls and boys interested in activities shall keep files in order with a sophomore student, preferably, in charge of the work.

4. The cards will list all activities engaged in by students. At the end of a temporary committee job, or after a permanent activity is well under way, it will be listed on the student's card. There will be no arbitrary appraisal of the student's work by the committee chairman.

5. Questionnaires, issued at registration, must be collected before students will be considered registered.

According to George Luoma, assistant educational activities manager, the files will be open to all campus organizations for reference and will probably be of great aid in future committee appointments.

Luoma also commended the efficient and concise work done by Busterud and his committee in their research and recommendations.

Graduate Students Plan Organization

Questionnaires are being distributed to graduate students this week to determine if they want an organization of their own and what kind would interest them.

Lynn Hutchinson, graduate in education, is temporary chairman of the group sponsoring the movement. Preliminary meetings have been held since their organization this fall, and Barney Bybee and Frank Larsell, graduates in psychology and English respectively, prepared the questionnaire.

One of the principal purposes is to act as a criticizing group of the present graduate setup.

Each department is distributing the questionnaires to all students registered in school with graduate standing. The sheets may also be obtained at the psychology department in Condon hall between 2 and 4 p.m. They should be returned by November 29.

Geologists to Attend Willamette Meeting Thursday Evening

Dr. Warren D. Smith, head of the geology and geography department, and Dr. Lloyd W. Staples, geology instructor, plan to attend a meeting of the branch chapter of the Geological Society of the Oregon Country, Thursday evening. The meeting will feature the installation of officers and is to be held on the Willamette university campus.

EASY ON THE DOWN BEAT

Position Filled By Ted Harmon

Managing Editor,
New Oregonana Post,
Chosen by Bishop

Ted Harmon, sophomore in journalism, has been appointed to fill the newly created Oregonana position of managing editor, according to Wilbur Bishop, Oregonana editor. Harmon was organization copy editor before receiving his new appointment.

In reference to the establishment of the new position Bishop stated, "The need for a managing editor was felt by previous Oregonana staffs but nothing was done about it. I know that our staffs in the past have been loosely organized and inefficient as a group—it has been too much of a one-man staff. It is my purpose this year, not only to put out a good Oregonana, but to establish an efficient organization."

Bishop also announced the appointment of Eleanor Beck, Portland, as one of the two executive secretaries for the 1941 Oregonana. Miss Beck will divide the secretarial duties with Doris Murphy.

Neil Koch, Eugene, was appointed subdivision editor last week and will edit the law school section in the Oregonana. The Lemon Punch, traditional humor section of the yearbook, will again be put under the charge of co-editors with J. Wesley Sullivan and Pat Erickson in joint control of the features and jokes.

Editor Bishop remarked in conclusion, "Laurita Christofferson, dependable secretary on three previous Oregonanas, is going on a program job in her position as assistant editor of the 1941 book."

The Oregonana staff will be given a final revision the first week in January, according to the editor.

Campus Radio Room One of Best on Coast

By BOB WHITELY

Of course there are no uniformed pages to take you around and see the numerous studios like they have in Radio City, 'cause there is only one main broadcasting room, but as far as equipment goes, it's second to none.

The broadcasting room is heavily soundproofed and insulated. Even the most minute of sounds is picked up on the super-sensitive microphones. You can't even enjoy a piece of gum, 'cause over the air it sounds like the waves beat-

Tickets on Sale

Tickets for the Oregon-Oregon State game must be purchased by presenting student body cards at the ticket office in McArthur court and paying $1.10.

As there will be no booth at Corvallis, students are urged to attend to this as soon as possible, according to Ansé Cornell, graduate athletic manager. The regular price of the game is $2.20 but those holding ASUO cards receive admission for half price.

Voice Majors To Broadcast

A new series of programs—one of the many given by University of Oregon music school students each week over station KOAC, Corvallis—will be given each Wednesday evening by voice students of Sigurd Nilssen, former Metropolitan star and now professor of voice here.

Everson Featured

On Wednesday night at 8 o'clock, Oberlin Everson, baritone from Clatskanie, will sing a program made up entirely of American songs. Selections will include "Gypsy John" by Clay, "Jeanie With the Light Brown Hair" by Fosters, "Cato's Advice" by Huhn, and "When I Have Sung My Songs" by Ernest Charles.

Tuesday's Programs

There will be two programs on Tuesday night. At 8 o'clock, Hal Young, professor of voice, will sing a program including "One Who Has Yearned Alone" by Tschaikowski, "The Last Hour" by Kramer, and "Die Lotusblume" by Schumann. At 8:30 p.m., a program of harp music will be given by Doris Helen Calkins, professor of harp. A program of string ensemble music will be heard from 8 to 8:30 Friday night.

Dads Provide Life Privileges

$1 Subscription
Asked in Drive
Of Parents' Group

Approved at the last meeting of the Oregon Dads' association, set in motion by President J. F. Riesch and Ed F. Averill, secretary of the dads' society, a movement is in progress among dads of Oregon students to set up a life membership organization, according to Dean Karl W. Onthank, executive secretary of the group.

In the notice sent to every one of the 3,000 or more Oregon dads, the fact was emphasized that membership in good standing did not require the payment of the asked-for $1 contribution, but with the contribution comes a card representing life-long organization membership.

350 Contribute

Dean Onthank reports that about 350 have sent in their contributions so far, signifying their desire to be on the life membership roll.

Through the cooperation of students in contacting their fathers this number may soon be swelled, Dean Onthank believes, and hopes that students will take an interest in helping build this new organization.

The purpose of the dads' group, as set forth in the general notice sent to Oregon dads by their officers, is "to cooperate with the University in its efforts to provide training that will fit our boys and girls for useful citizenship."

Law School to Hear Austrian Judge Talk

The second in the series of lectures sponsored by the Phi Delta Phi law school honorary will feature Dr. Walter Konirsch, former Austrian judge, who will speak to the law students at 4 p.m. Wednesday, November 27.

Dr. Konirsch, a recognized scholar in the field of Roman law, will discuss the influence of the Roman law on English common law. Members of the law school student body are invited to attend the lecture in Fenton hall, room 307.

Students Get Cuts In Magazine Rates

Campus living groups will be contacted tonight to inform students of a special Saturday Evening Post collegiate campaign which is being conducted by Jay Stott of the University magazine bureau, a senior in business administration.

Students will be able to get their Saturday Evening Posts at a special rate for six months if they subscribe by November 30. Subscribers will receive 26 issues of the Post from December 11 to June 4.

Turkey Day Fills Infirmary With Eleven Patients

The annual post mortems for Thanksgiving have been steadily rolling into the campus infirmary since classes have once again started.

Ray Packouz, Dick Igle and company are now "knowed" as the degree boys. They have just invented a new system where they measure each other's colds by the scientific method. What fun!

Thanksgiving vacation proved a boon to infirmary stock this week as Monday closed with a strong 11 patients. They include a various array of Oregon talent starting with: Corrine Pritchard, Jeanne Lehman, Mary Elizabeth Davidson, Milly Edwards, Sue Piel, Ruth Wilson, Marvin Christy, John DeSassise, Dick Igle, Ray (K.O.) Packouz, and Phil Osborne.

Bob Keen Calls Senior Meeting Thursday Night

Dance or Variety Show Question Will Face Organization

Seniors will meet in Villard hall Thursday night to decide whether they will sponsor the annual dance or a variety show this year, according to Bob Keen, senior class president. If the variety show is given, the script, continuity, and music will be written by an outstanding band leader who has written several Oregon songs. His name will be disclosed after the dance-show issue is decided, says Keen.

Campus Talent

Talent would be gleaned from all over the campus for the show. Including a glee club and a 40-piece orchestra, it would compare to the Masque and Wig shows put on by Princeton, Keen further declared.

The seniors are prepared to spend a large amount of money for either the show or dance, and if they decide on the dance, which has been one of the big affairs of the school in years past, they will try to get a big-name orchestra. Either of the events will be held in McArthur court sometime during winter term.

A uniform constitution will also be brought up for adoption at the senior meeting Thursday night. Class cards will not be required for entrance to the meeting.

Lecture Series Lists Austrian Ex-Jurist

As a preview to the regular address, Walter Konirsch, the former Austrian jurist, will give an address this afternoon at 4:00 p.m. in 307 Fenton hall on "The Influence of Roman Law on English Common Law." This speech is for students, faculty, and friends who are interested in law, political science and along the lines of a more technical discussion than his speech to be delivered on Thursday in Friendly hall "Administration of Justice in Germany." The Thursday speech will be one that a general audience can enjoy while this afternoon's speech is especially for those interested in a technical discussion on law.

This is the second of the series of lectures presented by the University lecture series. Mr. Rudolf Ernst of the English department is chairman of the University series here on the campus.

Radio Group Slates Professor's Play

"The House That Was Never Built," a play written by Associate Professor D. D. Gage of the B.A. school and adapted for radio by Don Hargis, will be presented tonight by a group from Tau Delta Chi, men's business administration honorary, from 7:30 to 8 over the regular Wednesday night B.A. school program.

Student Rally Will Arouse OO Thursday

ASOSC President,
Payne Will Speak;
Houses to Perform

Gerlinger hall rafters will shake as the Webfoots get on the rally boat in a pep assembly in the women's building assembly-gymnasium Thursday morning at 11 o'clock.

Plans formulated now for the program by Les Anderson and Bette Morfitt, assembly chairmen, include appearances by Oregon State College's Student Body President Doug Chambers, Earle Russell, yell king, and Tiger Payne, ASUO president.

The yell king's contribution to the program will be three new yells which he will lead in preparation for the Oregon State game Saturday.

Assembly leaders plan again to call on six houses to perform informally in the program. These six houses will be called on from the assembly floor and asked to do one of three things in response.

The six houses are Theta Chi, Kappa Alpha Theta, Alpha Tau Omega, Kappa Sigma, Zeta Tau Alpha, and Pi Kappa Alpha. The three things which they may be called on to do will be to sing either their sweetheart song, the Oregon Pledge song, or "As I Sit and Dream at Evening."

Other numbers on the program are being arranged for but are not definite as yet, Miss Morfitt and Anderson report. But they urge students to be in their seats in Gerlinger early to avoid having to stand for the program.

W.R.B. Willcox Repeats Talk

W. R. B. Willcox, professor emeritus of architecture, will give a talk on "Louis Sullivan, prophet of modern architecture," Wednesday evening in 207 Chapman hall.

Starting at 7:30 p.m., the lecture will be illustrated with slides.

This is the same speech that Professor Willcox gave to a large group in the Portland art museum, a week and a half ago.

According to faculty members of the University architecture school, the talk in Portland received wide publicity and Professor Willcox is repeating his lecture at the insistent requests of many Oregon students and Eugene townspeople.

Sullivan was the first prominent architect to break away from the conventional methods of copying old European architecture styles. He was censured severely for this, but his work, done near the turn of the century, still stands as a model for modern architectural trends.

Bible Study Group Will Meet at the YW With Dr. Branton

Dr. J. R. Branton's Bible discussion group will meet this afternoon at 4 o'clock in the YW Bungalow.

Although the Bible study group did not meet the Wednesday preceding Thanksgiving because of conflicting events, students will continue to meet regularly every Wednesday afternoon for instruction from now on.

Mrs. E. E. DeCou, executive secretary of the YW, stated, "This group is becoming one of the most popular of all the many activities. We wish to impress on the minds of the students that everyone is always welcome—boys and girls alike."

Loans Due Friday

Loans taken at registration for two months are due this week. They may be repaid at windows 1 and 2 on the second floor of Johnson hall.

All loans issued this term must be paid back before registration material for next term will be issued.
