Page Two

Saturday, November 30, 1940

The

The Oregon Daily Emerald, published daily during the college year except Sundays, Mondays, holidays, and final examination periods by the Associated Students, University of Oregon. Subscription rates: $1.25 per term and $3.00 per year. Entered as second-class matter at the postoflice, Eugene, Oregon.

INC., College publishers' re -Los Angeles-San Francis	presentative, 420
LYLE M. NELSON, Editor ASSOCIA	TE EDITORS:	JAMES W. FROST, Business Manager Hal Olney, Helen Angell
Jimmie Leonard, Managing Editor Kent Stitzer, News Editor		Fred May, Advertising Manager Bob Rogers, National Advertising Manager
Editorial and Business ( 8800 Extension: 382 Editor;	offices located or 353 News Office	ground floor of Journalism building. Phones ; 859 Sports Office; and 354 Business Offices.
Pat Erickson, Women's Editor ted Kenyon, Photo Editor tob Flavelle, Co-Sports	Wes Sullivan, Edutor Betty Jane Big Editor	WS STAFF Ass't News Tom Wright, Ass't Managing Editor gs, Ass't News Corrine Wignes, Executive Secretary set Managing Johnnie Kahananni, feature

Sen Christianson, Co-Sports Editor Ass't Managing Johnnie Editor

UPPER BUSINESS STAFF Alvera Maeder, Classified Advertising Man Bill Wallan, Circulation Manager ager Ron Alpaugh, Layout Production Manager Janet Farnham, Office Manager

Your Part In The War On 'Flu'

INFLUENZA has spread very rapidly on the campus during the past week and now is assuming the proportions of a minor epidemic. The infirmary with limited space has been turning away patients daily with only the most serious cases being admitted.

The situation is nothing to be alarmed about. Usually every year with the first rains a number of cases are reported. The vast majority of these cases can be cleared up by simple hospital treatment.

There are, however, some very definite measures students can take to prevent getting influenza. In a letter to the Emerald Dr. Fred N. Miller of the University infirmary sets down a few of them. Most of the measures are simple-students have probably heard them before-but if followed they will greatly lessen the chances of picking up the "flu" bug.

These measures are:

- (1) Get plenty of sleep
- (2) Prevent fatigue or exposure
- (3) Keep hands away from the nose and mouth
- (4) Be certain to wash hands in very hot water before meals
- (5) Don't visit those who are ill
- (6) If ill call a doctor immediately.

IN addition Dr. Miller makes the suggestion that house presidents and house managers make certain that all dishes are washed thoroughly in very hot water. Dishes should be left in water at least two minutes to be certain of killing all germs, he says. If this is done it will greatly eliminate the spreading of the germs in that manner.

House presidents also should report immediately all cases where students are feeling ill. A daily checkup would be an excellent precautionary measure, he writes.

Unfortunately "cold shots," gargles, and mouth washes are of no value against the "flu" germs. In some cases gargles irritate the mouth and throat and make the student more susceptible to the germs.

While most of the preventive measures suggested by Dr. Miller are very simple and doubtlessly have been told to studnts before, printing them here may serve as a reminder. By cooperating with the infirmary-by following these precautionary measures-students can help a great deal in checking this epidemic.

Coeds Look at a War

A college campus might be defined in one sense as a "group of people living together in an artificial world all their own, where the immediate problems of studying and social contacts cast most of the important crises of the outer world into a shadow of unreality." It is unusual then when a campus organization-particularly a coed group-comes out with a material contribution to a disaster in that "outer world." The organization was the Associated Women Student council . . . and the contribution is $30 to be donated to British war relief for use to buy three cots for English babies in the air raid shelters.

Such action produces a startling train of thought. The war is becoming closer and closer to home. The conscription, which directly affected a large percentage of male Webfoots and in an indirect way a large number of coeds, was the big-scale step that changed the war from something to provide good reading over the morning coffee to a war with a personal angle.

* * *

THE step of the AWS council does not, it would appear. indicate that the University is becoming more strongly pro-British. It does not indicate that the large percentage of anti-war believers famous on the Oregon campus have changed their minds. It does not mean that we believe it is America's fight, even now.

It seems to be only an indication of a realization by University students that there is the fiercest war the world has ever known now in progress . . . and that there is suffering and disaster that follows in its wake. Americans are full of humanitarian principles . . . and Oregon coeds, just as thousands of others all over the country are doing, made a contribution to relief for suffering, not to war itself.-H.A.

The Broadcaster's Serenade

THE American public certainly is well informed-I just jumped at that conclusion after dodging, or I should say trying to dodge, ten news broadcasters on my radio.

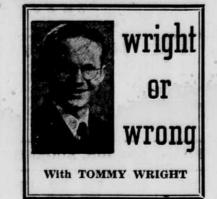

The people in other countries are forced to get their news through an official newspaper and thereby get only one side of it. They listen only to a few special news flashes, but not so we Americans. We have 976 news commentators on the air by courtesy of 976 advertisers to tell us that Mussolini piddled while Athens spurned. We must be well informed at any cost, even if every news commentator does say practically the same thing.

Usually at night when I come home I enjoy settling down beside the radio and working with some kind of a musical background. It does not hinder my concentration, but the minute a speaker starts I can no longer study. Never has there been a night that I could study for much longer than half an hour without having to get up and turn the radio of some behind the headlines or Hollywood gossip reporter.

It seems that my static inhaler is infested with these fasttalking, ear-splitting reporters, but I know that others are experiencing the same thing. A friend of mine in Chicago recently told me that he could tune some kind of a news broadcast at every hour of the day from 6 a.m. to 12 p.m.

recently counted 1101 special news broadcasts listed in one of the national radio magazines. This did not include 12 or more special network programs and about as many special Hollywood gossip reporters.

Perhaps it will be charged that this is a tirade by a news-

Pan mail continues to come in and we're becoming not a little worried. Maybe we wouldn't look so good without any hair, and with cold weather coming on we might catch a death-ocold from a dip in the race.

REBUKED ... ... by Vic Sears, Oregon Aggie tackle (as quoted in one Portland paper) "Some writer for the Oregon Emerald has referred to us as a bunch of Aggies from the Cowlege. Unless I miss my guess, he'll regret that statement." Help me out please, Ducks, and bring me a couple-o-dozen beaver pelts. ... by the Phi Delts, for putting one and one together and getting one-half. Carl Jantzen's ring is on the digit of Esther Horstkotte not on her sister Mary's. ... by friends of Pat Taylor.

The lad she is seeing is in the army air corps, not a marine. WHISPERS IN THE DARK Who is the law school chum they call Caleb, we've seen hanging around the Alpha Chis lately? . . . ADPi's Beverly Sutton gets a Delt pin from OSC -the loser Roy Boals of the northern branch . . . (note: George Varoff is out of town) so it's Jim West for Alpha O's Penny Mullen . . . and what happened to the Howard Cavanagh-Yvonne Torgler affair . . . Sigma Kappa Peggy Carnie drafts an SAE pin from a California institution and how is she going to wear it with the Kappa Sigma pin she has from deare olde Oregon? . . . Another late pin wearer is Milo Daniels of the Gamma Phis with one from a fellow named Hunt . . . Freshmen spent a half hour before they discovered they were at a sophomore meeting. THIS WEEK . . .

University of Oregon students move en masse to Corvallis to view the great game of punt, pass, and prayer-and to consume any other experience and stuff available.

Here is a warning to Oregon Piggers who desire to do a little fussing on the State campus. It isn't easy to take those girls. If you have any such

International Side Show By RIDGELY CUMMINGS The Iron Guardists have been It is 1:45 p.m. Saturday afternoon. You are sitting in Bell days, breaking into jails and field, Corvallis, waiting for the game to start. You are holding murdering their political enemies, mostly men who were the Emerald in your hand. The supporters of the former King reason for that is you brought Carol. Some 2000 persons are it over with you so you can reported slain during the last look up the players' numerals three days. The Iron Guard is pro-Nazi and many of the vic-You have been sitting in the bleachers for about twenty mintims are Jewish. Premier General Ion Antonescu is having a hard time trying to restore order. His army is reported fighting sharply with the Iron Guardists at Brasov and several other Rumanian cities with unpronounceable

names Intervention

Hitler's army is expected to intervene if Antonescu can't put down the insurrection. Although the rebels are pro-Nazi the chances are Hitler will take the government's side because he needs a stable regime that will insure the continued shipment of important supplies to Germany.

On other fronts, the Greeks are reported to be continuing their drive into Albania. The Greek island of Corfu, which lies off the coast of Epirus close to Albania, has been under merciless air bombardment and residents of a lunatic asylum in the city are said to have fled after a bomb damaged their building. If the lunatics could just cross the Adriatic and visit Mussolini they ought to feel right at home-although maybe that's unfair to Il Duce for though he is bitten by the suffering from the disease.

Kennedy's Theory

war bug he's not the only one Joe Kennedy, U.S. ambassador to Britain, has been vaccinated. In a statement last night he denied that Britain would lose the war and added, will benefit. "What I am concerned with is keeping America out of the war. eight districts with a $720 prize Everyone has known from the going to the best college show in each district. The Northwest section includes Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana, Wyoming, Utah, and Colorado. Last year the University of Wyoming won the award with its student show, "Here We Go Again." Longest Trip STUFF . . . The New York Philharmonic - Symphony orchestra is this year going to take its longest trip since 1930. In fact its going to come way west to Pittsburgh-practically on the Pacific coast. . . . People who conduct public opinion

London took a serious bombing last night, one of the heav-

Rubber Maps

Hitler isn't the only one who is changing the map these days.

An assistant to the dean of student affairs at the University of Minnesota has invented a sponge rubber relief map which will be much cheaper than the cumbersome plaster of paris

maps now in use. "A kid could throw an eraser at Pike's Peak

on a plaster map and it would break off," the inventor explained. "But these rubber ones,

* * *

And P.S.

fallen off sharply at the Uni-

* * *

Sky"

- also -

he is very ill indeed."

Enrollment in French has

-Minnesota Daily.

you can bounce on 'em!"

subject. From All Sides By CORINE LAMON Draft Evader Declaring that his conscience

on the sport page.

utes and you have read the game story very thoroughly, looked over the front page, and digested some of the editorials.

some passing acquaintances,

murmur a remark about the weather to your seat-mate, and finally in desperation turn

Let's see if that guy Cummings has got anything to say today, you think, and then you read the first line and say "how does he know that?" and we've

Dangerous Point

read this far then this is the dangerous point where we may part ways. We could be coy and make a play on "civil war," tying Oregon-OSC up with the fact that fighting in Rumania between the Iron Guardists and the army verges on outright

civil war-but it is not a joking

But if we have got you to back to the edit page.

got you hooked.

You exchange greetings with refused to let him register or have anything to do with the national draft, a former University of Kansas student awaits arrest and conviction. A philosophy major, the student withdrew from the university a week after registration day and made complete preparations for the arrest.

"I am utterly against anything to do with war . . . I couldn't permit myself to register . . . When I get out of the coop I intend to re-enroll at KU and get my degree," he stated. Punishment for violators of the selective service act is a $10,000 fine or five years imprisonment.

-University Daily Kansan.

beginning that I have been against American entry into the war." Wendell Willkie addressed an interfraternity conference last night and said he did not believe that a man should be called a "war-monger" because he advocated aid to Britain or a

"fifth columnist" because he believed that we should defend only our own shores. The defeated presidential candidate

called for continued aid to Bri#### tain. London Bombed

polls are finding a new and

BAND running amuk these last few BOX By BILL MOXLEY Snaring a big name band for a campus dance is like looking for a needle in ten hay stacks with somebody continually moving the hay. Orchestra-getter Pete Riley and his dance committee have been ransacking the country in search of a big name for the sophomore informal this December 7.

Telegrams have been flying thick and fast, but fate, failure, and the school authorities have dogged the heels of the dance committee from the start. Two of the nation's top negro bands were available for the 14th. We could have had our choice between Floyd Ray or Lionel Hampton. But no soap because exams will be lurking just behind the door by the

14th. Sophs Are Stymied

So at present the sophomores are stymied. But with a dying gasp they swear that they'll pick off the best campus talent available. Hurrah for a good try at least.

The American Society of Composers, Authors and Publishers sends a special bulletin to the University regarding the second year of its $720 Fellowship award. Last year ASCAP started its nation-wide Fellowship Competition for Composers and Authors of College Musical Plays in the belief that improved standards of college theatricals and musical shows will reflect in better work for the professional stage, and that the entire entertainment field The nation is divided into

A Defense of a Privilege

OBJECT of much criticism from harassed sports writers of late has been Oregon's football mentor, Tex Oliver. The reason-Tex has been holding secret practice in preparation for the big game of the year, the annual "civil war."

A few days ago a story appeared in the Oregon Journal sports section ridiculing I'ex, with the light, flippant, journalistic touch, for his rather long, unbroken string of secret practices. The story rambled on at considerable length to point out a few of the things that were definitely known about the Oregon squad, among which were such profound bits of wisdom as the following:

(1) Oregon has a football team, and

(2) A game will be played at Corvallis next Saturday between Oregon and Oregon State, and

(3) Oregon has been practicing for the game, and so on endlessly.

Now that is all very well. Far be it from us to deny the worthy gentlemen of the press the privilege of having their fun. But aren't they forgetting something?

Aren't they forgetting that holding secret practices is a coach's prerogative? Every coach does it. Possibly not as much as Tex has done of late but, never-the-less, we insist that that is Tex's privilege. Why shouldn't he have the right to hold secret practices as much as he pleases? 10 X W

A REN'T they forgetting that Tex is an acknowledged master when it comes to football tactics? Even the California papers have conceded that much-r, anti-Oregon as they are. Admitting this then, wouldn't it seem that Tex is deserving of a little respect?

Aren't they forgetting that Oregon is approaching one of the most important games of the year-the annual "civil war''? And aren't they forgetting that it is more or less enstomary for teams to hold secret practice before the big game of the year ?

Two things are certain. One-the old saying, "He who laughs last laughs best" is still true. Two-Oliver will have the last laugh if his underrated squad should dump the Beavers today

We feel confident that the Duck squad is not going to be such a weak, unresisting victim of the highly-touted Beaver attack as some people seem to think. We have never, in the three years that Oliver has been here, seen an Oregon team that wasn't plenty scrappy and wasn't likely to be a big headache for any team in the conference.

As a final point might we point out that these journalistic artists would be highly offended if Tex were to try to tell them how they should write their stories or what kind of headlines they should put on them. Why then should they expect to tell Oliver how to coach his team -H.O.

paperman against the newspaper's competitor - the radio. Perhaps it is, but a newspaper can be read whenever convenient. Furthermore, a new edition isn't pushed before you every half hour.

"Good evening ladies and gentlemen this is Tommy Rot bringing you the latest news of the day through the courtesy of Big Ben your local plumber . . ." have become familiar words to every American radio owner.

Americans are great people, they must have something to do, some fad to follow. First it was yo-yo, then miniature golf, jig-saw puzzles, and "Confucius say" . . . now it is a new game called "Can You Take It" or "Dodging the News Broadcasters."-L.N.

Biography in Crisis

London.

the end of World War I he was a colonel and later served as military attache in Rome and

In the summer of 1938, An-tonescu, then chief of staff, fell into disgrace. At a social function he refused to kiss the hand

of Magda Lupescu, King Carol's mistress, and was thereby demoted to a minor command.

Shortly after Antonescu's resignation from the army in November, 1938, an abortive

revolt against Carol broke out and Antonescu was imprisoned for a short time. Opposing the cession of northern Bukovina

TWO TOP FEATURES!

"Three Men From

Texas"

with William Boyd

and Russell Hayden

Boris Karloff in

The Ape

plus -

appointment as premier.

purges.

By J. PARKE

If it is a prerequisite for aspiring leaders who wish to join the "new European order" to have spent some time in prison or exile, then Premier-General Ion Antonescu of Rumania, too, is well qualified.

For only three days after his release from prison, September 5, 1940, Antonescu was made premier by King Carol II. Not only was parliament dissolved and the constitution abolished. but Iron Guardist and other pressures forced Hohenzollern Carl II to leave, as well.

Assuming the ministries of war, armaments, navy, and interior to himself. Premier Antonescu started his rule with the intention of establishing a broad national government, with a strong army flavor and in which all parties and the Iron Guard were represented. Among his first acts were the lifting of the press censorship and the cancellation of extraordinary police measures which had been in effect under Carol. But to smooth over the difficulties caused by Rumania's territorial losses to Hungary proved not ceasy. In the spirit of the Vienna agreement, however, Antonescu sent messages of assurance to both Hitler and Mussolini.

Antonescu, described as honest, serious, clever, well-informed, pro-German and pro-British was educated at military academies in France. At plans. Expect to sign your name and life away on the house registers, and if you don't make the curfew deadline, get ready to make a pass at your pocketbook and pay for your overtime pleasure. And you had better keep one eye open for this columnist unless you want the friend back home to hear about this weekend fling. And please don't point me out to any vicious looking Staters, "Cause I love life, and I wanta live." And I hear that sometimes they have some pretty tough farmers patroling Bell field on Saturday afternoons. OK. We're all going to the game, and we're going to watch the Webfoots flop a spot of cockiness out of those funny creatures with the pelts. To make it a big day bring along your Echo, and Shadow. OVERHEARD . . .

The coed who says she has a very good reason why we shouldn't have to register on January second - Quote - I won't be awake before thenunquote.

CONCLUSION .... Oregon I pledge to thee. That where there's dirt, Well there I'll be. Both now and in the days to be. I'll write it down for history. At a recent tournament at Mar-and Bessarabia to the Soviet quette university, in which 1,000 Union in July, 1940, Antonescu youngsters participated, a "human was again imprisoned until his chessboard," with children as pawns, was used to popularize the Recent developments in Rugame mania would indicate that the The original manuscript of a country had experienced one of a report signed by Hernando Corthe first phases of all strong dictez, sixteenth-century governor of tatorships, that of political New Spain, is in the University of Texas library.

with Johnny Mack Brown MCDONALI PYFLOWE A NEW BILL! Carefree and Collegiate! Norma Shearer and Robert Taylor in "TOO MANY 'Escape' GIRLS" - plus -Dancing on a Dime with LUCILLE BALL with Grace McDonald and RICHARD CARLEON and Robert Paige

iest raids in weeks.

On the other side of the world Japan formally recognized the puppet regime of Wang Ching-Wei in a treaty signed at Nanking. Spokesmen of the Chung-King government described the action as "illegal and meaningless."

Chiang Kai-Shek probably laughed in his sleeve. Manchukou, a puppet itself, promptly recognized the Wang regime, but it is very doubtful that Washington or London will follow suit.

Harriet Elliott, only woman member of the national defense advisory commission, is on leave as dean of women at the University of North Carolina. versity of Texas. Students seem

