Splash! Splash! Splash! — Splash!
Some eight hundred fifty pounds of humanity tumbled into the ring and clambered over hurriedly, blowing water and muttering vindications on this writer. In other words, I finally collected on a wager with Messers Dick Ashcom, Jim Harris, Marsh Stenstrom, and Elliott Wilson in the order named.

These four tossed me in the race three times following the Oregon-UCLA game because we won. Then Oregon lost to Cal by one touchdown—so in they went, one each.

They were very decent about it. They didn't mind because I was 45 minutes late for the party, and they didn't try to toss me in because of the Oregon-Oregon State game. They merely stood with their backs to the edge of the race and allowed themselves to be pushed in. Great sport.

Stenstrom Bulldozes

Stenstrom seemed more like a bulldozer than a trick in the game Saturday. Time and again he hit the left side of the Oregon State line—the section of the Beaver line which had been impregnable to attack during the entire season except in a couple of instances.

The line would hold for a second then break as Stenstrom bulldozed his way through. Oregon State players Vic Sears, Johnny Leovich, and Len Younce were just no match for the crunching tactics of Stenstrom. He was charging so low and so hard that after going seven or eight yards past the line of scrimmage, he would fall forward in the mire simply because his churning legs could not hold his torso off the ground.

Much yardage was gained in this way for Oregon. It all served to strengthen the conclusion reached after earlier games that Oregon's lack of scoring punch was due to non-use of a big, tough fullback. Stenstrom never carried the ball more than three to five times in most of the other games. However, when he was given the chance, Stenstrom powered through the Oregon State line, and there was nothing on the Beaver bench which could stop him.

Game's Bests

Best play of the game—Tommy Roblin's reverse to Curt Mecham which was good for some 35 yards and an Oregon touchdown. It was called at the right time as far as Oregon State was concerned, for they didn't expect it. The reason it worked so well then was because the whole Oregon team moved over with Roblin. Not one man lingered behind. This is the play which Tex Oliver designed, basing it on Roblin's "wrong-way" run against Washington State.

On the other play, Roblin had started around one end, and then reversed his field and scored around the other when he saw he was bumped in. Smartest bit of work—Benedict Berry on a pass play. Three men had Berry nearly smothered far behind the line of scrimmage. Berry tore himself away and moved down the sideline, gaining some 12 yards on the play. At least half a dozen Beavers had hands on him during the play.

Credit Oregon State with at least a good chance to tie Oregon in the game. Beaver receivers dropped two passes which would have been good for touchdowns. Oregon State tried the reverse which scored for Oregon about two minutes after the Ducks pulled it. Had the first ball carrier gone another five yards before giving the ball to Gene Gray, Gray would never have been caught. He's that fast.

Halski Was Great

Chet Halski pretty well proved his superiority over George Peters as a blocking back. Halski was smart on signal-calling, all over the field making defensive tackles, and mowing down a couple of guys on about every offensive play.

Oregon State knew they were beaten Saturday. For it was the first time during the season that the Beavers have been behind at halftime. In all their other games they have either been tied or ahead of the opposition. Oregon held a 13 to 0 lead.

Confidence Needed

"The fellows need more confidence," stated Hobby Hobson, following the two losses sustained by his Oregon basketball team. There is another reason which is being felt by nearly everyone on the campus about this time. A slight bit of flu is prevalent among all of the students and is also hitting the hoop crew. Archie Marshik is running a high fever. Because of this and because of finals for the traveling squad, Hobby is cancelling practice sessions for the remainder of this week for the ten men making the trip.

Trainer Bob Officer is also ill with influenza. Hobby admitted that he has wonderful material on his team. According to Hobson, Warren Taylor and Wally Borrevik look as good now as Laddie Gale and Slim Wintermute, all-Americans, did when they were sophomores. In fact, at times these two sophs look better than the former greats.

As for the first two defeats, Hobby claims they were due to the play of former Oregon players. In the Signal Oil game, it was Chuck Patterson, while Bob Anet, John Dick, and Ted Sarpola did the job in the Rubenstein game.

New York university's reserve officers' training corps has given basic and advanced courses to 699 students.

Phi Delta Theta Takes 'B' League Crown By Downing Alpha Tau Omega Sextet, 15-6, 15-11, in Donut Finals

By FRED TREADGOLD

Two new volleyball champions were crowned yesterday. "A" league finalist was Alpha Tau Omega, while champions of the "B" circuit was Phi Delta Theta.

A powerful ATO sextet was forced considerably by Phi Sigma Kappa's strong club before eking out a tight 15-11 and 16-14 triumph in the last contest of the playoffs. The Taus went through the regular three-game league schedule and two post-season tilts without a falter in marking up their title conquest.

Down Susies, ADPis To Enter Finals; Meet Thursday

By NANCY LEVICH

Hendricks and Orides volleyball teams fought their way to the final match by taking Susan Campbell and ADPI in hotly contested semifinal battles Tuesday in Gerlinger courts.

Hen hall topped the first half of the game with Susies by a score of 10 to 18 and maintained the lead to overcome a hard-fighting Susie squad. The final score conceded Hendricks a 33 to 20 win. Hendricks teamwork piloted by Beverly Goetz and Betty Hecht kept their team ahead of the opposing Susan coeds.

Pugs Switch Meet Date

Oregon's all-campus boxing tournament has been postponed until the second week of winter term. Boxing Coach Vaughn Corley announced yesterday. This shift in dates for the meet was prompted by the fact that a smoker at the time it was originally scheduled, December 2 and 3, would have interfered with final examinations.

Assistant Coach Pete Riley said that it's not yet too late for boxers to sign up but stressed the point that boxers who are not working out and are not in shape will not be accepted. Boxers can sign up in the boxing room of the PE building.

Officials for the matches have not yet been chosen but Riley said that they probably will be picked from the physical ed school.

In the meantime the aspirants to the varsity boxing team are working out regularly in preparation for the matches scheduled with the Eugene Elks club. The Elks have a very strong team and are highly respected by the "experts" in local boxing circles. The Ducks and Elks will clash on December 11.

Dallas, Wetmore Will Co-Captain Duck Swim Team

Sandner Defeated In Intrasquad Diving Competition

Jack Dallas, Pacific coast breaststroke record holder, and Sherm Wetmore, holder of the coast 150-yard backstroke record, will co-captain the University of Oregon swimming team for the 1941 season, according to an announcement made by Coach Mike Hoyman yesterday.

Both members of Oregon's eastern invading relay team of last year, they hold several coast and northwest records and they have few peers in the West in their favorite events. Dallas will not only work in the breaststroke this year, but is also slated for a major role in the diving and free style events.

Dallas caused a mild upset in Friday's intrasquad meet by defeating the veteran Al Sandner in the diving by three or four points. According to Hoyman, Dallas only recently began diving, but has shown amazing progress.

Irving Shines

In the second heat of the 440 race Friday, Dallas and Wetmore wound up in a blanket finish along with Stew Randall, finishing in that order with but a few yards separating them in the fast time of 5:24.

Bob Irvin, promising freshman free style ace, put on one of the best individual shows in the meet with decisive victories in the first heat of the 440 and in the fastest 60-yard race. Irvin took the distance race in a breeze in 5:25, and out-touched Randall of the varsity in the 60 in :30.

Horne, Stuart Named On Oliver's All-Coast

Four members of Stanford University's Rose Bowl bound team, three University of Washington men, and two University of Oregon gridders were named on Coach Tex Oliver's first string all-coast team. California and Oregon State college placed one man each.

Stanford dominated the backfield. With Frankie Albert at quarterback, Norm Standlee at fullback, and Pete Kmetovick at right half, only Hugh Gallarneau of the Indians was missing from the all-coast starting backfield. Gallarneau, who was named on the NEA all-American was crowded out of the left halfback post by Washington's great punter Dean McAdams.

Oliver put Dick Horne of Oregon and Jay MacDowell of Washington on the flanks and plugged the center of the line with Shaughnessy's 200-pound junior center, Vic Lindskog.

Jim Stuart Edges Out Sears

Beaver Leonard Younce and Ray Frankowski of Washington round out the first team at let and right guard respectively.

Oregon had two men on the first eleven, three on the second, and four on the third for a total of nine players on the three teams.

Stanford and Washington each placed six men on the three teams while the Trojans were represented by five players. OSC brought two gridders and WSC and UCLA one each.

The selections:

Position	Player	School

Chi Psi, Phi Psi Meet In 'Beer Bowl' Brawl

The annual and now traditional football battle between two of Oregon's fraternities, the Phi Psi, Chi Psi teams has been scheduled for this coming Sunday at 10 o'clock.

This battle for football supremacy has been going on between these two organizations for some 13 years with neither team gaining any lead in statistics thus far because no record has been kept of the games. The game is played with both teams wearing football uniforms and under standard football regulations.

As traditional as the game, is the party given for the winners by the losing ball club. As the publicity man for the game put it, they will adjourn to some of the neighboring hills next spring and swing out with a "beer bust."

Captains for the games as well as lineups and officials will be announced later in the week.

'Super' Varsity To Open Season Against SON Five

Coach Bobby Anet Selects Seven Men For Weekend Trip

While the varsity prepared to embark on their third annual east-west trip Friday, it was announced yesterday that the super-varsity would get under way, in what probably will be a full season's schedule, at Ashland Friday and Saturday against the Southern Oregon normal quintet.

Made up of varsity squad men who will be left at home when the ten-man Webfoot squad leaves, the reserves or "Rangers" will remain in line for any varsity berth and will be moved up if their performance warrants it. The games will be regulation contests, no player participating being held out of competition, and all eligibility rules will be intact.

The Rangers will be coached by Bobby Anet, All-American guard and captain of Oregon's national champs of 1938. Last year's captain and All-American, John Dick, was slated for the coaching position, but was forced to give it up because of his heavy law school schedule.

A squad of seven men will likely make the trip to oppose Jean Eberhart's ever-dangerous SONs, although some changes are possible. Those making up the squad at present are Leonard Gard, Earl Sandness, and Ralph Fuhrman, forwards; Bill Borchert, center, and Toiva Pippo, Walt Reynolds, and Joe Triano, guards.

New students at New York's Union University seminary represent 54 universities and colleges.
