Kitchen Gathers Bunions In Lines Of Emerald Duty

The Emerald must go through! When his car stopped early yesterday morning in front of the Hilyard House co-op, Jeff Kitchen, sophomore in journalism in charge of campus delivery, had to deliver the rest of a heavy load of Emeralds on foot.

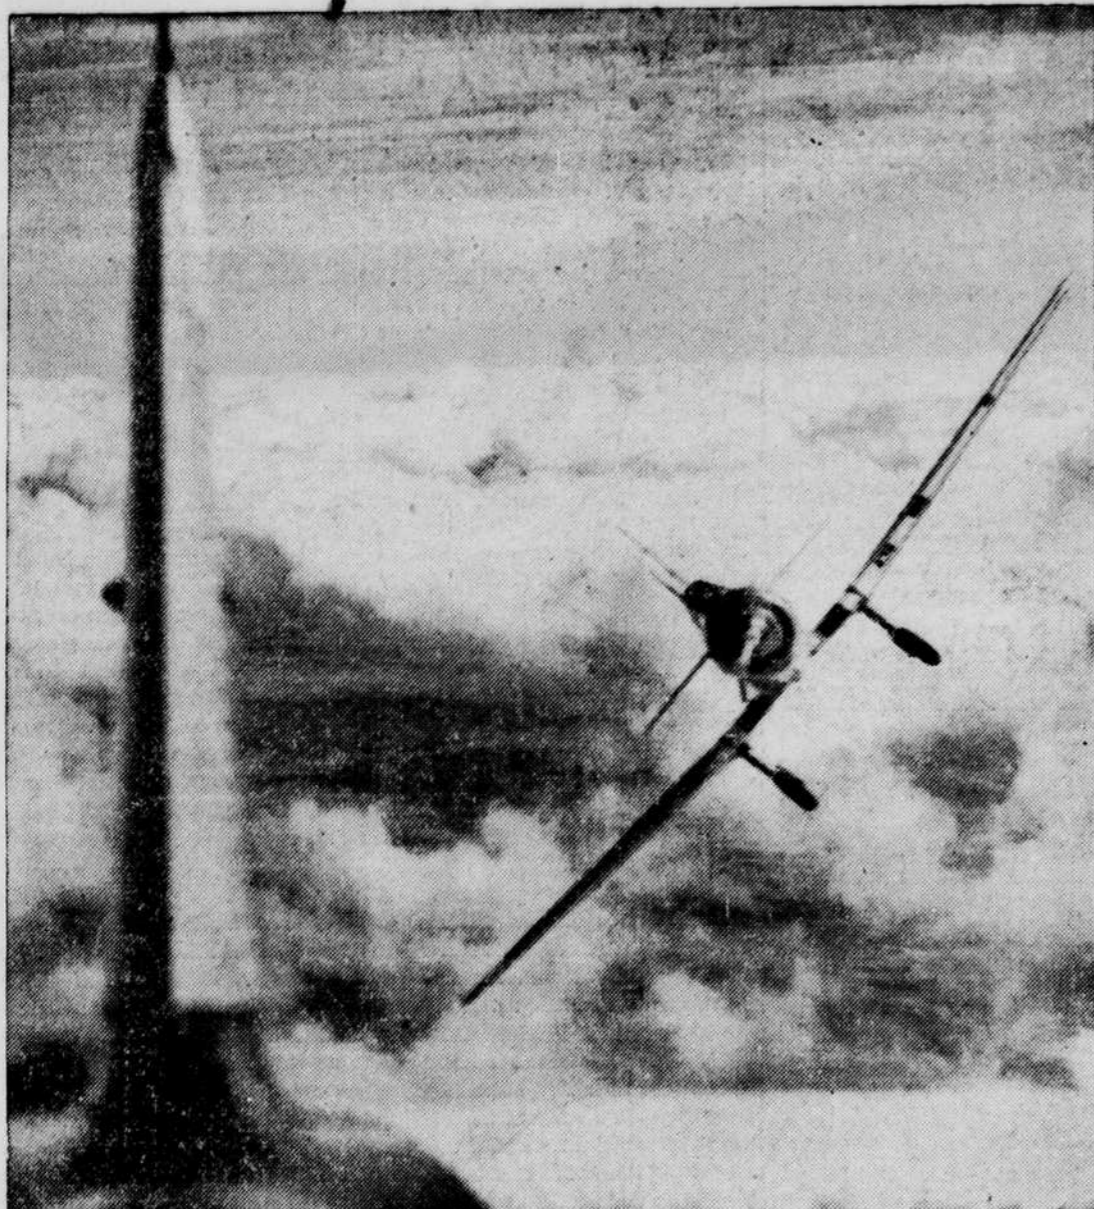

Papers for all houses on the millrace remaining to be delivered, Kitchen walked over 12 blocks scarcely able to see over the stack of Emeralds he was carrying.

Teacher Prospects To Meet Thursday

All prospective teachers who plan to avail themselves of the services of the University teacher placement service in obtaining teaching positions for next year will meet on Thursday, December 5, at 4:15 p.m., room 4, education building.

Professor Ernest Moll of the English department has a poem, "The Cliffs of England Stand," published in the Repertoire section of December's Atlantic Monthly.

HE'S ONLY FOOLING

When a flying cadet at Randolph field, Texas, went up for flight practice recently, he found an "enemy" on his tail—another cadet mixing pleasure with business. Examiners for applicants for the army air corps will be here through Friday.

ADS Delegates Will Tour State

Timberline Lodge, McKenzie River On Trip Schedule

Delegates who come to Oregon from colleges and universities in all sections of the United States for the national convention of Alpha Delta Sigma, advertising fraternity, in April will learn about Oregon the easy and pleasant way, it was announced here today by Bob Rogers, Eugene, program chairman.

Although business sessions will be sandwiched in during the five days the chapter representatives will be here, the delegates will see the famous McKenzie river country and the more daring will ride river boats down the dashing rapids, they will be taken on tours of the Willamette valley, and will end the convention at Timberline lodge, high on the side of Mount Hood.

At least 40 delegates and members from the 21 active chapters are expected to be on hand for the event. Colleges and universities which will be represented include Universities of Missouri, Washington, Oregon, Syracuse, Alabama, California, Southern California, California at Los Angeles, Wisconsin, DePauw, Butler, New York, Temple, Minnesota, Stanford; Oregon, Pennsylvania, and Washington State colleges, College of City of New York, Franklin and Marshall college, and San Jose State college. Representatives from a number of alumni chapters are also expected to attend.

Museum Receives New Oriental Books For Reference Use

A book on Chinese ceremonial paper and others on contemporary problems in the Orient have been cataloged recently in the Murray Warner museum library, Mrs. Marjorie Reynolds, librarian, announced.

Dard Hunter's "Chinese Ceremonial Paper" is a monograph relating the fabrication of paper and tinfoil and their use in Chinese rites and religious ceremonies.

"Our Future in Asia," by Aura Smith, New York Times correspondent, presents America's stakes in the Orient and their meaning for peace or war. In "Twin Stars of China" Evans Fordyce Carlson, a former officer of the U.S. marines, writes about present-day China, its war leaders, people, and social, political, and economic ideals for the future.

"Foreign Devils in the Flowery Kingdom," by Carl Crow, presents a lively and humorous story of a foreigner in China and the way of life that is fast disappearing. Another new book by Mr. Crow is "The Chinese Are Like That."

These books are for reference only. Hours for the museum library are from 2 to 5 p.m. every day except Saturday and Sunday, and entrance is through the east side door.

Warner Art Museum Shows Periodicals

A student would logically expect to see such publications as Magazine of Art, Antiques, and Bulletin of the Art Institute of Chicago in the library of the Murray Warner art museum, but would he think of finding Academy of Political Science Proceedings? Yes, it is there.

Some of the other periodicals received in the art library as part of its collection of Far East material are: Amerasia, T'ien Hsia, published under the auspices of the Sun Yat-sen Institute for Advancement of Culture and Education in Chungking; The China Journal, published in Hongkong; The China Weekly Review; The Trans Pacific published in Tokyo; Foreign Policy Bulletin; and Far Eastern Survey. "The art library is open every afternoon from 2 to 5 o'clock except Saturday and Sunday," reports Mrs. Marjorie Reynolds, librarian. "It will close for exam week, however."

Vocational Expert, Awarding of Plaque Planned for Meeting

Mrs. Wendel Van Loan, assistant director of the Eugene Vocational school, will speak, and the Mortar Board plaque will be presented at the AWS assembly Thursday at 4 p.m., announced Betty Buchanan, president of the organization.

Mrs. Van Loan, who has been with the vocational school since it began will discuss, "Careers for Women."

Recipients of the plaque, will be the three sophomore students who had the highest grade point average last year.

Business Honorary Holds Installation; Fetes New Members

Tau Delta Chi, business administration honorary, for men, held their installation ceremony at Gerlinger Sunday evening, followed by a banquet at the Del Rey in honor of the ten new members.

Extension Division Offers New Courses

Courses in aeronautical navigation, constructive accounting and art for teachers are included in the winter term schedule of classes being prepared by the general extension department.

Under consideration are courses in foods, and the literature of the Bible. Succeeding "Problems in Child Welfare" offered this term by Dr. L. S. Bee of the sociology department is the course in "Community Organization."

In response to requests, the department may open classes in The Dalles, Dallas, and one in Douglas county. Either Oakland or Yoncalla will be the center.

During the fall term the seven Eugene classes have enrolled 126 students. Six classes in Salem have 134 and two in Klamath Falls have 54. With one class each; Ashland has 28; Baker, 32; Corvallis, 27; Hillsboro, 30; Lakeview, 31; and Medford, 32.

Portland, which is not under the Eugene office, enrolled more than 2,000 during the fall term.

Dr. Froelich G. Rainey of the University of Alaska has discovered a townsite indicating a non-Eskimo race lived 100 miles above the arctic circle thousands of years ago.

Woman Appeals To Ring Finder For Lost Jewel

As a reminder to the honest, but thoughtless student, who reported finding a ring consisting of pearls and onyx to Miss Ruth Travis, secretary in the athletic department, and then neglected to deposit it in the lost and found, as directed, is requested to return the ring immediately to the activities office in McArthur court.

The ring was left in the washroom of McArthur court during rush week, by an Astoria woman, and has great sentimental, as well as financial value, since it was inherited from her mother. To relieve the anxious owner the girl who found the ring is urgently requested to return it immediately.

Former UO Student Confined to Hospital

Wilfred Brown, '30, a graduate of the Oregon school of journalism, who is now working in the Trans-Radio Press office in San Francisco, is reported recuperating at the Eugene hospital after a recent operation.

His wife, the former Elinor Henry, '34, and a small daughter are also staying in Eugene.

International Club Schedules Speaker

Darlene Warren, senior in speech and a member of Delta Sigma Rho, will talk to members of the International club in alumni hall this evening at 7:15 on impressions from her trip to Mexico.

Miss Warren was in Mexico City from June to September this year, attending the summer session of the University of Mexico.

Plans for organization of the club and election of officers will follow the talk. Michi Yasui, junior in arts and letters and member of Phi Theta Upsilon, is in charge of the meeting.

Students who are interested in foreign nationalities and countries, are invited to attend, according to Rev. C. E. Funk, club adviser and director of Wesley house.

Co-op to Display Chinese Novelties

A table of Chinese goods will be on display all day Thursday and Friday in the Co-op, with Wardeen Hadley being in charge.

These Chinese imported articles were formerly shown at a tea given last Wednesday in Wesley house. They include wares of copper, brass, pewter, jewelry, cinnabar, linen, cloisonne, and various novelties. The display will be placed on a table on the balcony. All articles are for sale.

Boarding Students Requested to Report To Johnson Hall Now

"Students who plan to live in a boarding house or private homes next term will be able to speed up registration if they report the place in which they plan to stay to the housing office in Johnson hall before the end of this term," Mrs. E. M. Morris, housing secretary, reports.

Their housing records will be made out before registration day, if thus made possible, and their housing cards will then be ready for them when they are needed during registration, according to Mrs. Morris.

Student Geologists See Oakridge Dam

The proposed Dorena dam site, located near Oakridge, was observed by around 60 general geology students on a field trip Sunday afternoon. Accompanied by Dr. L. W. Staples, geology instructor, the group saw the two natural abutments which will be used if this dam, which will be the only concrete dam in the Willamette Valley project, is built.

Several stops were made on the 100-mile trip to analyze the general terrain of the country and results of stream erosion. The party went in the University truck and private cars.
